Fishboat Grounded; All Crewmen Rescued

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Nine crew members of the grounded and sinking 72-foot Canadian halibut boat Dollina were rescued by U.S. Coast Guard helicopter today from the southwest tip of Kodiak Island.

Coast guard headquarters here said the helicopter took the men to the coast guard Loran station on Sitkinak Island. They were to be flown by plane from there to Kodiak.

The master of the Dollina, Hank Wisse, sent an SOS Tuesday night reporting his ship was aground and breaking up in Sitkinak Strait.

Wisse said four of the crew managed to get into a liferaft, but it drifted away before the five others could board it. The raft later was spotted by a coast guard search plane on the beach after a flare was shot in the air.

The coast guard said that besides Wisse the only other crewman identified was the engineer, Ray Karjala.

What caused the boat to go aground about 110 miles southwest of Kodiak was not known.

The Dollina is owned by Norman Fiddler of Vancouver.

British Dodge More Grenades

ADEN—Arab nationalists hurled grenades and fired on British troops in strikebound Aden today as soldiers cleared barricades from narrow streets in the old Arab district of Crater, part of Aden township.

One Arab was wounded by shots aimed at British forces in Crater, scene of the worst violence in the last three days, but there were no British casualtis.

The troops occupied the market square and moved through crowded, twisted streets in a hunt for terrorists. No casualties were reported from scattered bombing incidents elsewhere in Aden.

Th South Arabian port remained in the grip of a general strike since Saturday, and a broadcast from neighboring Yemen said the nationalists planned to continue it until Sunday.

Since Arab extremists stepped up their clashes with British and South Arabian federal troops Monday, five Arabs have been killed and 15 wounded. Twelve British soldiers and three policemen have also been wounded.

PROTEST UN MISSION

Two rival nationalist groups are protesting the visit of a UN mission studying problems of independence for the Federation of South Arabia—12 sheikdoms and sultanates with Aden as the hub. Britain has promised independence by next year.

Thirty attacks on British forces were reported Tuesday, less than one-third as many as occurred Monday.

But a spokesman for the three-man UN mission said it would proceed with its program "irrespective of the situation."

Open rivalry was developing between the nationalist groups and there were reports of bitter street fights amang them.

TOWARD UN

Thant Raps Hanoi Attitude

GENEVA (AP) — United Nations Secretary-General U Thant said today there is an increasing danger the war in Vietnam may extend beyond its borders.

Addressing a luncheon of the foreign correspondents in this Swiss city, Thant said:

"Prospects for peace in Vietnam today are as distant as they were a year ago."

"I may also add that because of the increasing intensification of the war there is a greater danger today of the conflict widening into a larger war going beyond the frontiers of Vietnam."

Thant came here for consultations with the administration of the UN European headquarters. He is to leave this weekend for Ceylon and a tour of Asia.

The secretary-general said North Vietnam's attitude has made it virtually impossible for the UN to continue any active mediation in the conflict.

"When the government of North Vietam decided to allow its representative to receive me in Burma a few months ago they made it very clear to me that the meeting was arranged because of personal considerations, and not because I am the secretary-general of the United Nations.

"In their view the United Nations has no role to play in Vietnam, and their representative talked to me not as the secretary of the United Nations, but as an Asian who understands what it means to struggle for the independence of one's country."

SCISSORS TREATMENT FOR DUTCH BEATNIKS

AMSTERDAM (AP)—Some 120 Dutch sailors and marines stormed into Amsterdam's central station hall Tuesday night, rounded up scores of beatniks who were annoying passengers and gave them all military-style haircuts.

At the sound of a navy whistle the servicemen sealed off the hall as four police stood by and laid into the beatniks with belts.

THIEU READY TO MEET WITH HANOI LEADER

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu said today that if North Vietnam sincerely wants peace he would be willing to meet with President Ho Chi Minh, at the demilitarized zone. But before any meeting can take place, Thieu said, there must first be a ceasefire and Communist assurances they will not take advantage of it by infiltrating more men and war supplies into the south.

WITH LOTS OF AMBITION

It's A Go-Go Cabinet With Accent on Youth

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A sizeable dose of youthful bounce has been injected into the federal cabinet with Prime Minister Pearson's latest appointments.

In an era when many seem obsessed with the age of political leaders, almost half of the members of the Liberal administration are now under 50 and two are in their thirties.

Mr. Trudeau is a bilingual Montreal lawyer with an excellent reputation as an intellectual and scholar in political science, economics and constitutional law.

NON-CONFORMIST

A bit of a non-conformist, the new justice minister is as at-home in a pair of jeans and sandals as the more dignified raiment associated with a former law professor.

Then there is John Turner who at 37 has had more than a year in the cabinet and now has his own portfolio as registrar general.

Also a bilingual lawyer and a bachelor from Montreal, Mr. Turner is a dynamo of restless energy who is in great demand on the political speech-making circuit.

He is a handsome, ambitious young man whose whole appearance suggests he was cut from the cloth of the Kennedy era.

Micheners Flying Home Next Week

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Canadian High Commissioner Roland Michener, named Tuesday as Canada's new Governor-General, is expected to fly to Ottawa April 12, Canadian officials said here today.

They said the Canadian government probably will send a Yukon aircraft to fly him home for the installation ceremony.

The 66-year-old former speaker of the House of Commons is due to fly to Katmandu Sunday or Monday to take leave of Nepalese King Mahendra, to whose government he was accredited as ambassador.

Later he will take leave of Indian President Sarvapalli Rakhakrishnan and the diplomatic corps in New Delhi where he represented Canada as high commissioner for the last 2½ years.

Michener told reporters that his installation should take place as soon as possible because of the urgent work awaiting him and his wife welcoming visiting dignitaries to Expo '67, which opens April 28.

Indications are he will be sworn in April 17.

FOR ANTI-QUEBEC STATEMENTS

Colleagues Blast Outspoken Grit MP

OTTAWA (CP)—Spearheaded by Auguste Choquette, sharp protests were made in the weekly caucus of Liberal MPs today over statements last week by Ralph B. Cowan, member for York-Humber.

Mr. Cowan had accused Prime Minister Pearson in a public speech of making false statements, of being a weak leader and of giving in to any extreme demands by French-Canadians.

Informants said the issue was hotly discussed but no decision was reached to take any action against Mr. Cowan.

Mr. Choquette, member for Lotbiniere, said he remains opposed to the views of Mr. Cowan "and I'm sure all Liberals agree these views are going against the basic principles of the Liberal party."

Mr. Cowan acknowledged to reporters that his colleagues took some notice of his speech last Friday to the Bulldog Party, a group opposed to bilingualism, but said no action was to be taken against him.

He was asked whether differences with Mr. Pearson on this issue would prompt him to leave the party and he replied: "I was born a Liberal and I'll die a Liberal.

Mr. Pearson was present at the meeting at which a number of members bitterly attacked Mr. Cowan's action. Afterwards, he told reporters: "I've become accustomed to Mr. Cowan's outbursts."

4 Canadians Win Sweep Fortunes

B.C. Bachelor Gets $150,000

By The Canadian Press

A 28-year-old Vancouver bachelor was one of four Canadians who won prizes of $150,000 each today in the Irish Sweepstakes.

There were seven winners of $60,000 and another seven won $30,000 with third-place tickets.

Ross Hodgkins, a credit department employee for an oil company, was the only prize winner in B.C.

"I'm numb," he said when he learned he was one of the four Canadians with tickets on Ben Novus, winner of the Lincolnshire Handicap in Doncaster, England.

"I hoped to have a three or four-week holiday before going back to work."

Mr. Hogkins, who came to Vancouver a year ago from Toronto, said he plans to invest his winnings.

Nine Vancouver Islanders drew tickets in the Sweepstake' But none won prizes.

Each, however, will receive about $1,300, the award made to those with non-starters or horses which finished out of the money.

Of the 278 Canadians whose tickets were drawn on the race, four live in Victoria, two at Ladysmith, two at Port Alberni and one at Campbell River.

More Aid Urged For Natal

VANCOUVER (CP)—A special session of the B.C. Legislature to provide higher compensation and pensions for victims and survivors of the Natal mine explosion was urged today by Liberal Leader Ray Perrault.

"Money is not going to bring back those whose lives were snuffed out," he said. "But decent compensation rates would enable the widows who have been left behind to raise their youngsters and maintain themselves in reasonable dignity."

Premier Bennett announced Tuesday the government will give $25,000 to a fund set up to help the miners' families, which include about 20 children.

The Workmen's Compensation Board said widows would get monthly pensions of $122.04 plus amounts ranging from $42.45 to $53.06 for each child. Compensation for injured miners will depend on the extent of injury and disability.

The Natal disaster fund committee met today to discuss arrangements for the collection of donations for the families of the 15 miners killed.

TAX-DEDUCTIBLE

At the urging of James Byrne, member of parliament for Kootenay East, the fund has been registered as a tax deductible charity.

Committee officials said donations are being received from across Canada, including Springhill, N.S., scene of Canada's worst mine disaster.

Three Crows Nest Industries Ltd. employees have offered a day's pay and it was understood other miners in eastern B.C. are considering similar contributions.

APPEALED TO PREMIER

Mines Minister Donald Brothers announced the donation, saying he made a personal appeal to Premier Bennett for provincial assistance.

Mr. Brothers, who arrived at Crows Nest Industries Ltd.'s

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Teamsters' union negotiations with major U.S. truckers were reported at the "crisis stage" today. One source predicted the next 48 hours would determine whether half a million union members would go on strike across the U.S.

River Collision

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The U.S. Coast Guard said the West German motor vessel Tantzen collided with a barge in the Mississippi River near here today. Fourteen persons aboard the Tantzen were removed.

Nine Perish in Blaze At College Residence

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Nine persons—eight students and a faculty adviser—died today in a fire that swept a Cornell University residence hall in the pre-dawn hours.

Eleven other persons, eight of them girl students, suffered from smoke inhalation but none was considered in serious condition.

Among the dead students were three who were taking part in a six-year experimental course for top-ranked freshmen seeking doctorate degrees.

A university spokesman said the two-storey, cinder-block building on the edge of the city near the campus housed 71 persons, including 55 in the experimental program.

The cause of the fire was not determined. Firemen said it apparently began in the basement.

The bodies were discovered in hallways, rooms and in the lobby.

Sheets dangling from modern, horizontal paned windows indicated an escape route used by more than a score of the students.

A policeman among the first on the scene told a reporter there was no fire visible from the outside of the building but "people were hanging out of all the windows."

DETECTIVES CONFER WITH N.Y. POLICE, FBI

Montreal Worried by Gangland Visits

NEW YORK (CP)—Two detectives from the Montreal police department conferred with New York police experts and the FBI Tuesday on a renewed influx into Canada of racketeers believed connected with the Mafia.

This problem has long plagued Canadian police and is believed especially acute now with the world's fair in Montreal scheduled to open later this month.

RCMP Commissioner George B. McClellan said recently that U.S. racketeers took over the Montreal underworld by the mid-1950s, but were driven out by concerted police action.

The visit of the Montreal detectives, not identified, was officially described as one aimed at developing a closer liaison between local Canadian police departments, the RCMP and enforcement agencies in New York.

The Canadian police officials arrived here Monday. Their discussions also included meetings with officials of the customs bureau, the office of U.S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau and the New York City police department's criminal investigation bureau.

A U.S. government official said that the Canadian police report that more and more U.S. underworld figures are visiting Montreal and Toronto regularly.

MEET IN HOTELS

These gangland figures meet in hotels and nightclubs, and in some instances the meetings have included Canadian underworld figures.

But in Toronto, top law enforcement officers denied there is an influx of U.S.-based Mafia hoodlums to the city.

"There is no decided change in the Mafia situation in Toronto or Ontario," said Herbert S. Thurston, adviser to the Ontario Police Commission.

Chief Superintendent J. G. C. Downey, commanding officer of the Toronto Division of the RCMP, agreed that there was no Mafia influx to Toronto.

Big-time gambling and the vending and juke-box business are believed to be involved in the Canadian underworld operation.

Canadian officials want law enforcement agencies in New York to furnish quick identification and backgrounds on visiting American racketeers. Canadian police are said to feel that while relations between Canadian enforcement agencies and New York authorities have been cordial they have not been as close as the Canadian police would like.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

An elected official we know has been talking to everyone he sees about the need for more money for hospital construction . . . and where to get it.

He says, "A great number of people I talk to say to charge only $1 per day co-insurance is nuts."

He adds, "Nobody can live at home for $1 per day."

Is it logical that the public, as well as paying for the patient's hospital treatment, should also pay his keep, he asks. He proposes the rate should be $3 per day, dropping to $1 if the illness extends beyond a month.

During 1966 Royal Jubilee, the largest city hospital, chalked up almost 170,000 patient days. If the province permitted hospitals to boost the per diem charge as suggested there would be $1-million every three years for hospital expansion at that rate.

People would object of course. Don't make the patient pay they'll say. Make the province pay or make Ottawa pay. But doesn't it hold true that federal, provincial and municipal governments all get their funds from the same taxpayers?

Regardless which level of government puts up the money, if more money must be spent on hospitals the man on the street is going to be required to cough it up — one way or another. Perhaps having the patient pay for his own groceries would avert a tax boost. You'd be surprised how many people think that way, says our friend.

For years Victoria city health department has sent inspectors to check on sanitation in local eating places. But who ever checks on the automatic coffee and soup vending machines scattered through the city? The question has been raised by local health officials. A full-scale probe of cleaning processes and the handling of equipment is in the offing.

Now, if they'd just take the time to add a glance toward public and business and industry biffies . . .

Just for the heck of it, we asked 16 people if they used seat belts when driving in town. Only five said yes. Our curiosity was inspired by the U.S. National Safety Council report that half of all injuries occur in cars travelling less than 40 miles per hour. And half of all traffic deaths occur within a 25-mile radius of home. And that's what we tell people who smile when they see us cinching ourselves in when we go to the corner store.

Out of fellow feeling he stepped forward and popped a penny or two into the meter.

"Why not?" he asked.

"Because it's not your car," the commissionaire replied. If we all took that attitude what would happen to community chest?

Left-Wing Parties In France Set Merger

In an interview published in the left-wing weekly Nouvel Observateur, Mollet said plans were drawn up in September, 1965, for the merger of the parties which now are loosely united in the left-wing Democratic and Socialist Federation.

Mollet, secretary-general of the Socialist party, said he signed an agreement in 1965 with Francois Mitterrand, now chairman of the federation, and Rene Billeres, chairman of the Radical party.

"For me this protocol is binding and I presume it is so for the others," he said. "The only change I would like to see would be to advance the date of this merger which was set for Jan. 1, 1968," Mollet said.

Mollet said he hoped the dissident Socialist party led by ex-premier Pierre Mendes-France would soon join the federation.

"My heart goes out to all the families of the dead and injured," he said. "At the present time we have no idea what caused the explosion and the mine is still full of gas."

"It's a miracle there was anybody alive."

Mayor Jack Leslie of Calgary said today city council will be asked Monday to offer financial aid to Natal residents.

"If a headquarters for donations has not already been set up, the city will set one up to provide a point where Calgarians wishing to give personal donations may do so," he said.

OTTAWA ALSO HELPING

The federal government announced Tuesday it is also considering aid for the victims' families. Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons there was sorrow and regret at the mine disaster, but did not indicate the size of the donation the government is considering.

Reeve Orlando Ungaro of nearby Sparwood, one of five directors of the inter-provincial fund, said he is pleased with the B.C. government's response.

Other directors of the fund are Mayor Vernon Uphill of Fernie, B.C., and the mayors of Coleman, Blairmore and Bellevue in Alberta. The coal-rich Crowsnest Pass straddles the Alberta-B.C. border and several of those killed and injured came from the Alberta side.

A mass funeral will be held Friday at 10:30 a.m. MST for six of the victims in St. Michael's Roman Catholic church in Natal.

Private services will be held for the other victims.

Meanwhile, two of the 10 injured miners were reported to have been transferred from the hospital in nearby Michel to Calgary and Vancouver. One of the injured was released from hospital Tuesday.

Only 11 of the 59 men scheduled to work today showed up as the others apparently took another day off to mourn the deaths of their fellow workers. Relatives of the victims are not expected to return to work until after the funeral.

MRS. MICHENER PINS ROSEBUD ON HUSBAND'S LAPEL

20TH GOVERNOR-GENERAL

Combines Talents Of His Predecessors

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Each of the 19 governors - general Canada has had in the last 100 years established something distinctive during his time at Government House, and the 20th—Roland Michener—is likely to do the same.

Gen. Georges P. Vanier, whose death last month led to the appointment of Mr. Michener by the Queen Tuesday on Prime Minister Pearson's recommendaion, was a living embodiment of English - French unity in Canada.

His predecessor, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, is a wealthy patron of the arts and letters with a flare for drama and history. His 1952-59 term as the Crown's representative in Canada was also the first of a native-born Canadian.

Mr. Michener, former Speaker of the Commons and high commissioner for Canada in India, combines many of the talents of these two men.

Bilingual

He too is a lawyer, scholar, politician, diplomat, administrator, and—no less important for any man in such a post—has a quiet sense of humor.

Mr. Michener, 66, if also a First World War veteran of the RAF, a university athlete and a musician. His wife, Norah, also studied music and, after their three daughters were grown, went back to university to earn a doctorate in philosophy.

Both are bilingual, and she also speaks some Italian. They have been active in Visites Interprovinciales, an organization which arranges exchange visits between English and French Canada. He was its president, as well as general secretary for Canada of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust.

With this background, the new vice-regal couple is expected by observers to play an active role in promoting higher education—a field in which the federal government would like to be more active but in which it is circumscribed by federal-provincial constitutional difficulties.

Shortly after the announcement of his appointment, Mr. Michener said in New Delhi a governor-general, "as the visible evidence of Canadian federal unity, can do a great deal to bring the various regions of Canada together." This he pledged to do, with periodic visits to all parts of Canada.

He said he does not expect to have any insurmountable problems "as long as I'm persona grata in all parts of Canada."

No Problems

"There is comment that the constitutional role of the Governor - General needs revision, but I do not anticipate that this will create problems for the incumbent."

He plans to leave New Delhi next week for London, where he will have an audience with the Queen before proceeding to Ottawa.

Applause from all parties in the Commons greeted Prime Minister Pearson's announcement Tuesday that the native of Lacombe, Alta., will become Governor-General and immediately undertake the heavy task of official entertaining connected with 60-odd state visits this summer to mark Centennial Year.

"Mr. Michener's whole life has been one of public service and in many capacities," Mr. Pearson said. "His dedication to, and interest in public service are shared by his wife who will be of such great and experienced assistance to her husband in carrying out his new duties."

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said the appointment would receive general approval. The job was no sinecure, and the monarchical system of parliamentary government must continue.

Great Seal

The swearing - in will take place in the Senate chamber before assembled cabinet ministers, privy councillors and heads of foreign diplomatic missions. Mr. Mitchener will receive the Great Seal of Canada and deliver it to State Secretary Judy LaMarsh for safekeeping.

As Governor-General his office heads the three main branches of government—Parliament, administration, and judiciary. He also becomes commander-in-chief of Canada.

Since the death of Gen. Vanier March 5, these duties have been assumed by Chief Justice Robert Taschereau of the Supreme Court of Canada as administrator of the government. The oath will be administered by another justice of the Supreme Court.

Thus the continuity of the Queen's representation as the Queen of Canada is preserved.

After signing the oath book and taking his place on the throne on the raised dais of the Senate, Mr. Michener is expected to deliver a brief address. He and Mrs. Michener then will drive to Government House to take up residence.

Friends

Prime Minister Pearson and Mr. Michener have been friends since they met at Oxford University in 1919 and played together on the college hockey team. He was the son of an Alberta senator and provincial leader of the Conservative party, Edward Michener, and won his way to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar.

He campaigned politically for and with his father at the age of 15, but it was not until 1943, when he was 43, that he entered politics himself.

He was elected to the Ontario legislature in 1945 and a year later became provincial secretary, but he was defeated in 1948.

He was first elected to the Commons in 1953 and became Speaker of the House in 1957 after formation of the Diefenbaker government. He was defeated by Liberal Ian Wahn in the general election of 1962.

In India, he rapidly became a student of that country's tangled parliamentary life. He was one of the few foreign diplomats to attend sessions of the Lok (Sabha Parliament) regularly.

'Resignation Plans Of Nurses No Strike'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the Psychiatric Nurses Association of B.C. says a mass resignation being planned bys 700 provincially employed nurses cannot be classed as a strike.

R. H. Martin was commenting on statements made by Lloyd Whelan, a Teamster organizer and advisor to the nurses association, who said at a meeting in Kamloops Friday that the nurses could not strike because of the "humanitarian aspect" of their profession.

Mr. Martin said almost 700 of the 1,050 psychiatric nurses in B.C. have voted to resign on June 1 if their demand for arbitration to settle a wage dispute with the provincial government fails.

The present pay scale ranges between $362 and $432 a month. The association is seeking a 25 per cent increase but has rejected offers of pay increases ranging from 7.7 per cent to 8.3 per cent.

"It's drastic action on the part of the nurses," Mr. Martin said, "but they are forced to consider withdrawing their services because of salaries and working conditions."

Mr. Martin said the decision to put the resignation into effect would be made April 28 and will depend on the action of the arbitration board.

"We're asking for an impartial arbitration board decision that will be binding on all parties concerned."

Impaired Motorists Each Fined $300

Two men were fined $300 each when they pleaded guilty Monday to impaired driving.

Roy Jones, 34, of 320 Burnside East was stopped by police Saturday night when his car was seen weaving on the Trans-Canada Highway near Thetis Lake.

Court was told two oncoming cars were nearly hit by Robert Randall, 1328 Esquimalt Rd., as he drove west on the Old Island Highway Sunday evening. Randall finally ran his auto into a ditch on Goldstream.

Magistrate Byers said he would recommend both drivers be barred from driving for four months.

March Wasn't Much To Write Home About

Cooler, duller, windier, and drier than usual.

That was the weather for March this year.

Mean temperature of 42.9 was 1.4 below normal; there were 135.4 hours of bright sunshine instead of the expected normal of 137.3. The average windspeed was 13.2 compared with a normal of 11.9.

Total precipitation was 1.29 inches including 1.11 rain and 1.6 inches of snow. The normal precipitation is 2.24 inches with 1.4 snow and 2.1 of rain. This was measured in 12 days, not the normal 16.

Lowest temperature was recorded March 13 with 32.4. Normal low is 31.7. Three days later came the warmest day with 59.6 degrees record. That was 1.1 more than expected.

In the first three months of this year there were 12.87 inches of precipitation, 3.02 more than usual.

There hasn't been quite as much sun in that period with 297.6 hours compared to a normal of 313. The average temperature was lower at 43 compared with 44.3.

March lived up to its reputation as a windy month.

Gale force winds were reported on March 8, 14, 16, 20 and 23. Highest average hourly speed was recorded March 8 at 25.8. Highest gust was 63 miles an hour, March 23.

Fog with a visibility of five eighths of a mile or less, was reported on only one day, March 6.

Governor-General Michener

THERE WILL BE LITTLE SURprise but a great deal of public satisfaction with the appointment of Mr. Roland Michener as Governor-General.

When discussion began on a successor to the highly-revered General Georges P. Vanier, Mr. Michener's name received immediate and continued mention. His background, his private and professional life and his years in public office, culminating in his widely acclaimed service as Speaker of the House of Commons, appear to have prepared him well for the post of Queen's representative.

It is a mark of political maturity no less than a reflection of appreciation for his ability and personality that Mr. Michener, who sat in the House of Commons as a Conservative, was nominated for his new post by a Liberal Prime Minister.

The friendship of the two men is of long standing. So also is the high regard in which Mr. Michener has been held by members of all parties in Parliament. His competence, his ready good nature and his proven capacity to discharge well the duties he assumed have combined to earn the friendship and respect of the men and women with whom he served and to whose interests he gave conscientious attention.

It is no easy task to which Mr. Michener has been summoned. As the third Canadian-born Governor-General he follows men of outstanding calibre: the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey and General Vanier. Both of his predecessors added lustre to the post and won the admiration of Canadians for the manner in which they performed exacting tasks.

As he leaves the diplomatic service after three years as Canada's high commissioner to India, Mr. Michener begins a new career strengthened by the good wishes not only of his friends, but of Canadians generally.

The Counter-Balance

WITHOUT CONSCIOUS INtent or design, the United States has increasingly been drawn into the role of "policeman to the world." It is not a role which most Americans are anxious to play and many distinguished commentators and legislators have given sharp warnings in recent times of the danger of assuming that the United States can transform the world's peoples in the American image.

The Vietnam war, of course, has emphasized what can happen when the United States unilaterally assumes the responsibility of determining the political and economic future of a foreign land and alien culture. Thoughtful members of Congress have noted that one reason for the total involvement of their country in that war was the abdication of legislative strength which occurred when the administration was given extraordinary powers as a result of the Bay of Tonkin resolution. President Johnson interpreted this resolution — passed by Congress in a moment of anger over what is now viewed with some doubt as a deliberate attack on American forces—as giving him carte blanche to prosecute the Vietnam war.

He used it to achieve a remarkable build-up of American forces in Vietnam, over 100,000 men in less than four months in late 1965, and to set a pattern which Congress was reluctant to disturb because to do so might suggest American weakness.

A strong signal that the legislative branch is reacting sharply to the executive branch's power play was given the other day by the Senate when it killed off a Johnson bill to allow the navy to build 30 "fast deployment logistics ships." This fleet, according to the navy would "act as a deterrent to hostile military adventures in any region of the globe by providing a flexible means for stationing combat equipment near any area of potential trouble . . ."

When the Senate armed forces committee reported on the plan, however, it stated: "Beyond the cost, the committee is concerned about the possible creation of an impression that the United States has assumed the function of policing the world and that it can be thought to be at least considering intervention in any kind of strife or commotion occurring in any nations of the world."

After a number of senators, including Democratic Majority Leader Mansfield, had spoken against the measure, it was turned down. This is but the latest action by Congress which tends to inhibit the President's room for manoeuvre in foreign affairs. The checks and balances of the American constitution appear to be slowly coming into effect; a jealous legislature, mindful of its prerogatives under the constitution, will not too long tolerate an over-powerful executive.

A More Active Phase

AS LONG AS VICTORIA HAS plans to become a recognized convention centre of this continent—as a profitable adjunct to its attractions as a tourist resort — it will require an adequate building to accommodate large meetings, committee rooms, refreshment facilities and other necessaries of large-scale convention gatherings. It is a hopeful sign that the possible locations for such a centre are being narrowed down to three: near the arena, near Centennial Square and near the Crystal Garden.

The latter site is apparently favored by some city hall officials, and it has much in its favor. It would bring the focus of convention gatherings into the area of the provincial museum, now under construction, the legislative buildings, the Crystal Garden, many of the tourist-oriented retail establishments, and above all, of nearby hotel accommodation. These are factors of importance in making a decision, and must be weighed against the benefits of proximity to the large indoor areas of the arena-curling rink site, or the stimulating — though expensive — rehabilitation that would be a part of activities near Centennial Square.

The point is that after many years the project is developing into an active plan, rather than remaining merely a topic of casual argument. There still remain problems of size and content, not to mention cost, but there is now a fair prospect that the undertaking may become a part of the energetic civic rejuvenation which began with Centennial Square, included Bastion Square, the Rose-Blanshard urban renewal program and other projects, and now should be activated with another major step forward.

Bumped Up?

IN HIS BOOK "AT EASE: Stories I Tell to Friends", former president, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, explains that although he became a "regular winner" by sticking strictly to the percentages, he quit playing poker while in the army "when I found officers around me losing more than they could afford".

The General's decision was commendable. But on the theory that everyone loves a cheerful loser, how about the junior officers whom the "regular winner" was in a position to help? What was their reaction? Drop a few chips, perhaps, pick up a few pips, perhaps?

An Intricate Game of Tariff Poker

APRIL will be a cruel month if the negotiators at Geneva are unable to wrap up the Kennedy round of tariff reductions.

The deadline set by Congress in 1962 for the U.S. negotiators is June 30 but the package of tariff cuts on some 3,000 items must be approved by President Johnson in April in order to leave time for the necessary formalities to be completed by the end of June.

The outlook is optimistic although the intricate poker game is being dragged out to the last minute. The Europeans suspect that they can soften the American position by delaying down to the wire. Their strategy is to take advantage of the U.S. negotiator's awareness that an enormous opportunity will be lost if agreement is not reached before the deadline.

No Panic

The American counterploy is to let the Europeans understand clearly that President Johnson does not intend to be panicked into reaching for agreement at any price, that the United States will not give more than it gets, and that any agreement which falls short of being fully reciprocal will be rejected.

The Europeans are correct in their assessment that it would be uncomfortable for the President to go to Congress for an extension of the June 30 deadline. The protectionist lobby has been active and any proposal to extend the negotiating power will be imperilled by a varied but potent alliance of aroused industries.

Steel makers have seen 11 per cent of their domestic market fall to imports. Dairy farmers are troubled by cheese from Australia and a European product which supplies butter fat for ice cream. Textile manufacturere, prospering under the protection from cotton imports which President Kennedy contrived for them in 1962, are eager now for similar advantages in man-made fibers.

Phase in Long Struggle

This has been a unique phase of the 34-year struggle to achieve free trade through reciprocal agreements. Since Congress yielded the five-year negotiating power in 1962, there has been no legislation to pass and no debates. Public understanding of the problems posed by trade barriers has been blurred while the negotiators worked quietly in Geneva.

President Johnson obscured his own position by waiting until the last possible moment to deliver his weathervane decisions on the watch and sheet glass tariffs. His decision in January to roll back the rates on these two items established him as another in the consecutive line of presidents who have been willing since 1934 to suffer the political heat of espousing free trade.

Some will charge Mr. Johnson with showing deference to the current spirit of protectionism by his refusal to ask Congress for authority to commence a new cycle of tariff negotiations to begin after the Kennedy round elapses on June 30. The momentum, some free traders insist, must be maintained because the goal of totally unfettered trade is still far off.

The President has decided instead to take some time to study the consequences of the Kennedy round before he launches a new initiative in tariff cutting. This is unreasonable caution because the dealings at Geneva, if they win final agreement, will affect the economies of more than 50 nations so profoundly that it is impossible to forecast in advance exactly what the changes will be.

Danger

The cause of free trade will obviously be damaged if no agreements emerge from the Kennedy round. The spirit of economic nationalism will be encouraged. American manufacturers will accelerate their practice of building plants abroad instead of relying on exports. The hopes for a unified community of free nations will dwindle, at least temporarily.

But if negotiators have done their work well enough to come successfully through the April showdown in Geneva, they will have moved closer to Cordell Hull's vision of a world that secures its material needs from the most efficient sources.

University Revolution

The London Observer

It is one thing when students demand the right to be heard in the affairs of the university; it is quite a different matter when they challenge the right of the university authorities to have the final say. But there are special factors which help to explain this challenge at The London School of Economics. It is housed in a cramped suite, with inadequate facilities. It is part of an essentially commuter university, with students coming from lodgings all over London.

It attracts many politically conscious and experienced militants from all over the world. In expanding it has put at risk the students' sense of belonging to a tightly knit academic community.

The school's troubles, however, may be only a rehearsal for other dramas elsewhere. For the universities as a whole are in the middle of an industrial revolution. Higher education, from being a cottage industry, is becoming a large-scale mass production process. Students are in danger of coming to regard themselves as a new kind of intellectual proletariat, with a new sense of grievance. More does not mean worse, but it does mean a different kind of university system.

Crackdown on Drivers

THAT curse of affluence, the traffic accident, is becoming ever more common on British roads. Alarmed authorities are considering a number of counter - measures, including a crackdown on motorists who continue to drive after their licences have been suspended. The need for stricter control of such people has recently been dramatized by the case of Mrs. Lillian Baker, a 22-year-old mother of two whose third child is expected in April. After she pleaded guilty to driving while disqualified (under suspension), she was fined and sentenced to three months in jail. This would have meant having her baby while in custody and there was an immediate outcry from the press and in Parliament. The storm resulted in her release on bail pending appeal, and in an inquiry into the actions of the magistrate who had presided over her case.

Traynor

The appeal court judge, however, only differed with the magistrate about the length of the sentence. While he cut Mrs. Baker's jail term from three months to one, he upheld the principle of the jail sentence. In her actions, he ruled, the young mother had clearly shown a "quality of defiance" of the court order.

Meanwhile, her case had led to the airing of guesstimates of the number of people who, like Mrs. Baker, flout their disqualification. These were appalling. One that was widely quoted had 20,000 disqualified drivers regularly using the nation's roads. It was established that in 1965 there were 9,114 prosecutions for the offence.

Sanction Defied

In the opinion of one traffic engineer, defiance of disqualification is so general as to rob it of its effectiveness as a penalty for offences such as dangerous driving. The probability of it preventing an accident is "remote." Others pointed out that, apart from affronting the courts, the recalcitrant disqualified driver is a menace to the public because he cannot be covered by insurance.

Obviously, there is an urgent need for better enforcement. But when confronted with the evidence, the police were quick to point out that their power to deal with the problem is strictly limited. Drivers are not required to carry their licences with them while in their car. In much of the country outside London, the police cannot arrest a driver even if they know he is disqualified. They are obliged to issue a summons, a much more cumbersome sanction.

Change Coming

Change is now on the way, however. The central government is considering legislation that would make it easier for the police to bring offenders to justice. If the actions of the magistrate who sentenced Mrs. Baker are any indication, there is likely to be a trend toward stiffer penalties for those convicted. He has dealt firmly with a number of cases. Certainly there is ample scope. The law prescribes penalties of up to six months in prison and $150 in fines. Furthermore, it is formulated in such a way that the magistrate is encouraged to impose a jail sentence except in very exceptional cases.

Looking Back

From The Times of April 5, 1907.

Rather earlier than was expected Hon. R. G. Tatlow delivered his budget speech yesterday afternoon in the provincial legislature. As usual the Minister of Finance did not dwell at any length on matters outside of the actual question of the estimated receipts and expenditures. His speech was a short one even for Hon. Mr. Tatlow, due, as he explained, to the fact that he had not expected to have brought down the estimates quite so soon.

CLUTTERED

The time is fast approaching for our annual crusade against the tourist buses monopolizing the sidewalk space on both sides of the Causeway, making it impossible for tourists to park their cars.

We have one coach that is a permanent fixture in front of the Empress every day from the beginning of April until the end of September with its windows used for advertising posters, besides two red buses with the fringe on top also on the Empress side. Furthermore we have another bus and at least two double-decker buses on the opposite side.

Then at times as many as five horse tally ho's — what a mess, besides noise and confusion. All these conveyances should be banished from the street and harbor approach, to the city owned land at the north and rear of the Crystal Garden. Then, what a pleasant view the boat passengers would get on entering our beautiful harbour.—Clutter-Hater

A LITTLE WEARY

I confess I am a little weary of listening to the uninformed, sheeplike clamorous tongues of students and their anxious and docile followers, their professors, holding forth on Vietnam. Never a word is mentioned of the thousands cruelly wounded by the Viet Cong in their ruthless campaign to impose communism on the South Vietnamese, nor of the horrible slaughter which would inevitably take place if the Americans withdrew.

The present situation in Viet Nam was not sought by the Americans. They stumbled into it, and it ill behooves those shedding ink only to lecture a people shedding their blood to protect the South Vietnamese and the peace of the world. How would you like to be turned over to the tender mercies of Ho and his henchmen? All are in favor of motherhood, two chickens in every pot and peace, but only one nation is really paying for the latter in blood and treasure. — M. P. Paine, 3620 Quadra.

Army Only

At present our government is in the process of unifying our armed forces. I believe that this is necessary and long overdue. I also believe that the naval branch should be gradually phased out and that the air force should be taken over by the army and used in a transport reconnaissance role with perhaps enough fighters to act as transport escorts. In small conflicts since the Second World War armies have by far played the greater role. Even in Korea it was our army who fought, receiving very little assistance from our navy and none from our air force. In this age of missiles how long will it be before navies and air forces become virtually obsolete?

In any case we are not a great power, nor are we rich. How long can we afford to built ships and planes which have to be refitted with complicated and expensive equipment, which in many cases is virtually obsolete before it is installed? Let us leave America to provide a navy and air force and let us concentrate on raising and maintaining a powerful, efficient army. — E. G. Grimshaw, 617 Admirals Rd.

Capital Gains Tax Now

The Carter income tax report underlines the urgent need for a capital gains tax now. It is wrong and quite unfair that the patient wage or salary earner should have to pay on every penny of his hard earned income. Shareholders' and bondholders' income has to be reported to tax authorities so that it may not escape income tax. Why then should the speculator be allowed to buy mining or other speculative shares (often just promotion without real value) then sell them on a rise and take an unearned profit scot free?

The United States has had a capital gains tax for several years, England has followed suit. We must realize Americans only invest in Canada to make a profit and they certainly do just that. With a capital gains tax of their own, they would understand our position. Do we have to give them profits with both hands; England doesn't.—Taxpayer

Let Ky Fight

Premier Ky of the Saigon regime controls only a small part of Vietnam but has by far the largest army; no foreign troops oppose him — only other Vietnamese. Recent newspaper reports of Ky's complaints say that he wants outsiders to stop talking peace and that he will do his own negotiating when he sees fit. Good. But for humanity's sake, let him also do his own fighting! — E. H Richardson, 4497 Arsens Place.

Bunch of Nuts

Judging from Fisheries Minister C. Max Lane's recent public remarks regarding the seal hunt, it would appear obvious that he condones the murderous and bloody bludgeoning of baby seals. That an elected member of the Newfoundland legislature should airily dismiss the sentiments of those who have a more humane point of view as just "a bunch of nuts" puts this worthy gentleman in the category of those politicians who have become known for their negative rather than positive and progressive thinking. — Doreen Holwell, 3034 Earl Grey.

Nincompoopery

London Sunday Telegraph

What is the public meant to make of the extraordinary news that the standing committee of The London School of Economics' Court of Governors met on Friday for, believe it or not, nine hours before they could agree on how to discipline the (student) rebel ringleaders? Such vacillating nincompoopery can only make the dons look as silly as the students.

Fast-Moving Trudeau Is the Man to Watch In Revamped Cabinet

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA — Yesterday's cabinet shuffle, which gives French Canada its strongest representation ever in a federal cabinet, opens the way for an offensive by Ottawa in the touchy area of relations with the province of Quebec.

Newman

By promoting Pierre Elliot Trudeau and Jean Chretien, the Liberal party's most articulate and impassioned French advocates of federalism Lester Pearson seems to be abandoning his long-time policy of non-confrontation with Quebec. The new duo, added to a team that already includes Jean Marchand and Maurice Sauve, may be expected to take the initiative in establishing a viable federal position in the political, economic and constitutional bargaining which will take place between Ottawa and Quebec City in the months ahead.

The other inportant promotion is that of Walter Gordon to the presidency of the Privy Council. This is a job without definition. It can mean nothing (as it did when Noel Dorion held it under John Diefenbaker and Guy Favreau under Pearson) or, it could amount to a sort of deputy prime ministership, with its incumbent presiding over cabinet meetings and administering the mechanics of government.

For Gordon, it's important for two vital reasons: it will provide him with a personal staff (which he didn't have as minister without portfolio) and it will give him respectable cabinet rank without the burden of departmental responsibility, leaving him free to pursue his direction of the task force on foreign investment.

How much added responsibility the prime minister will transfer to his old and troublesome friend remains uncertain.

The promotion of Pierre-Elliot Trudeau to the justice post is probably Lester Pearson's most imaginative appointment to date. It climaxes an amazing political career. Seventeen months ago, Trudeau wasn't even a Liberal; now he holds the portfolio which made Ernest Lapointe, Louis St. Laurent and Guy Favreau chief Quebec advisors to English-speaking prime ministers.

While Jean Marchand remains Quebec lieutenant, Trudeau automatically becomes number two man in the Quebec caucus and a centre of power within the Liberal hierarchy.

Trudeau is an accredited intellectual (he has half a dozen degrees from Harvard, the Sorbonne, the London School of Economics) who lives with a flair and style quite out of keeping with official Ottawa. He is a brown belt judo, a skin-diver, a canoeist. He likes to wear outrageous clothes. (He once turned up at the Privy Council offices clad in a kind of boiler suit and was turned away because a clerk thought he was a man who'd come to fix the typewriters at an inopportune time.)

As the editor-founder of Cite Libre, Trudeau provided much of the ideological thrust for the 1960 victory of Jean Lesage, but four years later he was condemning Quebec's burgeoning nationalism. He was also once a close supporter of the CCF in Quebec, and explains his disillusionment with socialism by saying: "The NDP's whole case is supposed to be a belief in social security in a planned organized way. Yet their attack on the Liberals is that our approach to social security is willy-nilly. This is pure demagoguery. The NDP is not an ideological party any more. On the Victor Spencer case, for example, under the guise of fighting for a principle, they thwarted our whole idea of justice by engineering a case in order to destroy the government on the back of a sick man."

Trudeau's main assignment as minister of justice will be to head the team that wll eventually establish the federal position on a reworking of the Canadian constitution. Although he is in favor of exhausting the possibilities of the BNA Act before proceeding to the stage of altering the constitution, he does advocate such radical steps as the establishment of a constitutional court whose members would be appointed by the provincial as well as the federal governments.

As registrar-general, he will have under his wing all of the government's main business regulatory agencies such as the bankruptcy and combines branches (formerly in justice) and the patents and corporations branches (formerly in the secretary of state department).

As minister of consumer affairs, the second — and yet to be officially designated — half of his new portfolio, Turner will probably advocate the transfer to his department of those sections of the agriculture and trade and commerce departments which deal with consumer problems.

The shuffle leaves the Pearson cabinet in a somewhat unequal mix since its English-speaking wing has not been significantly strengthened. British Columbia, for example, the most exciting and go-ahead province in the country, now seems destined to serve out the Pearson years with the anachronistically dull cabinet representation of Arthur Laing and Jack Nicholson.

An armed British soldier is eyed by ragged Arab youngster as he patrols Aden's downtown area. With independence just a year away and a United Nations commission studying the situation Aden is like a city under siege, with violence breaking out at the least provocation.

Feudalism or Modernity For Troubled Aden Area?

By JOHN DE ST. JORRE

ADEN—Among all the imponderables surrounding the United Nations mission's task of finding a solution to South Africa's complex problems only one factor is indisputable: the great gulf which separates Aden from the upcountry sheikhdoms.

Habilayn is a mere 50 miles from Aden—in more meaningful local terms about half an hour by light aircraft, or anything up to four hours by road. But in everything else it is light-years away.

Shaafal, Emir of Dhala, whose seat of government is 15 miles north of Habilayn, is nominally lord of all he surveys. But since his domain includes a critical part of the Yemen border—across which the Nasser-backed South Arabia Liberation Army trains and waits—the main caravan route from the Yemen to Aden, and the troublesome Radfan area, his writ is more than a little wobbly.

Wild Land

It is a wild, spectacular land. When it rains it could be mountainous Wales, but when it does not it is a pure Arabian Nights land of burning sand, jagged peaks and square, tower-like houses with castellated battlements perched precariously on hilltops. It is peopled by fierce individualists who carry rifles as city men carry briefcases and use bullets for small change.

Talking to people here about the UN mission, nationalism and democratic processes inevitably generates its own peculiar fantasy. The towns and villages, and the people are either rulers—or their relatives—or peasants. If one opposes the establishment then one is a dissident—but that is traditional too.

The critical factor is the personality of the ruler. In Dhala, he is neither strong nor particularly popular. His bodyguard numbers 100; his Turkish-built prison grimly sharing the same dominant hilltop as his palace, is full, The Emir himself is inexplicably in Beirut.

Trying to assess feelings in places like this might seem a futile exercise were it not for the fact that some test of opinion—probably elections—is the most likely course of action which the UN mission will recommend. It is also the only point on which the two main protagonists—Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen (FLOSY) and the federal government—agree.

New Elements

But two new non-feudal elements have complicated the upcountry scene. The first broadly speaking is the growth of organized opposition to the rulers. Strike calls by FLOSY and the NLF (National Liberation Front) in Aden are obeyed in Dhala. Taiz, Sana and Cairo radios maintain a steady blast of propaganda.

The dissidents are now organized into military groups who do their stint and then return to the Yemen for rest and retraining. Recently, there has been some infighting between two FLOSY factions in the Radfan and a steady movement of dissidents north to the Yemen has been observed, presumably in preparation for some sort of action when the UN mission arrives.

With a fairly large concentration of British and federal troops in the area, the dissidents are keeping their heads down. But they are by no means dormant as I discovered when they put a couple of shots through the helicopter in which I was travelling from Dhala to Habilayn.

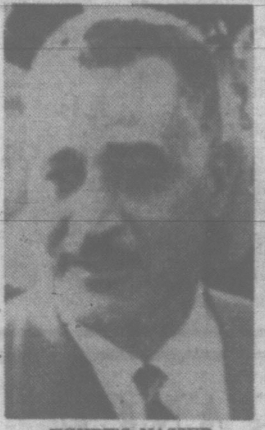
Federal Army

The second new element in this medieval setting is the federal regular army. It is the ultimate hope for holding the Federation together. Drawn from all tribes, commanded almost entirely by Arab officers, tough, well-trained and well-equipped, it is the only really cohesive force which bridges the tribal gaps—something the federal government itself singularly fails to do—in the whole of South Arabia.

As an experienced observer put it "the federal army not only works, but is seen to work, the length and breadth of the Federation." Its high pay—second only to the Kuwait army in the Arab world—and the prestige attached to the profession of arms here, also place the federal army in a pre-eminent position. It is, moreover, creating something which never existed up-country before—a middle-class with a vested interest in the status quo.

Attitudes within the army vary. Up here the mood is anger, on account of the killing of the local battalion's commanding officer by dissidents last week. But by and large it is a professional force which does not bother itself much with politics—it is currently fully occupied with its expansion program and with operations.

Moreover, it seems very likely that the army will have to play a political role sooner or later. The senior officers (there are three Arab full-colonels, one of whom, Colonel Nasser Bureik Al-Aulaqi, will shortly be taking over the army from its present British commander) are conservative and will undoubtedy support the federal government while it exists.



EGYPT'S NASSER

But some of the younger officers, better educated and more widely travelled, have little time for the old-fashioned rulers, and if things go badly after independence they would certainly be in a position to take over. No one figure stands out, but as a group they have a common background, education and awareness of the 20th century.

They would be prepared to serve under a nationalist government, and they dislike and despise the Egyptians, although they admire Nasser as an individual. Some of their views on the rulers are trenchant. As one of them said to me: "The sultans get money from the British, put it into their own pockets, and later transfer it to Beirut or to Swiss banks instead of building schools, hospitals and roads. We need a government of the people."

Populorum Progressio: Pope Paul Questions Pragmatic Philosophy

By W. R. MACKAYE

WASHINGTON — The new encyclical of Pope Paul VI, "Populorum Progressio" ("The Development of Peoples"), represents an important assault on the secularist and pragmatic philosophy which has dominated governmental operations in modern times, particularly in the United States.

Quite aside from its particular religious message to members of the Roman Catholic church, the document reasserts a role for the modern papacy in the continuing discussion among men of every stripe about the proper function of governments.

The role: to be conscience-tweaker to the nations.

That Pope Paul will successfully persuade the skeptics in his audience of the existence of a moral dimension to politics above and beyond "practical" considerations remains to be seen.

In the United States even those government programs that moralists recognized and backed for ethical reasons—for example the espousal of the Marshall Plan or the enactment of the Civil Rights Act of 1964—have tended to find their principal official defence in the benefit their adoption would return to the nation.

Implementation of the Marshall Plan, it was said, would build a Western European shield against communism, keeping the Red scourge from our shores; full equality for Negroes would provide the humming American economy an important new reservoir of talent and manpower, would produce greater tax revenues and fewer welfare clients.

Curious Values

In the curious value system of the generally accepted public philosophy of contemporary America, to be hard-headed and businesslike is "mature" and "realistic"; to be soft-hearted, generous and just is "childish" and "idealist."

Pope Paul obviously anticipated that the charge of idealism would likely be levelled at the ethical and theological assumptions of his encyclical. After asserting in the document the moral necessity of increased international co-operation, in particular through strengthening such agencies as the United Nations, he observed :

"Some would consider such hopes utopian.

"It may be that these persons are not realistic enough, and that they have not perceived the dynamism of a world which desires to live more fraternally—a world which, in spite of its ignorance, its mistakes and even its sins, its relapses into barbarism and its wanderings far from the road of salvation, is—even unawares—taking slow but sure steps toward its creator."

The pontiff's attack on unregulated capitalism, with its enshrinement of profit as the key motive for economic progress, forms a particularly noticeable example of his difference with the reigning American public philosophy.

"Growth is ambivalent.

"It is essential if man is to develop as a man, but in a way it imprisons man if he considers it the supreme good, and it restricts his vision. Then we see hearts harden and minds close, and men no longer gather together in friendship but out of self-interest, which soon leads to oppositions and disunity.

An Obstacle

"The exclusive pursuit of possessions thus becomes an obstacle to individual fulfilment and to man's true greatness.

"Both for nations and for individual men, avarice is the most evident form of moral underdevelopment."

In this country Pope Paul's philosophy of politics will be recognized as a latter-day variant of the historic, but long latent, views of such theorists as John Locke and Thomas Jefferson, who had no hesitation about discussing the inalienable rights of men.

Despite the ritual obeisance Americans pay these savants, John Stuart Mill's rooting of public policy in "enlightened self-interest" and Jeremy Bentham's advocacy of utilitarianism come closer to the prevailing presuppositions at work in modern policy-making.

There are hints, however, that the apprehensions of doom which many contemporary men suffer — probably as a consequence of the lethal potential of the nuclear age and the almost unbearable pace of technological progress — are leading them to question the adequacy of a purely pragmatic public philosophy.

Such themes as the rights of individuals, the obligations of wealth, the destiny of men seem worthy at least of discussion.

The contrast between the results of the two ways of looking at politics is posed by Pope Paul in two key sentences of the encyclical:

"Peace," he writes, "cannot be limited to a mere absence of war, the result of an ever-precarious balance of forces.

"No, peace is something that is built up day after day, in the pursuit of an order intended by God, which implies a more perfect form of justice among men."

Modern Catholic social thought, which customarily is considered to have begun with Pope Leo XIII's 1891 encyclical "Rerum Novarum" ("Of New Things"), has had a steady if low-key impact on American political developments. More recently there is evidence it has broken out of strictly denominational contexts into the awareness of secular America.

Michael Harrington's 1962 essay "The Other America" is generally believed to have prepared the way for the administration's declaration of the war on poverty.

Yet Harrington, a sometime associate of the Catholic Worker Movement, opens his book with a blistering appeal to conscience calculated to make any pure pragmatist shudder.

"I work on an assumption that cannot be proved by government figures or even documented by impressions of the other America," he declares. "It is an ethical proposition and it can be simply stated: In a nation with a technology that could provide every citizen with a decent life, it is an outrage and a scandal that there should be such misery."

Fired Imagination

Good Pope John, whose ties to Catholic philosophy were even plainer (not to say obvious), was equally successful in igniting the imaginations of non-Catholic and non-religious Americans.

The impact of his 1963 encyclical "Pacem in Terris" ("Peace on Earth"), first such papal document to be addressed not only to the bishops and faithful of the Catholic church but also "to all men of goodwill," continues to be felt among those men of goodwill. It might be noted, for example, that the secular Centre for the Study of Democratic Institutions will convene a second Pacem In Terris convocation in Geneva May 28, drawing representatives from South Vietnam, North Vietnam, the National Liberation Front, the United States, the Soviet Union and Mainland China.

White Hats or Black Hats; It Ain't Necessarily So

By ART STOTT

Stott

The small redhead in our house makes more "trips" than an LSD addict. At various times he takes off as Batman, as a fireman, as a truck driver, as Robin Hood—as almost any heroic character who captures his fancy on television.

Inevitably he reverts to the favorite stereotype. He becomes a cowboy. To emphasize a point he wears to kindergarten the once-white western hat he inherited from a cousin who attended the Calgary Stampede. The hat now looks as if it had been through the Stampede itself, but there are still underlying traces of white in it.

At the age of five-going-on-six he is, nevertheless, something of a conformist. The hat is his chosen headgear because of its original color.

"The good guys," he tells me, "wear the white hats." Then he turns the idea over in his mind and qualifies it. "Sometimes the good guys wear black, like the Black Knight. He's sometimes good and sometimes bad."

* * *

The redhead is a little young, yet, for me to object to the triteness of his judgments or to explain to him that things seldom are entirely white or entirely black. Anyhow, I'm in no position to deliver the lecture. Like most other people, I make my own black-and-white divisions, knowing, when I think about it, that the definitions are too sharp and unrealistic.

Monday evening, without design, Dean Ron Jeffels brought the point home to me when he was talking to the University Extension Association of Victoria. His subject was "The Canadian Student: Social Conscience and the New Involvement." He covered the field of young men and young women throughout Canada who are now going to university, equipping themselves for the kind of life that confronts them now and who protest the false values of this day of expanding knowledge, affluence, hedonism, hypocrisy and "I've got mine, Jack."

He pointed to their idealism, their skepticism, their readiness to accept sacrifice in providing service to those less fortunate and to characteristics which should inspire pride in the generation that is coming up.

For me, personally, his talk helped to re-establish the perspective which I'm prone to lose when the activities of a minority claim the publicity that their sensational and spectacular nature demands. And I think, with some distress, of the results of the white-black distinction on so many of our people in Victoria who helped and supported the old college, who did the same for the University of Victoria and who, because they've been given large doses of publicity on the type of student rebellion they cannot stomach, are now saying t'hell with it; let the university and the kids look after themselves.

* * *

Because my sympathies have inclined that way in recent weeks, I recognize the attitude a little self-consciously. What has had a tendency to escape me has been the obvious fact that students, like other members of society, can be suckered into foolish plays. Anyone who has looked with sorrow, rather than anger, at the misguided way some people vote in political elections can understand the mistakes to which apparently intelligent citizens are prone.

As a young student replied to a friend's criticism the other day, the student protest may also be part of the business of growing up. We, who have been disenchanted recently, might note the validity of the argument and reassess our reactions toward protest demonstrations.

* * *

We don't throw a very small child out of the house for bed-wetting in infancy. Shouldn't we show the same consideration for some youthful, if not physical, irresponsibility when some young people at university behave in a manner we find objectionable?

Let's not be too dogmatic in the white-hat-black-hat routine. Instead, let's put things in perspective, as Dean Jeffels did so admirably Monday night.

TRYING TO BREAK UP CANADA

Bennett Hits at Ottawa on Opting Out of Programs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier Bennett said Tuesday the federal government is opting out of Confederation.

Mr. Bennett told a news conference Ottawa had withdrawn from a number of shared cost programs "when they started to become expensive" and predicted the federal government also would "opt out" of the present shared plan on hospital care.

The premier elaborated at the news conference on statements he made Monday regarding federal aid to B.C., and said the federal government was "trying to break up Canada by opting out."

Mr. Bennett said a statement by Prime Minister Pearson that Ottawa gave B.C. $272,000,000 in tax revenues and grants last year was "completely false."

"The federal government gives B.C. no federal aid," the premier said. "I want to make that definite."

He said shared costs were not aid but the federal share of federal policies. Income tax rebates were just B.C. taxes being returned.

The premier called the present Liberal government "the worst Canada has ever had" and Mr. Pearson the worst prime minister ever but said External Affairs Minister Martin, "my good friend in Ottawa, would make a good prime minister."

"A good Liberal prime minister?" he was asked.

FAMED LONDON BRIDGE IS FALLING DOWN

LONDON (Reuters)—London Bridge is slowly falling down and will be replaced by a streamlined bridge over the River Thames for £3,300,000 ($9,900,000), it was reported Tuesday.

The 136-year-old bridge, sinking at the rate of one-eighth of one inch every year, is to be demolished in October.

HUMPHREY CONTINUES EUROPEAN TOUR

Delicate Assignment in Bonn

BONN (Reuters) — Vice-President Hubert Humphrey arrived here today for personal talks with Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger and what observers predict will be the most delicate assignment of his current European tour.

Humphrey flew from London where he said on departure that during his three days in Britain, which included talks with Premier Wilson and Foreign Secretary George Brown, he met everywhere a "spirit of openness and goodwill."

Bonn political observers said Kiesinger is anxious to introduce a new realism into relations between the U.S. and West Germany.

The projected East - West treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons, Washington's search for detente with Russia and arrangements for covering foreign exchange costs of American troops in Europe were topics uppermost in German minds.

CLASH REPORTED

The exchange took place at a closed meeting of an all-party British - American group which he addressed during a visit to the House of Commons.

Sources said the parliamentarians objected to some of Humphry's remarks about the Vietenam war and in particular to an answer he gave when asked why the American government had not acted on United Nations Secretary-General U Thant's peace proposals.

The exact details of Humphrey's answer were not available but he was reported to have given the left wingers the impression that because they were opposed to American policy in Vietnam they were "soft."

VoW Just Nit Picking Claims Bell

An Esquimalt council fired back at the Victoria Voice of Women organization Tuesday night for objecting to a cannon going into a park.

"They're just nit picking," said Coun. J. W. Bell as the parks committee considered a VoW letter asking council to reconsider its decision.

"This won't do our young people any harm at all and we should remember that these things have a history and are part of our national heritage."

Also Tuesday, the municipal public works committee recommended a bylaw to force removal of trash and rubbish and specifically derelict car bodies.

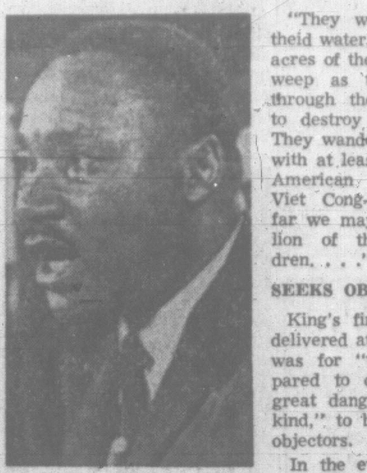
KING UNFOLDS MAJOR PROTEST PLAN

S. Vietnamese Consider U.S. 'Real Enemy' in War



KING
. . . 'purveyor of violence'

NEW YORK (CP-AP)—Civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King has unfolded a major new program of teach-ins, preach-ins and mass demonstrations in an effort to gain from the government an adminssion "that we have been wrong from the beginning of our adventure in Vietnam."

The winner of the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize pictured the United States Tuesday as so dedicated to its worldwide money and material investments that it has become "the greatest purveyor of violence in the world today," and is on the wrong side of a world revolution for human rights.

"Now they languish under our bombs," he said of the South Vietnamese, "and consider us—not their fellow Vietnamese—the real enemy."

"They move sadly and apathetically as we herd them off the alnd of their fathers into concentration camps where minimal social needs are rarely met. . . .

"They watch as we poison theid water, as we kill a million acres of their crops. They must weep as the bulldozers roar through their areas preparing to destroy the precious trees. They wander into the hospitals, with at least 20 casualties from American firepower for one Viet Cong-inflicted injury. So far we may have killed a million of them — mostly children. . . ."

SEEKS OBJECTORS

King's first recommendation, delivered at a press conference, was for "those who are prepared to do it, who see the great dangers ahead for mankind," to become conscientious objectors.

In the evening, before more than 3,000 persons in the Riverside church, he called for clergymen to give up their draft-exemption as clergy and become conscientious objectors.

He also suggested a five-point program designed to "begin the long and difficult process of extricating ourselves from this night - marish conflict:"

End all bombing in Vietnam; declare a unilateral ceasefire "in the hope that such action will create the atmosphere for negotiation;" curtail U.S. military buildups in Thailand and Laos; accept a role for the National Liberation Front — Viet Cong — in negotiations and in any future government, because it "has substantial support in South Vietnam" and set a date for removing all foreign troops in accord with the 1954 Geneva agreement.

Cunard Unveils Model Of New Atlantic Liner

LONDON (AP) — The Cunard Steam Ship Co. unveiled Tuesday a model of its new Atlantic liner, the Q4, and said she will be the safest ship afloat.

The ship, designed as a successor to the 31-year-old Queen Mary, will be launched in September.

She will carry 2,000 passengers on the Atlantic run, and 1,500 when she switches to cruising.

The cost is put at $90,000,000. Extensive use of aluminum has been made in the superstructure which allows her to carry the same number of passengers as the Queen Mary and yet pass through the Suez and Panama canals and enter approximately 40 of the world's ports.

Bomb in Package

NEW YORK (AP)—A package that arrived through the mail exploded Monday in the hands of an official of the Cuban mission to the United Nations. He suffered minor injuries to the face, arms and chest. Police said Nicholas Rodrigues, 30, a counsellor of the mission, was opening the book-sized package when it blew up and apparently sprayed him with metal pellets.

Main Issue Undecided In Dock Probe Report

OTTAWA (CP) — The report of a federal inquiry into a labor dispute that tied up B.C. ports for 14 days late last year urges adoption of a grievance procedure for foremen of stevedoring crews.

The report of Mr. Justice Rhodes Smith also calls for a one-year "cooling off" period in which neither the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union nor the B.C. Maritime Employers Association would become involved in grievance procedures.

But the 15,000-word report avoids making a judgment on whether the 200 foremen involved should have the right to be represented by the ILWU, the main issue in the dispute.

Mr. Justice Smith says this matter must continue to be the prerogative of the Canadian Labor Relations board. Three years ago the board turned down union applications to be certified as the bargaining agent for foremen employed by two Vancouver stevedoring firms.

COURT NEWS

Police Attack Costs Man Three Months

A man who attacked a police officer when he was being arrested for causing a disturbance was jailed Tuesday for 110 days.

City police arrested Francis Holden, 525 Johnson, after he was spotted dancing in the road and holding up traffic at Blanshard near Burdett March 16.

Court was told Holden was unsteady on his feet and his breath smelled of alcohol but he was persuaded by police to behave and head for home.

A few moments later officers found him capering on the road again and he was arrested.

He was jailed three months for assaulting a police officer and 20 days for causing a disturbance.

A youth found to have a length of chain hidden in a pocket when he was arrested for being drunk was fined a total of $25.

When he was searched before being put in a cell, officers found a 22-inch length of chain in his breast pocket.

A loop of cord to be worn about the wrist was attached to one end of the chain, court was told.

Saager was fined $15 for being intoxicated in a public place and $10 for carrying a concealed weapon.

The operator of a beauty salon was fined $50 on each of two offences under the Minimum Wage Act.

He was charged with failing to keep records of the hours worked by one of his male and one of his female employees.

The cases were adjourned for sentence two weeks ago when an inspector said the necesary records had not yet been produced.

Magistrate Byers levied the fines Tuesday after ruling Molnar had still failed to produce records acceptable to the government department responsible.

March Emergency Treatments Up At St. Joseph's

A total of 1,653 persons received emergency treatment in March at St. Joseph's Hospital, an increase of 247 over the same period last year, hospital officials reported today.

Of this total, 1,052 required surgery and 601 were medical cases, including 36 fractures.

Of the total patients, 1,442 were released after treatment, while 211 were admitted for further treatment.

"Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist M. D. Harrison to balding men. Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here Thursday and Friday

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness — and growing thicker hair — will be demonstrated in Victoria this Thursday and Friday, April 6 and 7.

This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison named staff trichologist Mr. G. Lane to conduct the Victoria clinic. Mr. Lane will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday at the Executive House Motor Hotel, 777 Douglas.

EXAMINE YOU FREE

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing Mr. Lane," director Harrison said.

"Your only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home Treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

OFFERS NO CURE-ALL

Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no one cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver.

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

WHO CAN BE HELPED?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth behind it. Harrison and his staff trichologists do extension work in more than 100 other cities.

SATISFY 95%

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and have records to prove it."

"But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and baldish—by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's 'tried everything.' So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair:

That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

FREE SCALP EXAMINATION

See Mr. Lane in person. Learn how baldness can be stopped, and new hair grown on your own scalp. The new Harrison method permits you to actually stop baldness and re-grow hair in the privacy of your own home.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Executive House Motor Hotel, Thursday or Friday, between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. for Mr. Lane's suite number.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

No Fine In Alberta LSD Law

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta's proposed LSD legislation has been changed to call for a mandatory jail sentence for "distributing."

An amendment, approved in the legislature's committee of the whole Tuesday night, sets a minimum one-year sentence with no option of a fine for anyone convicted of "giving or otherwise distributing" the hallucinary drug.

Health minister Dr. J. Donovan Ross said the penalty is "stringent, and properly so."

Another amendment deleted selling as an offence. Dr. Ross said selling is restricted already by the federal food and drug act which would override the provincial legislation.

The proposed legislation calls for fines up to $1,000 or jail terms up to 90 days or both for possession, manufacturing or using LSD or other drugs which could be classified as hallucinatory.

Paper Mill Union Merger Predicted Within a Year

VANCOUVER (CP) — Officials of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers said Tuesday their union will probably merge with the United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union sometime in 1968.

Henry Lorrain, the international's Canadian director, said in an interview that an inter-union committee on merger plans has been making good progress.

"There appears to be very little area of difference to be resolved," he said. "We will be meeting again in two months and if there is a final meeting of the minds, we will be able to submit an understanding to the convention of both unions in 1968."

The two unions have had a working agreement in Canada for many years under which they bargain jointly for new contracts. Mr. Lorrain said amalgamation would eliminate duplication of union activities.

If the merger goes through, the new united organization will have 315,000 members in Canada and the U.S. under one union leadership. The single union would include about 51,000 Canadians.

The international is engaged in a bitter jurisdictional battle with the breakaway Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada in this country and is facing similar problems with breakaway factions in the U.S.

In Canada, the international is also facinga figh ht wit the also facing a fight with the International Woodworkers of America, which is seeking to organize pulp mill workers on Vancouver Island.

MORE WORK IN CANADA

The unemployment rate in Canada has been less than that of the United States since the summer of 1963.

Average cost: about 6½¢ a bowl

Campbell makes 35 different kinds of soup. The average cost of all 35 different kinds, is about 6½¢ a bowl. That's based on three servings from the regular size and six servings from the large size. About 6½¢ a bowl—astonishingly good value.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

Prices had turned weak after the opening when the private forecast was made public. The Kansas statistician said he estimated the 1967 wheat crop in Kansas to total 168,000,000 bushels. The five-year average crop in Kansas has totaled 232,000,000 bushels.

The advance of wheat had some effect on corn and soybeans.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange today was featured by the broad revival of export interest in several commodities.

Oilseeds received most of the attention with reports that 12,600 tons of rapeseed were sold during the past few days and believed destined for Morocco. The wheat board's action in extending delivery quotas on rapeseed and flax aided this development.

Oilseeds disclosed fairly liberal hedging sales in early trade which were absorbed by export interest developing on declines.

Most prices were firm to higher or at least moved in a narrow range.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Bank Stocks Stage Surge

Bank stocks surged higher on the Toronto stock exchange today following an announcement by Toronto-Dominion that it plans to split its shares on a 5 for 1 basis subject to shareholder approval.

The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce Tuesday joined the Bank of Montreal in reducing its prime interest rate on loans to 5¾ per cent from six per cent.

Nova Scotia was up 1⅜ to 76⅝, Montreal 1⅛ to 66⅞, Royal 1 to 81 and Toronto-Dominion ½ to 68. Imperial-Commerce eased ¼ to 71½.

AT TORONTO industrials moved sharply higher. MacLaren A climbed 3 to 28, Consolidated Textile 2¼ to 8½, Fraser 2 to a high of 28, CPR 1½ to a high of 70½ and Clairtone 1⅜ to 76⅜.

AT NEW YORK gains of fractions to a point or better were scattered through the list.

Airlines, steels, aerospace isues, electronics, non-ferrous metals, drugs and building materials advanced. Xerox gained seven and Polaroid four. Scientific data lost about 4½. Sperry Rand, a fractional loser, paced the list on volume. Great Western Financial, up more than a point, was active. Two-point gainers included Eastern Air Lines, Owens-Illinois Glass, Zenith and Boeing.

AT MONTREAL the market increased its gains today. Banks led the rally, four issues winning more than a point. Montreal was up 1½ at 67, Royal 1½ at 81 and Nova Scotia 1⅛ at 76⅝, all in active trading. Toronto-Dominion stood one point higher at 68.

CPR advanced 1⅛ points to 70 following Tuesday announcement of gains in net income for 1966. Canada Iron and Oil each added ½ at 21 and 24¼, respectively. B-A Oil regained Tuesday's loss of one point to trade at 34⅝, up one point.

Dollar stocks were mostly lower with the premium. BA Oil was off 3 points. Other soft spots included International Nickel and Consolidated Paper.

Canadian Husky was firmer. Brazilian Light and Power was in demand after the 1966 earnings figures. Royal Bank of Canada was a firm exception among a soft group of Canadian banks.

AT VANCOUVER Pacific Pete gained .50 to a new high of $13.25 in pre-noon trading.

Trading was heavy in the mining section, with Galaxy and Copper Ridge both reaching new highs on substantial volumes. Galaxy was up .02 at .52 on 442,000 shares and Copper Ridge jumped .09 to .50 on 218,000 shares.

Western Mines was .20 stronger at $4.55 and Buttle Lake lost .03 to a new low of .47.

Losses also went to Kamloops, off .04 at .22, and Rolling Hills, down .05 at .36.

CP Companies Show Income Expansion

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Pacific Railway Co., Canadian Pacific Air Lines Ltd. and Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. have all reported expanded operations and income in 1966.

A three-part annual report showed that income of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., the parent organization, was $48,300,000 compared with $41,500,000 in 1965.

The income, from railway and miscellaneous sources, was totalled after fixed charges. The figures also include income from CPA.

Net earnings of the parent company and Canadian Pacific Investments amounted to $6.06 a share, an increase of 48 cents or about eight per cent over the previous year.

Consolidated income of Canadian Pacific Investments amounted to $42,000,000 compared with $41,900,000 the previous year. Earnings per share were unchanged at $2.93.

Of the total income, $20,100,000 was received by the parent company and paid to ordinary shareholders as additional dividends of $1.40 a share, the same as in 1965.

After payments of $3,400,000 in preferred dividends, the 1966 income from the railway and miscellaneous sources of the parent company amounted to $3.13 for each share, compared with $2.65 in 1965.

Net operating income of CPA was $8,000,000 against $6,400,000 the previous year.

Cowichan Miners Get Good News

By AB KENT
Business Editor

An overdue share of good things is happening to Cowichan Copper Co. Ltd, miners for whom the future seemed so dark six months ago.

KENT

A second instalment is being paid by the provincial labor department this week on behalf of former mine management who left the Jordan River operation high and dry with nearly $40,000 in wages owing Sept. 16. The department distributed $10,000.

According to Cowichan president Oswood G. MacDonald, who is striving to put the Sunro mine back in production, a final instalment of about $10,000 should be paid soon.

Besides that, Mr. MacDonald has re-engaged a lot of the 120 men who became jobless last fall.

About 80 miners are working at the site bringing the mine and mill back into operating condition and putting through copper ore on a tune-up basis.

He will not predict when full production will resume.

But he has high hopes (as always) for success of refinancing plans necessitated by the abdication of management responsibilities by Aetna Investment Corp., which defaulted on a management agreement in return for financing.

Meanwhile, Cowichan has asked Sunro Mines Ltd. (76.8 per cent owned by Cominco) which leased the mine to Cowichan for royalties, to reduce the payments by about 60 per cent.

If Sunro shareholders agree at an extraordinary meeting to be called shortly, the result will be of great assistance in getting the mine back in full swing.

At Dec. 31, 1966, Cowichan owed Sunro $142,777, almost equal to the Sunro net loss last year of $143,491. In 1965 Sunro's net earnings were $10,277.

Mr. MacDonald said Cowichan's annual meeting is set for 8 p.m. April 25 in Hotel Vancouver. A full report will be given then.

When death stalked the Michel Valley Monday, miners and ex-miners everywhere felt a knot twist their insides, an empathy that has grown in them like a black lump of coal.

Only those who toil underground know the private terror that grips when accidents happen in the lonely depths.

Some have intimate knowledge of the horror of a caving roof, fire in the pit, misfired blasting powder.

They are the ones who have been crushed, burned, gassed or hurt by flying machinery or debris, but lived.

The others know perhaps how close they came themselves, or of friends, brothers, fathers and sons who did not make it.

And they thank God it wasn't them, or pray for the widows and children.

A few of them quit for good.

The rest pick up their lunch buckets and go back to the only life they know—underground.

Donohue Brothers Ltd., the Quebec company that last year produced a record 125,908 tons of pulp and paper for the U.S. market, is confident of further gains this year.

A report from the company says the best estimates predict "a modest increase in newsprint demand from North American consumers and longer range forecasts present encouraging prospects for Canadian suppliers."

It points out both Canadian and U.S. mills are expanding, improving yield, or both, to meet this demand.

Sweeping Reforms Proposed

TORONTO (CP) — Sweeping reforms of Ontario's company laws, which could affect the actions of everyone from the smallest investor to the biggest director, were recommended Tuesday.

And, if the committee which drew up the proposals after two years of study has its way, more are to come.

The recommendations were contained in the report of the legislature's committee on company law, tabled in the legislature.

Written against a background of what the committee's 11 members call "recent notorious events" in Ontario's business community, it proposes in brief:

1. A code of ethics for company directors, backed by regulations making them responsible in law for their actions;

2. Wider and easier provisions for shareholders to sue directors, in case directors do not follow the ethics code;

3. New powers for shareholders to start investigations of their company's affairs, to remove directors from office or to demand shareholder meetings;

4. Auditors who are absolutely independent of management, clear of any conflicts of interest and available to answer shareholders' questions at annual meetings;

5. What in effect would be a new court of senior judges who would be available to handle shareholder complaints quickly and with a minimum of red tape, while at the same time building up a backlog of experience in what the committee calls the increasingly complex world of business regulations;

6. New provisions covering conduct of trustees to elevate their standards of behavior and care;

7. Incorporation of professional people such as doctors, lawyers and architects as limited companies, with the resulting tax benefits.

Committee chairman Allan Lawrence PC — Toronto-St. George) told a news conference the results of the recommendations could be extremely far-reaching.

OTTAWA FORECAST

Capital Spending In B.C. to Drop

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—An over-all decrease in capital outlays in British Columbia is forecast for 1967 mainly because of greatly reduced spending for new pulp and paper projects.

This decrease was predicted Monday in the annual private and public investment survey published by the trade department and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

It showed the national capital spending will rise only 1 per cent to $15.1 billion, and British Columbia's spending will be down 3 per cent from last year.

Of the five major areas in Canada decreases were forecast only for Quebec and B.C. Capital spending increases are predicted at 3 per cent for Ontario, 6 per cent in the Atlantic provinces and 7 per cent in the Prairies.

In B.C. an increase in capital spending for natural gas transmission and power facilities in conjunction with a relatively unchanged social capital program is anticipated.

However, the reduced level of spending in new pulp and paper projects will result in an overall decrease in capital outlays.

The total capital and repair expenditures for construction, machinery and equipment in B.C. will be $2,482,000,000 for 1967. This is down from the previous year's total of $2,524,000,000.

The biggest factor in the drop is in capital expenditures on machinery and equipment which will account for $669 million this year instead of the 1966 total of $810 million.

In the paper and allied industries the total capital and repair expenditures for construction, machinery and equipment is expected to fall from $285 million in 1966 to $191 million this year.

Total outlays in the same category of manufacturing in petroleum and coal products are expected to double for a total of $16 million.

Capital spending in manufacturing is down in both major B.C. cities.

Canadian Car Output Declines

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian production of motor vehicles during the first quarter of 1967 fell 11.4 per cent below the total for the corresponding period last year, says the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association.

January gains by both American Motors (Canada) Ltd., and Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd., gave them slight increases for the quarter. Ford's production rose 2.3 per cent with production of 81,469 vehicles against last year's 79,535.

Although total production in March by the Big Four in Canada was the peak for the year it was well below the March, 1966 record. They produced 82,922 vehicles last month compared with 71,572 in February and 77,768 in January.

VIETNAM TIGHTROPE

'Blast It to Hell —Get Out of Here'

Perhaps the toughest challenge facing a sensitive man in Vietnam is maintaining his balance amidst the frustration and inhumanity of war. An Associated Press reporter spent several days with a man, who is not identified, walking an emotional tightrope. Here he tells how the war has affected this one man.

By JOHN NANCE

WAR ZONE C, Vietnam (AP) — The dark purlish lines etched around the man's eyes and the stubble of whiskers bristling on his jowels would not have been there a year ago.

Then he was in residency at a large American hospital, studying to become a brain surgeon.

Now he was in War Zone C as an army captain and doctor for a U.S. infantry battalion pursuing a Viet Cong force fleeing toward the Cambodian border.

The doctor was 28, and sometimes he looked it when he smiles. He had been in Vietnam four months.

He was headed for a spot on the edge of the clearing where a guerrilla had been shot dead when he stumbled into American positions.

He reached a cluster of men digging a grave. The dead man was flopped on his back, mouth agape.

NOTES FILLINGS

"Lookit that, Billy," doc said, nudging one of the digging soldiers. "He has gold fillings. Why, those are worth 50 bucks apiece anywhere."

"What, you kiddin' me, doc? No, No, you're not. That makes sense. Where's my blade?"

Billy jumped out of the half-dug hold and reached for a knife on his pistol belt. Billy and the others were about 18 years old.

"Show me where to cut, doc. It's crazy to let that gold go to waste. Fifty bucks apiece: this guy'll never need it."

Minutes later as they walked away a man asked the doctor about his part in the gruesome business: "What was that for? To start with, telling those kids the fillings were worth 50 bucks; three bucks is more like it."

"Yeah, the doctor said. Guess you're right. But they wanted to do it anyway. No harm done."

"What kind of doctor are you? Those guys acted like animals and you pushed them into it."

LIKE ANIMALS?

"Right again," but he did not laugh this time. "Like animals — exactly: Aren't we all?

"What kind of doctor am I? I'll tell you. I'm a doctor trained to help people live. And I try. I've tried to save guys who were so chewed up you couldn't tell who they were. I've had to stuff arms and legs of kids — friends — into body bags and be glad to find most of the pieces."

Later, after supper, the doctor talked about his wife of two years, about going back to his medical studies and about some old movies he'd seen. He talked about some men in the battalion.

"There's this friend of mine here you should meet.

"Dominic, a lieutenant, head of the reconnaissance platoon. Would you believe he's an antique dealer?

"Dom gets out of Vietnam in . . . let's see . . . 11 days."

Next day Dominic led a patrol into the jungle and ran into a Viet Cong ambush.

The doctor went out to meet them.

"It was awful,' he said later. "A grenade had got him right in the face. There was just nothing I could do . . . nothing.

"Well I say kill all those Commies . . . Blow up the whole damned place. It stinks. It all stinks. Blast it to hell apart and let's all get out of here."

Terrorism Increases In Political Battle

SAIGON (AP)—Terrorism to sabotage South Vietnam's transition to civilian government is increasing.

Political candidates, members of the Constituent Assembly which wrote South Vietnam's new constitution, and other civilians are the targets. Police informants say the terrorism is being fomented by feuding political factions as well as by the Communists.

Grenades concealed in cake boxes with threatening letters were found Tuesday in the homes of two members of the Constituent Assembly. The new constitution went into effect Saturday and the assemblymen are scheduled to start writing elections laws Thursday.

An elected civilian administration is supposed to replace the military regime after voting Sept. 1 and Oct. 1.

At least four candidates in local council elections that started Sunday have been killed, 10 have been kidnapped and many others have been threatened. The Viet Cong also have made mortar and grenade attacks on polling places.

One political party, the Vietnam Quoc Dan Dang, urged its members not to be candidates because they might attract Viet Cong reprisals.

But more than 85 per cent of the registered voters cast ballots in the 219 villages that voted Sunday. The voting continues for four more Sundays.

5,557 CONG DEFECT TO GOV'T FORCES

SAIGON (Reuters)—More than 5,500 Viet Cong defected to the government under its "open arms" program last month, almost double the total for any previous month of the war, it was announced today.

A United States military spokesman said guerrilla defectors for the week ending April 1 numbered 1,000, giving an over-all figure for March of 5,557.

Cong Guerrillas Kill Eight Police

SAIGON (Reuters) — Viet Cong guerrillas disguised as government troops and police Tuesday night attacked a Saigon police station, killed eight persons in a 20-minute fight and destroyed the station, a government military spokesman said today.

He said an estimated company of guerrillas hit the police station in Cholon, Saigon's densely populated Chinese sector, with recoilless rifles and grenades.

The guerrillas wearing green camouflaged uniforms of the South Vietnamese Army and combat police, drove up to the post in three small buses, the most common form of public transport here and which normally carry about 10 passengers.

Other Viet Cong walked alongside the buses and still more opened fire on the station with recoilless cannon fire, he said.

Village Burned by Error In Resettlement Program

NUI DAT, South Vietnam (Reuters)—Australian army efforts to resettle peasant farmers living in Viet Cong - dominated territory were set back Tuesday when assisting South Vietnamese troops burned a village by mistake, a U.S. Army officer said here today.

More than 1,000 persons eventually will be resettled in safe areas of Phuoc Tuy province as part of Operation Portsea, the largest Australian drive of the war and the first in which American troops are under Australian command.

Contact with the Viet Cong during the operation, which started March 21 as part of a plan to cut supplies to the Viet Cong's 5th Division, so far has been light. Viet Cong troops have fled up to 20 miles to avoid clashes with the 5,000-man Australian, U.S. and South Vietnamese force, allied officers said at Nui Dat base camp, 30 miles east of Saigon.

TOLD THEY COULD MOVE

Reporting Tuesday's incident, Capt. Gerry Thomerson, U.S. Army adviser to South Vietnamese troops in the nearby village of Binh Gia, said about 25 families were told they could move all their possessions to new quarters set up for them at Binh Gia.

He said the peasants also were told to take the framework of their old homes to aid Australian civic aid workers in the construction of new dwellings. But South Vietnamese troops set fire by mistake to the houses as the peasants moved out, he said.

The cold facts about cooked pudding.

Or, how to get that real home-cooked flavour your kids will love, without all the fuss and bother of cooking.

Used to be when you wanted real, honest-to-goodness home-cooked flavour in a pudding, that's what you had to do. Cook it.

Because cooking made it better. Cooking made it smoother, creamier. And it brought out all its flavour. The only thing was, cooking was such a lot of bother. You had to get a pot and mix the stuff in and then stir it and stir it and watch it till it boiled. Oops. Careful. And then cool it. And when you were through you had a real cooked pudding alright but more often than not you had a real mess too. Guck.

So what this country needed was a pudding that tasted just like the cooked kind, without the cooking.

Robin Hood cooked one up. The new Robin Hood Parfait Pudding. The Unique One.

With the new Robin Hood Parfait Pudding all you do is add milk, chill, and serve. There's nothing to it. Takes about 15 minutes in all. And it really does taste like the kind you slave over. How do we know? We tried it on the experts. Lots of them. 7, 8 and 9 year olds. The toughest critics we could find. And they agreed. They said it does taste just like the kind their moms cook for them. The kind where they couldn't wait to lick the pot.

The new Robin Hood Parfait (they said) had the same texture too. It was thick and creamy just like cooked. Smooth, with no lumps. Not watery either. Just good wholesome old-fashioned pudding, a new-fashioned way. They loved all its five delicious flavours too. Chocolate, Butterscotch, Vanilla, Lemon, and Coconut Cream.

And that's why Robin Hood Parfait is The Unique One. Because there just aren't any other puddings that can match it for real cooked flavour. And in this day and age of Instants, and artificial flavours and synthetics, that is unique.

What's more, Robin Hood Parfait gives you more for your money. It makes up into six big servings. Not just four like the others. (And that's pretty unique too.)

So why not give new Robin Hood Parfait pudding a try tomorrow. Find out for yourself why we call it The Unique One.

And years from now, when your kids have grown up and gone they'll always remember Robin Hood chill and serve Parfait as the good home-cooked pudding mother used to make. That's a fact.

Guyle Guides Totes

With Guyle Fielder wheeling in high gear as the regular season ended, Seattle Totems could be the team to beat in Western Hockey League playoffs, which get under way tonight on two fronts.

Totems will be at home to Oakland Seals and Vancouver Canucks will be at Portland in opening games of best-of-seven semi-finals.

Totems ended the season as the league's hottest club, mainly because Fielder was staging a brilliant finish to win his ninth WHL scoring championship.

Golden Guyle, after collecting seven goals and 30 assists in the first half of the season, broke loose for 13 goals and 41 assists in the second half to finish with 91 points and beat out Portland's Art Jones by two points.

SET CLUB RECORD

Guyle's guidance helped the Totems set a club record by being unbeaten in 11 successive games and posting nine straight wins during the closing surge that gave them second place.

Seals also finished strongly, taking fourth place from Victoria Maple Leafs by losing only two of their last eight games. Over the season, Seattle had a 5-4-3 edge over Oakland but the Seals outscored the Totes 44 goals to 32.

Canucks, who faded a bit in the closing stages to finish third, managed only one tie in their first nine games with the league-champion Buckaroos but won their last three.

Both semi-finals will resume Friday with the Totems again at home and the Buckaroos moving to Vancouver.

San Diego's Fred Hilts set a league record by scoring three goals in five games and took the goal-scoring title with 45 markers. Fielder, as usual, topped the list in assists, this time with 71.

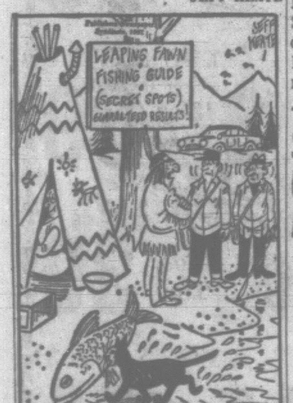
TIME OUT

By JEFF KEATE



"Can't catch anything around here, Paleface, but for forty dollars Leaping Fawn guide you to choice spots."

GETTING CLOSE to his work, venerable Samuel Snead practices croquet putting style in warmup round for Masters golf tournament which gets under way Thursday. Snead is gunning for fourth Masters.

Cowan and Cole Threats To Top Pros at Augusta

AUGUSTA, Ga. (CP) — This could well be the year the Masters golf tournament is won by an amateur for the first time.

It also could be the second time in recent years someone other than a United States golfer — notably Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus — takes the event.

For rarely in recent years have amateurs and foreign entries looked as strong as they have in practice rounds this week for the 72-hole test that starts here Thursday.

In four practice rounds he has played, U.S. Amateur champion Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., has a 74, a 70 and two 71s for a 286 total, which last year would have won the event by two strokes.

One of the longest hitters in amateur ranks today, he still is short of the power of 130-pound, 19-year-old Bobby Cole of South Africa who drives within yards of Nicklaus on a course experts say is designed to favor the long, true players off the tee.

PLAYING BELOW PAR

And, while Nicklaus and Palmer are conceded the favorite roles in the tourney on the strength of Palmer's four Masters championships and Nicklaus' three—including the only back-to-back wins in Masters history—neither has been playing his best recently.

The Canadian professional is, of course, George Knudson of Toronto, who has risen in the final Masters standing in each of the last two years and has appeared sharp in practice.

GAINS ASSURANCE

Knudson, 10th this year in money winnings among touring pros, finished 10th in the Masters two years ago and sixth last year.

As well as gaining experience and assurance every time out, he has a Canada Cup individual title under his belt heading into this year's competition.

The top foreign professionals entered are Gary Player of South Africa, who broke the Nicklaus-Palmer hold on the tournament in 1961, Bob Charles of New Zealand and Bruce Crampton and Kel Nagle of Australia.

BOYCOTT BY HORSEMEN LEAVES AQUEDUCT DARK

NEW YORK (AP)—Aqueduct cancelled Tuesday's horse-race program when owners refused to enter their horses for the nine-race program.

Members of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association withheld their entries Tuesday because the state legislature did not approve a one-half-per-cent reduction in the state's take of the wagering so that purses could be increased.

The track kept the entry box open several hours beyond the usual closing time, but there was no response from the horsemen.

There was no indication when racing would be resumed.

Playoffs Aplenty For Soccer Fans

Being held high for all to see this weekend are games revolving around the Province Cup, the Jackson Cup and the Pacific Coast League's playoff trophy.

The PCSL prize holds all the interest for North Shore. The club has to beat or tie league champion Victoria O'Keefes in their Sunday match at Vancouver in order to qualify as one of the four teams that will participate in the playoffs.

In Victoria, the "main event" is a Province Cup bout between Victoria West of the District League and the Croatia team from the Mainland League.

The game will be played Saturday at Heywood Avenue Park, starting at 2 p.m.

JACKSON STARTS

Competition for the District League's Jackson Cup will start Sunday with two games. Canadian Scottish will face Red Lions at Heywood and Luckies meet Tally-Ho at Central Park.

The Wests and Hourigan's Kickers are the other first-division teams vying for the trophy. Because of West's Province Cup commitments, their match has been set back to a later date.

Sunday's games also start at 2 p.m.

STRIKINGLY UNDERHANDED DECISION . . .

TORONTO (CP)—In an underhanded move, the Toronto Softball League has ruled that henceforth it's two strikes and you're out—three balls and you take a base.

Reason for the reduction of strike-out pitches to two from three and walk balls to three from four, says Alf Lewis, a league executive member, is to speed up the game.

Chuvalo Scores Kayo

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — George Chuvalo chased Willie Besmanoff for two rounds Tuesday night before putting his German-born foe away in the third round with a pair of knockdowns.

Chuvalo, weighing 217, ended the bout with a smashing right to the jaw. Referee Barney Felix raised the Canadian's hand with 1:02 gone in the round.

Lions Rap Defecting Coach

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions said Tuesday they consider the resignation of assistant coach Bill Hildebrand to be a breach of contract.

Hildebrand is quitting the Lions to take a coaching job with Mississippi State University.

Allan McEachern, B.C. president, issued a formal statement which said:

"No one connected with Mississippi State University has requested permission to employ coach Hildebrand, as is usual in cases such as this."

The Lions were informed some time ago, said McEachern, by Hildebrand, that he was considering returning to Mississippi, where he previously had played and coached, but he later stated he had decided to stay with the Lions.

McEachern's statement said that about three days ago Hildebrand called head coach Dave Skrien, who was then out of the city, and stated he had decided definitely to join the coaching staff at Mississippi.

Skrien asked Hildebrand to leave the matter in abeyance until his return to the city Monday.

But the story was released prematurely at Mississippi State Monday, added McEachern, and the Lions directors therefore only learned of Hildebrand's resignation Tuesday.

McEachern, who also is pro-tem commissioner of the Canadian Football League, said "the club (Lions) considers that a definite breach of contract has occurred and none of the clubs rights has been waived."

Irish 'Sweep' To Ben Novus

DONCASTER, England—British-owned Ben Novus, a 22-to-1 shot, today won the 112th running of the Lincolnshire Handicap with a half-length victory over Aberdeen.

Danella was third in the race that held the interest of millions because the outcome decides the first of the year's three Irish sweepstakes.

Today's race also touches off one of the big betting splurges of the year for Britons. They try to couple the winner of the Lincolnshire and the Grand National, the latter to be run off on Saturday, in what is known as the "spring double."

$150,000 TOPS

But the double payoff won't match the £50,000 ($150,000) won by holders of sweepstakes tickets on Ben Novus.

Late scratches of two well-regarded entries, Christmas Review and Lucky Biscuit, cut today's starting field to 24. The Biscuit was expected to be scratched because of firm turf. He has a bad knee and requires soft footing.

The two drew clear of the field in the final furlong of the mile race and jockey Peter Robinson, aboard Ben Novus, pulled his mount ahead for the half-length victory.

KIBENKA FAILS

Aberdeen was the second favorite and the third favorite Giddaby, at 17-to-2, also finished well back. Third-placed Danella started at 30-to-1.

Ben Novus, carrying 108 pounds, won a first prize of £6,583 ($19,749) for his British owner, J. N. Peatt.

Two horses—Tracker and Shady Knight—finished in a dead heat for fourth place on the course made hard and firm by drying winds. Tracker was 100-to-6 in the betting and Shady Knight 18-to-1.

NEW COACH of newest entry in National Basketball Association is Al Bianchi. He has signed three-year contract to pilot Seattle Supersonics.

Alberta Firemen Wrap Up Crown

WINNIPEG (CP) — Alberta crowned its first-place finish in the Dominion Firefighters' curling championship Tuesday with an 8-7 win over defending champion Saskatchewan.

Patterson Signs For Another Go

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson are set for another collision, at Las Vegas April 25 in what figures to be Patterson's last shot at the heavyweight boxing title and the unbeaten champion's last stand before his showdown with the U.S. Army.

Clay, or Muhammad Ali, signed Tuesday to defend against Patterson in the desert gambling mecca, where he battered the former champion for 11 rounds 1½ years ago before winning by a technical knockout in the 12th.

The return meeting was shifted to Las Vegas from Detroit after negotiations broke down with the Detroit promoting group last week. A threatened lawsuit to prevent the Las Vegas bout failed to come off Tuesday.

Clay, 25, faces induction into the Army April 29 after failing to gain exemption as a minister of the Black Muslim religious sect.

New Lion Plans To Dodge Draft

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Lions have announced that halfback Don Moore, leading ground gainer with the Washington State Huskies in 1966, has been ordered to report to his draft board at Tacoma, Wash.

Moore, 21, said in a telephone interview from his home at Tacoma he has no intention of reporting to the board.

Moore said he will speak with general manager Denny Vietch of the Canadian Football League club before making further comment.

IT'S NOT TIME YET TO HOOK INTO HALIBUT

The district fisheries office has issued a reminder to all fishermen, sportsmen and commercial, that the season for halibut is closed. Persons caught with halibut are subject to a maximum fine of $1,000.

The halibut season reopens May 9, at 6 p.m. PST.

HULL MAY BE READY

Jitters Lacking On Series' Eve

(Times News Services)

Considering that they will be playing for big stakes when their National Hockey League semi-final series starts Thursday night, Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks were in a playful mood at their hideaways Tuesday.

The Hawks' workout in a small, suburban Chicago rink was so relaxed that at one point Phil Esposito and Dennis Hull took part in a friendly joust at centre ice with their sticks as staffs.

Stan Mikita hardly worked up a sweat. He took several shots at goalkeepers Dennis DeJordy and Glenn Hall and skated briefly before retiring to the showers.

All the Hawks were on hand except Doug Mohns. He has a recurring back ailment. Coach Billy Reay says Mohns will play Thursday.

Reay said it was "hard to tell whether he (Hull) will be all right for the first game." Perhaps significantly Hull was one of the last four Hawks to leave the ice.

At Peterborough, coach Punch Imlach had a difficult time keeping levity out of the Leafs' two drills.

Rather than work on new drills to counteract the Hawks' strength, the Leafs were full of hi-jinks.

So full that Imlach had to threaten $100 fines for Dave Keon and Bob Pulford, who didn't want to leave the ice after the 75-minute morning workout.

This was after Imlach had threatened fines to players who turned up as late as 11 a.m. — Pulford again — for the 10:45 workout.

Eddie Shack contributed to the frivolity by swirling and snaking around the ice while passing pucks to players darting in on goalies Johnny Bower and Terry Sawchuk. Peter Stemkowski did his bit by leading the club in unscheduled calisthenics — normally a training camp procedure but seldom used in Stanley Cup preparation.

Imlach saw the gaiety as a sign of good morale. He was also heartened to learn that Larry Jeffrey's supposed shoulder separation was nothing more than a bad bruise. Jeffrey worked at pushups harder than anyone.

The game will be televised nationally by the CBC.

HABS HAVE MOMENTUM

Giacomin Gives Rangers a Boost

(Times News Services)

The New York Rangers were full of confidence and the Montreal Canadiens were full of motivation today as they broke camp and prepared to open their Stanley Cup semi-final Thursday in Montreal.

"I think we can beat Montreal because we're better on defence," said manager-coach Emile Francis.

Habs' captain Jean Beliveau said the players were grateful to management for not shipping them out when the club was going poorly early in the season.

Now is the time, Beliveau indicated, for the players to show their gratitude.

GIACOMIN TOUGH

Frances' premise starts with goalkeeper Ed Giacomin.

"In Giacomin," Francis said, "we have a big edge."

Bernie Geoffrion is another man with playoff experience (14 seasons with Canadiens) Francis is counting on to stop the Habs.

POINT FOR HABS

But in the psychological department Montreal may have the real edge.

As centre Ralph Backstrom put it: "Let's face the truth. There's hardly a man on the team who didn't deserve to be sent to the minors at one time or another during the season.

"Things didn't go well at all during the first half and even until the last six weeks of the schedule, but management didn't panic by making a lot of changes."

Added Beliveau: "Since most of the fellows regained confidence the last month" (the Habs finished with six straight wins) "we're bound to be hard to beat."

Strike Won't Keep Hockey, Golf Off TV

NEW YORK (CP)—Strike or no strike, the Columbia Broadasting System will provide U.S. television network coverage of the Stanley Cup playoff hockey game in Montreal Saturday and of the Masters golf tournament in Augusta, Ga., Saturday and Sunday, CBS has announced.

CBS will be on the air with the Stanley Cup Series game between New York Rangers and the Canadiens in Montreal Saturday from 1:30 to 4 p.m. EST—or later if the game lasts longer.

* * *

The strike is by the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists against CBS, NBC and ABC.

CBS also has exclusinve network-TV coverage rights for the Masters and will be on the air Saturday and Sunday with coverage of the final two days of the event. Supervisory personnel will handle the telecasts if the strike has not been settled, the spokesmen said.

HOGARTH, HUNGLE AND KOSTER . . . . . . THREATS IN TIMES ISLAND OPEN

Watch Out for Long-Hitting Nanaimo Lads!

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Three hard-hitting youngsters are bringing Nanaimo into focus in the Times Vancouver Island Open match play golf championships.

Bob Hogarth, Gene Koster and Ron Hungle are the first Nanaimo players to qualify for the Island's major match-play tournament in more than a decade.

All three are intermediate members at Nanaimo Golf Club.

Victoria area golf fans will remember Hungle as the lad who chalked up a pair of notable upsets to reach the quarterfinals of the Canadian junior tournament at Colwood two years ago.

Hungle, who qualified with a 77 at Victoria club last Sunday, has drawn Cowichan pro Norm Boden, the 1961 Island champion, for his first-round battle.

Onlookers were awed when southpaw Emile Beauchemin walloped a booming drive off the 11th tee and went into the green with a six iron. The length of the 11th is 474 yards.

Yet Hogarth outdrove Beauchemin on the 11th, and went into the green with an eight iron!

The Nanaimo younster, who faces Gorge Vale assistant pro Mel Carlow in his match Sunday, consistently belted out lengthy drives. Although shy on poundage, Hogarth appears to get most of his power from exceptional wrist action.

In addition to the three Nanaimo players, five Cowichan members also qualified for match play. The eight represent the greatest number of up-Island players ever to qualify.

In addition to Boden, the other Cowichan qualifiers are Ken Barber, veteran Gord Whan, Brian Stott and Ted Reynolds.

Sunday's action starts with handicap division pairings leading the way off the first tee at 9:30 a.m. Championship pairings move off at 10:50.

Sunday's draw is printed elsewhere on this page.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Joining list of winners in annual Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest is Barbara McNeilly, who captured women's tenpin award in 24th week of 27-week event. Barbara earned award by rolling 167-202-199-568 series in Ladies' Classic League at Mayfair Lanes and is now eligible for Bowler-of-the-Year rolloffs on April 30.

Torrie Anderson and Grace Webster tied for the "B" division lead with net 72s and Monica White (net 76) was the "C" division winner.

Even Coaches Connect With Slugging Pirates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The slugging Pittsburgh Pirates, not satisfied with having the top hitter in the National League last season, unveiled their candidate for the best hitting coach in the league.

He is catcher Hal Smith, known more for his defensive abilities with St. Louis Cardinals before a heart ailment sidelined him midway through the 1961 season.

Smith who will be 36 on June 1, took bat in hand Tuesday and singled to start a three-run rally that stopped Boston Red Sox 3-1 in an exhibition game.

The Pirates, whose Matty Alou led the league at .342 last year, overlooked Jim Pagliaroni and Jesse Gonder for Smith, who opened the eighth inning with a single. George Spriggs later followed with a two-run triple.

Baltimore Orioles relied on old-reliable Frank Robinson to touch off their attack that beat Washington Senators 7-4. He drove in three runs with a home run and a double.

DROVE IN 5 RUNS

Jim Northrup of Detroit Tigers brought home five runs, three with a triple in an 11-run third inning that crushed New York Mets, whose Ron Swoboda homered, 14-10.

Gary Bell, Jack Kralick and John O'Donoghue stopped San Francisco Giants on four hits and came away with a 1-0 triumph for Cleveland.

Don Sutton sparkled with a three hitter for seven innings while Jim Hickman and Al Ferrara homered and Los Angeles Dodgers outslugged Houston Astros 10-6.

Tim Talton's bases - loaded single broke a ninth-inning tie and handed Kansas City Athletics a 6-5 victory over Cincinnati Reds.

Chicago White Sox outhit Minnesota 17-14 and outscored the Twins 12-7 with Tommie Agee hitting his sixth homer of the spring for the White Sox.

New York Yankees pelted Bob Bruce for four runs in the fifth inning and beat Atlanta Braves 5-3. Ray Barker's two-run hit was the big blow in the rally.

Bob Tolan's two-run single sparked a five-run seventh inning against Jim Bunning and sparked the Cardinals to a 6-4 triumph over Philadelphia Phillies.

. . . GO-GO CABINET

Another lawyer from Shawinigan, Quebec, he has been a lively and hard-working parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp and will remain attached to the finance department in his new cabinet job.

Finally there was Walter Gordon who, in spite of his 61 years has often been regarded as the champion of young reform-minded Liberals. He was moved into the president of the privy council's office to pursue his favorite topic of foreign investment and any other duties Mr. Pearson chooses to assign.

SPLIT RESPONSIBILITIES

Mr. Gordon and Mr. Turner have split the responsibilities formerly held jointly by ailing Guy Favreau who has resigned his Commons seat and will be a judge of the Supreme Court of Quebec.

None of the new appointment or shifts was unexpected in Ottawa, but they are interesting in the make-up of a cabinet which has changed considerably in four years.

Mr. Turner is already being mentioned as a serious leadership contender when Mr. Pearson steps down.

With only four years experience in the Commons, he has been itching to move quickly and obtain his own portfolio.

As a novice back-bencher he was first made parliamentary secretary to Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing.

In that capacity he delved into the problems of the north and schooled himself in the complex question of water resources which is certain to be an important area of interest between Canada and the United States in future years.

When he was appointed minister without portfolio in December, 1965, Mr. Turner was assigned to assist Transport Minister Pickersgill who has been generous in his praise of his young assistant. It was felt at one point that Mr. Turner might inherit the transport portfolio.

However, when serious illness kept Mr. Favreau away from Parliament for months, Mr. Turner took over the responsibilities of registrar general which are now his own.

There has been little secrecy about the fact that Mr. Turner wanted to trade his anonymity as an assistant for a bigger job.

Now he has the opportunity and obligation to prove his own potential.

He will have responsibility for business regulations such as bankruptcy, company laws, combines and monopolies and securities legislation if the federal government decides to enter the field.

CONSUMER AFFAIRS

Prime Minister Pearson is also expected to announce shortly that the contentious question of consumer affairs will be added to Mr. Turner's portfolio.

Mr. Trudeau is the second of the "three wise men from Quebec" to be appointed to the cabinet since the 1965 election.

The first was Manpower Minister Jean Marchand, and the third is journalist Gerard Pelletier who as yet has not made a significant move closer to the circle of power.

A native of Montreal, Mr. Trudeau holds a master of political science from Harvard and did post-graduate work at the University of Paris and the London School of Economics.

He was appointed associate professor of law at the University of Montreal in 1961 and for more than a decade has been a lively critic of the practices and policies of government — including Liberal governments.

TAKEN ITS TOLL

Mr. Trudeau inherits a portfolio that has taken its toll on recent ministers such as Mr. Favreau and Mr. Cardin.

Although many former functions of justice now rest with the solicitor-general and the registrar-general, Mr. Trudeau will probably gear the portfolio to match his own background.

He hopes to breathe new life into the question of amendments to the Canadian constitution, a subject which has died twice under former ministers.

Contemplated amendments to the Criminal Code involving laws on divorce, birth control and abortion, will be part of his job.

He is also interested in moving on with legislation on hate literature and wishes to study the whole question of contempt of court.

FRESH IDEAS

The appointment of Mr. Trudeau cannot help but bring fresh ideas into the cabinet, and Mr. Turner's promotion will enable him to move ahead with greater confidence.

Both Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Chretien have served as personal parliamentary secretaries to the prime minister.

Mr. Pearson may well be designing a cabinet now that will exist to function after he has retired from political life.

Legislative Lawyer Resigns Post

British Columbia's legislative counsel for the past 10 years has resigned to re-enter private practice.

Gerald Cross, who graduated with University of B.C.'s first low class in 1948 along with such other prominent lawyers as Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Lloyd McKenzie, resumed private practice this week.

He said he had enjoyed his tenure as one of the top lawyers in government service.

"It's a good job for someone who likes that kind of work," he said.

EXACTING WORK

The drawing of new legislation for presentation to the legislative assembly is exacting work, often done under pressure, and involves working closely with the premier and attorney-general, other government ministers and deputies.

Mr. Cross said he had found Mr. Bonner and Premier Bennett easy men to work with.

After his graduation, Mr. Cross worked in private practice and for a Vancouver trust company, joining the attorney-general's office as an assistant departmental solicitor in July, 1956.

He became legislative counsel the following year.

Mr. Cross has opened a Victoria office for a long-established Vancouver law firm, Cumming, Bird, Richards and Cross, which was first opened by Thomas G. Norris, now a justice of the B.C. Supreme Court.

Ties With Romania

OTTAWA (CP) — Diplomatic relations have been established between Canada and Romania, External Affairs Minister Martin announced Tuesday. The agreement to establish relations, which will initially be at the level of non-resident ambassadors, came at the conclusion of talks which began in Ottawa on March 7. It took effect Monday.

NET GROWTH OF ALMOST SIX PER CENT

Price Increases Cut Into GNP Gain

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's gross national product, measurement of all goods and services produced in the economy, increased 10.9 per cent in 1966 to $57,800,000,000.

The advance reflected strong market demands at home and buoyant export sales, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today in its annual GNP report.

But price increases, averaging 4.6 per cent across the economy, reduced the real terms of the growth to 5.9 per cent.

On this basis, 1966 was a year of slightly slower growth than 1965, when price increases averaging 2.8 per cent brought a GNP increase of 9.9 per cent down to a gain of 6.9 per cent in real terms. The 1965 GNP was $52,109,000,000.

DBS said the fourth quarter of 1966 brought a gain of two per cent. This compared with 4¾ per cent for the first quarter, two per cent in the second quarter and less than one per cent in the third quarter when strikes were a major factor.

SPENDING HIGHER

The report said consumer spending was nine per cent higher than in 1965. Because disposable income increased 9½ per cent, net personal savings were higher.

While over-all price increases averaged 4.6 per cent, the increases for consumer goods averaged 3½ per cent, compared with two per cent a year earlier.

Foreign demand for Canada's goods increased by 15½ per cent, compared with six per cent in 1965.

Labor income rose nearly 13 per cent, "one of the largest year-to-year gains since 1951." Farm income was up 34 per cent with the record western grain crop and as previously reported corporation profits showed a fractional decline.

The year's industrial disputes caused a loss of almost 5,000,000 man - working days, more than double 1965. DBS said the sharp rise in wage rates "greatly outpaced productivity gains, resulting in a notable rise in unit labor costs."

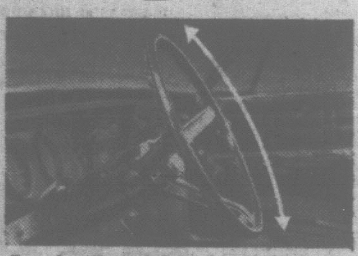
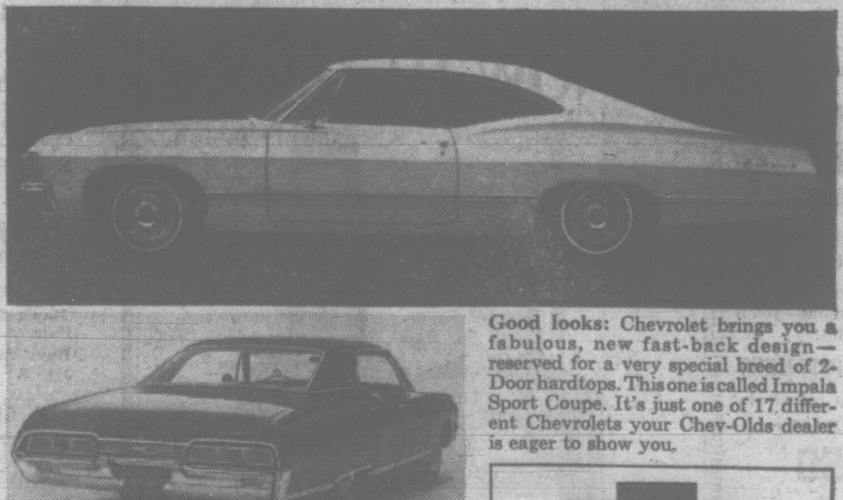
Comfort: Chevrolet is very generous on this one. Just sink into those softly-padded seats and discover how generous. And then you can't help but notice no-cost extras like wall-to-wall deep-twist carpeting, acoustical ceiling and padded instrument panel.

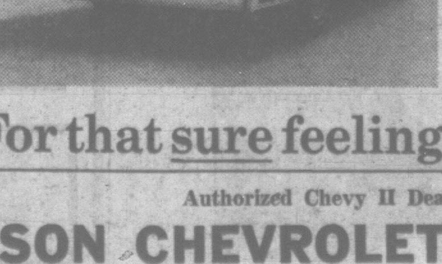
Seat back latches: Chevrolet's folding front seat backs can't tip forward until you let them. You do it simply by pushing a button like this. It's a standard feature on every Chevrolet. Isn't that a comfort!

Ride: Chevrolet has a new way of cushioning the body, which, together with refinements in the rear suspension, helps smooth the bumps away and hushes up those annoying little road noises.



Comfortilt steering wheel: Chevrolet always did spoil you—so you shouldn't be too surprised at this thoughtful option. It lets you tilt the steering wheel to your most comfortable driving position. Trust Chevrolet to think of that.





Good looks: Chevrolet brings you a fabulous, new fast-back design—reserved for a very special breed of 2-Door hardtops. This one is called Impala Sport Coupe. It's just one of 17 different Chevrolets your Chev-Olds dealer is eager to show you.

Tory Snipers Take Aim At Hellyer, Defence Chief

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP)—A band of Conservative snipers took dead aim at Defence Minister Hellyer and Gen. Jean V. Allard in the Commons Tuesday.

They promised a stout fight against Mr. Hellyer's bill to unify the armed forces and charged that the minister had misled the House and the people on the bill.

They also said that Gen. Allard, chief of the defence staff, had been unable to produce any argument for unification except his "strong conviction" it would be a good thing.

"Go ahead and use closure," Jack McIntosh (PC—Swift Current - Maple Creek) challenged the government. "We expect that from the Liberal party."

He described Gen. Allard as a "yes-man."

Hebert Smith (PC — Simcoe North) was even harsher, accusing the general of "haughty arrogance" in his appearance before the Commons defence committee.

Mr. Smith said he thought dismissed Rear - Admiral William Landymore had exaggerated when he told the committee he worried about the possibility of a military takeover in Canada. But hearing some of Gen. Allard's answers made Mr. Smith wonder whether the admiral "didn't have some basis" for his fears.

ACCUSE MINISTER

Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary North) and Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre), both former defence ministers, repeatedly accused Mr. Hellyer of making the same false statements time and time again in pushing his bill.

The minister and Canada's top military man came under fire as the unification bill went through its second day of clause-by-clause study. It is the major item to be cleared away before the Commons can end the present overtime session and start a new one.

Mr. Harkness described Mr. Hellyer's 60 - minute speech Monday as repeating "complete nonsense" and "completely false" statements that had been disproved during the minister's appearance before the committee.

The minister kept saying unification would allow more money to be put into equipment while less was spent on administration. But the percentage of defence funds put into equipment kept going down while the total bill for defence was rising.

The minister's attitude was to say "nonsense" to all criticism of his program "and make general statements which he cannot substantiate."

Mr. Churchill backed his colleague's arguments, saying he did not see how a useful debate could be carried on when Mr. Hellyer continued to make statements that were "palpably untrue."

Mr. Hellyer interjected briefly that he would reply to the "spurious allegations," by Mr. Harkness later in the debate.

Gilles Gregoire (Ind — Lapointe) accused Mr. Harkness and Mr. Churchill of a "racist" attitude in their attack on Gen. Allard for statements attributed to him in a weekend speech in Montreal.

He said they should withdraw their words and questioned whether they would have voiced similar criticism of a defence chief who was not a French-Canadian.

Conservatives shouted "shame" at this and later speakers zeroed in on Gen. Allard's appearance before the defence committee.

Mr. McIntosh said the defence chief showed "inability to give intelligent answers" to committee questions.

Select Young Man, Gordon Tells Grits

TORONTO (CP)—Walter Gordon, a member of the federal cabinet, says the Liberal Party of Canada should shun its older members when it chooses a successor to Prime Minister Lester Pearson.

Addressing an organization meeting of his riding association of Davenport, the minister without portfolio said Mr. Pearson would probably be stepping down before the next federal election and that Liberals should be thinking of the type of person they wish to have as their next leader.

Mr. Gordon, 61, said he was certainly too old for the job and suggested that persons in their 30s, 40s and 50s be considered. Mr. Pearson will be 70 April 23.

Mr. Gordon said Mr. Pearson's successor should be a man who understands the mood and aspirations of the people of Quebec but who has a feeling as well for those Canadians whose background is neither French or English.

The successor should know where he stands on the needs of the increasing urban section of Canada's population and he should be one "who is not afraid to see the government intervene in the economy where intervention is obviously called for."

Mr. Gordon said that although he considered himself too old for the job, he did not mean that 61-year-olds would be too old.

They Leave French At Door With Coats

HANOVER, N.H. (CP) — Pierre Bourgault, leader of a Quebec separatist party, has contrasted what he called the treatment of the respective local languages by the Mexican and Quebec branches of a United States company.

The contrast, said the leader of le Rassemblement pour l'Independance Nationale, illustrates how the "economic reality of English" in Quebec is promoting the deterioration of the French language there.

Referring to the alleged contrast in company policies and not mentioning the firm's name, Bourgault told the final session of a conference on language and the formation of national consciousness that employees of the U.S. company's plant in Quebec are mostly French-Canadian.

The workers had to leave their French language with their coats when they entered the plant, because the foreman spoke only English.

In Mexico, the government had ruled that not only the workers employed by the company there but also the management must be Mexican, with Spanish the only language used.

ENGLISH

Bourgault spoke in fluent English to about 200 students and teachers from the eastern U.S. and Canada who attended the conference at Dartmouth College.

Dartmouth is sponsoring a series of events honoring Canada's centennial. They include conferences and lectures on Canadian topics, Canadian plays and performances of Canadian music.

Yates Merchants Must Provide Own Flowers

Victoria will provide the water and the labor but the merchants on the 700 block Yates Street will have to provide their own floral baskets to decorate their new canopy.

The 700 Block Association Tuesday asked council to provide flower baskets to brighten the street.

City manager Dennis Young told the parks committee that normal-sized flowers could not be used on the canopy.

"A smaller basket is required," he said. "It would be a considerable expense for us to have them built."

The committee agreed that if the merchants will provide their own floral arrangements city work crews will water them along with other downtown flower baskets.

General Misquoted By Translator

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Press erroneously quoted Gen. Jean V. Allard Monday as saying that opposition to unification is mostly the result of political ambition.

As a result of a translation error, CP quoted Gen. Allard, chief of the defence staff, as telling a meeting of the International Relations Club at Brebeuf College here Saturday that opposition members of the Commons hope to strengthen their chances of being re-elected by opposing Defence Minister Hellyer's plan.

What Gen. Allard did say was that critics of his own favorable attitude toward unification have sought to explain it away by saying he has "political ambitions."

The report of the general's address caused a question to be raised in the Commons, with Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, demanding disciplinary action against Gen. Allard.

Gen. Allard, in an interview in Ottawa, categorically denied having made the statements attributed to him in Montreal.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

BENNETT FORMULA FOR NARROWS CROSSING REJECTED

Vancouver Won't Pay Cent of Cost

VANCOUVER (CP) — City council Tuesday night voted 10 to 1 in favor of a report that described financing for construction of another crossing ver the First Narrows as purely a federal-provincial responsibility.

Mayor Tom Campbell was the only council member to vote against acceptance of the report. The mayor has said on many occasions that the city has a responsibility to pay part of the bridge costs.

He endorsed Premier Bennett's financing plan, which would require Vancouver and North Shore municipalities to pay $13,000,000 or more if a bridge - tunnel system recommended by engineers is approved.

However, Vancouver aldermen and North Shore municipal leaders have been highly critical of the municipal financing aspects of the Bennett formula.

The report was prepared by Alderman Hugh Bird and Commissioner Gerald Sutton Brown.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A two-passenger, battery-powered vehicle called the Markette, designed for use on city streets but not on highways, was introduced Tuesday by Westinghouse Electric Corp. The car, with a top speed of 25 miles an hour, has a range of 50 miles between chargings.

LOWER PRICES OTTAWA AIM

Drug Tax to Be Removed

OTTAWA — The government intends to remove the 12 per cent sales tax on drugs as part of an "over-all effort" to reduce drug prices, Finance Minister Sharp told the Commons Tuesday.

In his reply to Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre), he declined to say whether action would come at the current session of Parliament. But he assured Mr. Knowles that the government intends to take steps to lower drug prices.

A Commons committee tabled a report Monday saying Canadians could have cheaper drugs if both government and industry took steps to provide them.

Safety, Precision and Comedy

Riders Open at Nanaimo

Vancouver Island communities will be the first in Canada to see the Canadian Armed Forces motorcycle display team in action next month.

The centennial troupe — composed of 51 crack army riders — will begin its cross-country tour at Nanaimo May 19.

The team then performs ramp jumps, formation and precision riding and, as a climax, a plunge through a blazing hoop.

Other routines include a ladder headstand, a 17-man taxi ride on one machine, a 15-man pyramid on five motorcycles and comedy acts on midget scooters.

After Nanaimo they will visit Courtenay May 20, Duncan May 21, Victoria May 22 and Ganges May 23.

SATURDAY AT SIDNEY

30 Enter Plowing Matches

All types of plows, new and old, will be on view at the B.C. plowing championship starting 10 a.m. Saturday on a 15-acre field at McDonald Park Road, Sisney.

Also on the scene will be old farm machinery, some dating back before the turn of the century.

Joseph Saville, president of the Saanich Plowing Association, said today more than 30 contestants from all parts of the province will participate.

"There are events for everyone, including businessmen," he said. "Everyone is welcome."

Lieutenant Governor G. R. Pearkes, a strong supporter of the annual matches, will open the tournament.

There will be 13 events, including a championship class where the winners will be chosen for playdowns leading to the Canadian and world championship contests.

The Canadian contest takes place in October in Ontario.

Events will include single, double and three-bottom plowing for boys and girls as well as seniors.

Judges are Tom Hickman of Chilliwack, who was runner-up in the Canadian championship match last year, and Jock McBryde of Cowichan Station.

Among south Vancouver contestants participating in the main senior events are Archie Stevenson of Cowichan Station, Jack Andrews of Chilliwack, and the Marr brothers, Wally and Jim.

MAN KILLED IN PLUNGE AT GOLD R.

GOLD RIVER — Construction worker Darrel Brown died Tuesday when his truck plunged 150 feet down a sheer cliff here.

Mr. Brown is believed to have gone off the treacherous stretch of road four miles from the townsite here in the early hours of the morning.

NEW INN

He was returning to the bunkhouse at the construction camp after an evening with friends at the newly built inn here.

The ravine into which he plunged is formed by the Gold River and follows the road for most of the nine miles between the townsite and the almost-complete pulp mill on which he was working.

Danny McLeod, of 2154 Windsor Avenue, and Bill Parrott of 813 Island Road, both 18, set out Easter Monday and arrived in Duncan.

Next day they continued to Ladysmith and on the Wednesday they reached Nanaimo and spent a day there before the final lap to Parksville.

REEVE MORTON CHARGES 'LOW POLITICKING'

Municipal Hall Plan Passes; Opponents to Keep Up Fight

By DON DINGWALL

NORTH COWICHAN—Opponents of the plan to build a new North Cowichan municipal hall three miles north of Duncan have not given up the fight.

North Cowichan council at a special meeting Tuesday voted 4 to 2 to accept a $257,600 tender for construction of the hall.

The council acted in the face of a protest petition signed by 1,277 ratepayers in the south end.

They opposed the proposed location, and asked for any decision about building a hall to be postponed until the question of amalgamation between North Cowichan, the city of Duncan and unorganized territory is settled.

A spokesman for the group seeking an interview with Mr. Campbell said the minister will be asked if the amalgamation can be speeded up.

Mr. Campbell was quoted at the special council meeting as saying: "It is premature at this time to build a new municipal hall."

The south end petition had 995 names but the organizers added 282 signatures from newspaper coupons which were not checked and may have been duplicates.

A Chemainus district petition in favor of the hall and site had 631 names, and a Crofton petition favoring the site had 35 signatures.

Spectators Jam Council Chamber

The council chamber was jammed with spectators during the meeting.

Reeve Donald Morton said no other site would be less controversial. A "no" decision would mean no new hall anywhere in the municipality in the immediate future.

Reeve Morton said he received 10 letters against the site and 14 in favor.

Vacating the chair to protest the validity of the citizens' committee petition, Reeve Morton said: "We have found ourselves faced with a high-powered, ruthless campaign with a great deal of money being spent on radio and newspaper propaganda with a good deal of disregard for the truth."

Reeve Morton said the opposition campaign was unscrupulous. One woman was told if she didn't sign the petition there would not be money to extend water service to Maple Bay Road.

'Nothing Spared . . . Money or Truth'

"This campaign has been one of the lowest pieces of politicking perpetrated in this municipality. Nothing has been spared, neither money nor the truth," he said.

Coun. George Whittaker said despite what some people might think he was not the originator of the petition and neither was he in charge of handling it.

He quoted Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell as stating: "It is premature at this time to build a new municipal hall. This significant amount of money should not be spent at this time in view of amalgamation and regional district proposals.

Coun. Whittaker said the hall issue affected the south end of the municipality more than Chemainus or Crofton.

The city of Duncan, south end of North Cowichan and unorganized territory adjoining Duncan formed a cohesive community with Duncan the focal point of business, social life and education.

It was a community from which Chemainus and Crofton had held aloof.

Every municipal councillor had indicated at some time the need for greater co-operation with the city. With the exception of Gerry Smith they had all favored total amalgamation.

Councillors Smith, John Cannon, Dennis Hogan and Reg Clegg voted to accept the G. H. Wheaton Ltd., Victoria, tender and Councillors Whittaker and Margaret Robertson voted against.

New Location Considered For Firehall

The 17-year-old firehall is on Sooke Road in an area which has been developed since the hall was built.

Suggestion for a new location was made at the annual meeting of the fire protection district on Monday when B. H. Swindell was elected for a three-year term as a board member.

Sod-Turning Thursday For New Pool

The first sod to make way for Colwood's centennial swimming pool will be turned at 10:30 a.m. ceremony Thursday.

Land for the $220,000 pool will be dedicated by ministers of two faiths.

The Olympic size 25-metre pool is the first stage of a sports-recreation complex that will eventually house an ice rink, senior citizens' centre, bowling alleys, a junior safety village and rifle range.

These facilities will be built when there is sufficient demand and money.

$8,000 Paid For School Site

DUNCAN—With city hall assurance Wharncliffe Park can be used as playing fields for the pupils, Cowichan School Board will go ahead and buy adjoining property to build a one-room elementary and two-classroom kindergarten school.

Cost of the property is $8,000 for one-and-a-half acres.

Man Jailed After Blowing Union's Convention Money

CAMPBELL RIVER—A man who didn't show up at a convention he had been given $500 to attend has been sentenced to three months for theft by conversion.

Michael William Kabaroff of Gold River was sentenced by Magistrate R. L. Haig-Brown who also ordered him to make restitution.

Officials of the Mine and Mill Union local 1039 said Kabaroff had been given $500 to attend the union convention in Salt Lake City last March.

He did not appear at the gathering and a check by union officals showed Kabaroff has misappropriated the funds for his own use, court was told.

Manager Hiring First Priority

The first step in implementing the Saanich recreation program could be completed within three months.

FIRST WOMAN in the world to have given birth after a cadaver kidney transplant is Mrs. Raymond Villeneuve. Daughter was born Sunday in Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital. The mother received the kidney transplant nearly a year ago.

This will be the hiring of a recreation manager, who will take charge of the four projects approved last month by property owners in a $1,25 million referendum.

Preliminary thinking has been that the recreation manager should be hired and primed for his tasks well in advance of construction work.

Council has taken a "breather" from recreation since public approval was given March 18. With budgettime approaching, it may be next month before it gets down to consider the details.

The role and duties of a recreation manager will have to be defined, the position advertised and interviews arranged.

INQUIRIES

Already, the new program is sparking interest. Reeve Hugh Curtis says letters of inquiry are arriving from architects and engineering companies, offering their services.

Last month's decision by property owners in favor of the referendum put Saanich, the most populous municipality on Vancouver Island, into the recreation business.

Facilities are almost nonexistent in Saanich, with the exception of a few private clubs.

Residents who want to skate, play hockey or swim must go to the already-crowded accommodation in the city of Victoria and Esquimalt.

No decision has been made on which project starts first, but it is expected to be the $420,000 ice arena on municipally-owned land near the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre. Construction may start towards the end of this year.

Israel Sells Liner

HAIFA (AP)—The three-year-old luxury liner Shalom, pride of Israel's merchant marine, is being sold to the German Hamburg-Atlantik Line because it failed to attract enough trans-Atlantic passengers. Meir Giron, general manager of Israel's national shipping company, Zim, said Monday the 24,000-ton liner will be turned over to the German line in November for $15,000,000—$6,000,000 less than it cost to build at a French shipyard.

Marijuana Seized

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard announced Monday the seizure of 96 pounds of marijuana smuggled into Britain in crates of oranges aboard a Pakistani airliner. The hidden consignment grabbed at London Airport Saturday was estimated worth up to £100,000 ($300,000). Detectives said it was the highest single haul of drugs ever made in this country. Two men, a Pakistani and an Indian both resident in England, were being held.

Here's What The Experts Are Saying About The New Model VOVLO 144s

"In our opinion 10 safety features really establish the New Volvo 144s as a true safety performance automobile, the firm already enjoys a reputation for building quality, durability and safety into its automobiles", but the 144s far exceeds anything, safetywise that is, the company has thus produced.
There are actually 10 safety features of the 144s all of which are standard at no extra cost and which deserve merit. We'll start the ball rolling with the 3-wheel split brake system, which has it all over our domestic set-ups which have received "rave" notices over the past few months.
Hi-Performance Cars Magazine—April 1967.

Reprint from "Popular Imported Cars Magazine" of May 1967.

"Together the door pillars on the new Volvo 144s can support 15 tons and the roof of the car can actually support the weight of 12 neatly stacked cars on top of it. Now that's what I call built-in, not added-on safety engineering."
Hi-Performance Cars Magazine—April 1967

Reprint from "Car and Driver Year Book," 1967 Edition

Hi-Performance Magazine April 1967 Issue.

"Once there was a Volvo with an ordinary 99,999 mile odometer. It lasted so long the company took to referring to it as "Old Friend" and last year they phased it out of production after 23 years to make room for more "Young Friend" Volvos, the 122 model. Swedes and other people kept these cars so long that when they sold them the buyers couldn't really tell whether their "new" used Volvos had covered 40,000 miles (just barely broken in properly), 140,000 miles (usually a very healthy used car if properly cared for), 240,000 or even 340,000 miles (perhaps pretty tired even for a car as tough as a Volvo) and since most Volvos go through several hands before hitting their 11-year optional retirement age, Volvo sales engineers thought it only fair to do something for these future owners. They specified a 999,999-mile odometer."
Reprint: Foreign Car Guide—April 1967

"The Volvo 144 seats themselves, are the epitome of comfort providing sufficient support for the thighs and cradling the back in a manner that would make long drives a real pleasure."
Popular Imported Cars Magazine May 1967.

"The engine and transmission are virtually unbreakable and it's as loyal as a puppy. We doubt anyone can drive a Volvo without getting a lasting impression and if he buys it, that impression will last and last and last."
Reprint: Car and Driver Year Book—1967 Edition.

"We've always said that the Volvo was a good car, the manufacturer has not let us down with this new model 144s. We're convinced that dollar for dollar the new Volvo is a most impressive buy."
Popular Imported Cars Magazine May 1967

GROUP CHARGES PUNITIVE TREATMENT

City Gets Welfare Complaints

In a letter addressed to Mayor Hugh Stephen, and council, the group charges "punitive treatment of welfare recipients."

The organization, recently formed under the name Low Income Co-operative of Greater Victoria also repeated charges that names of people on welfare have been regularly reported to city police.

(This question has been debated in the press but never taken to council previously. The initial charge was that names of "youngsters" were given to police for surveillance. This was denied by Police Chief John Gregory. No denial was issued with respect to names of adults.)

"No other helping profession, law, medicine, the ministry, would routinely send their clients' names to the police the way professional social workers have, at the Victoria Welfare Office," said the formal letter of complaint.

The association, headed by Mrs. Donna Langstaff, maintains that most persons receiving social assistance are victims of circumstances beyond their control and should not be treated with disrespect.

She stated in the letter however:

"Within the last six weeks three professional social workers . . . have volunteered evidence of clients being verbally abused and treated punitively by the Victoria Welfare Office staff.

"Four of our members have submitted written testimony of the abusive treatment they themselves have received . . ."

She said in general the group has praise for welfare administrator A. F. Davidson "but many failures to treat the poor of Victoria with understanding and concern must be made known and rectified."

The 56-member group also voiced objection to the Victoria requirement that they call at the welfare office each week for cheques which they say could be mailed to them. (It is understood this process has now been adopted.)

The group also protests welfare allowances which they contend are 30 per cent below adequate living requirements. This leads to people living in slums and going without proper food and clothing.

"Some of our members have received extra food allowances but these have been given so begrudgingly and so punitively that only in the most extreme cases will our members apply more than once or twice . . ."

The letter ended with a denunciation of welfare administrators for not informing city council of hardships suffered by people on welfare.

A list of recommendations for improved conditions including monthly subsidies of up to $100 to assist welfare recipients to go to school or work was added.

The group also invited the council to hold an investigation to hear evidence from social workers and welfare recipients on the charges.

Scholarship Sets Grant Precedent

The $5,000 scholarship awarded world championship skier Nancy Greene last weekend by the B.C. government could be repeated for other young athletes in the future.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson Tuesday said the award to the Rossland girl sets a precedent.

"I would recommend if a similar incident arose again, that we would commemorate it in the same manner for another individual," he said.

"But it would have to be for a world championship and that's not an easy thing to accomplish," he added in interview.

Duncan Buying Breathalyser

The $1,100 purchase was referred Monday to the purchasing committee with power to act.

Duncan RCMP has two members trained to operate the equipment for use in detecting drinking drivers.

Victoria Daily Times

Arthur Mayse

With car-bopping now in top position among our blood sports, I'm not prepared to argue against the curbside suspension of those who may have bent too free an elbow.

What concerns me more is the danger that with this rather mild traffic safety measure in operation, we may decide all's well on the blacktop.

It isn't, and I don't think it will be until we have dealt with some other persistent threats to the life and limb of those who use the public roads.

The burgher spurring his box of squirrels home from the four-drink party is only one contributor to a picture that demands improvement. Even when we find a way to deal effectively and permanently with that frightful menace, the habitual souse, there will still be plenty of obstacles to street and highway safety.

Some of the hazard-makers I have in mind are revealed as such only after the windshields have splintered. Others are perfectly apparent, but through lack of funds or interest, go uncorrected.

Any and all of them can land the perfectly sober driver in the mess of trouble that is the aftermath of a car crash.

One of these is the intersection which, innocent though it may seem, holds a reputation as a car (and people) buster. You'll find just such a bad spot where Cook crosses Hillside. For reasons nobody appears to have established, let alone acted upon, a left turn there has bought many a driver heavy trouble.

The Pat Bay crossing at Royal Oak is no longer a hair-raiser, but when can we expect the ill-banked wiggle on West Saanich Road below the Observatory to be given the treatment it requires?

That one has killed, and could again.

If you drive this Island much, you undoubtedly have your own list of death-traps, ranging from the overgrown hedge that masks a suburban corner to several stretches of what we have been assured is a first-class highway north.

One of my pets is the spectacular rock near the Malahat summit — the one that pokes like a prow between roadway and viewpoint turn-in.

If you look close enough, you may descern a hasty paint splash against its unyielding bulk. On a misty night, or in the glare of bronco high-beams, a car could ram that chunk or shoot past on the wrong side to almost certain disaster.

As a further reminder that safety programs call for more than exhortation and the lifting of an occasional set of car-keys, let me point out that this area and the public roads of Vancouver Island are policed far more sketchily than they should be.

What use the hootchmeter — for what it's worth — when you can drive for miles in Greater Victoria, and for hours on the Trans-Canada and Island Highway without spotting a recognizable patrol vehicle?

If we want safe driving, we'd better be prepared to spend more on our policing!

In almost 16 years here, I have never been required to put a car through any testing more thorough than a mobile crew could apply. Some day, I suppose we'll have compulsory testing conducted in a station built for that purpose.

But when that time will come, I have no idea, and its unlikely that your MLA is any wiser on the subject.

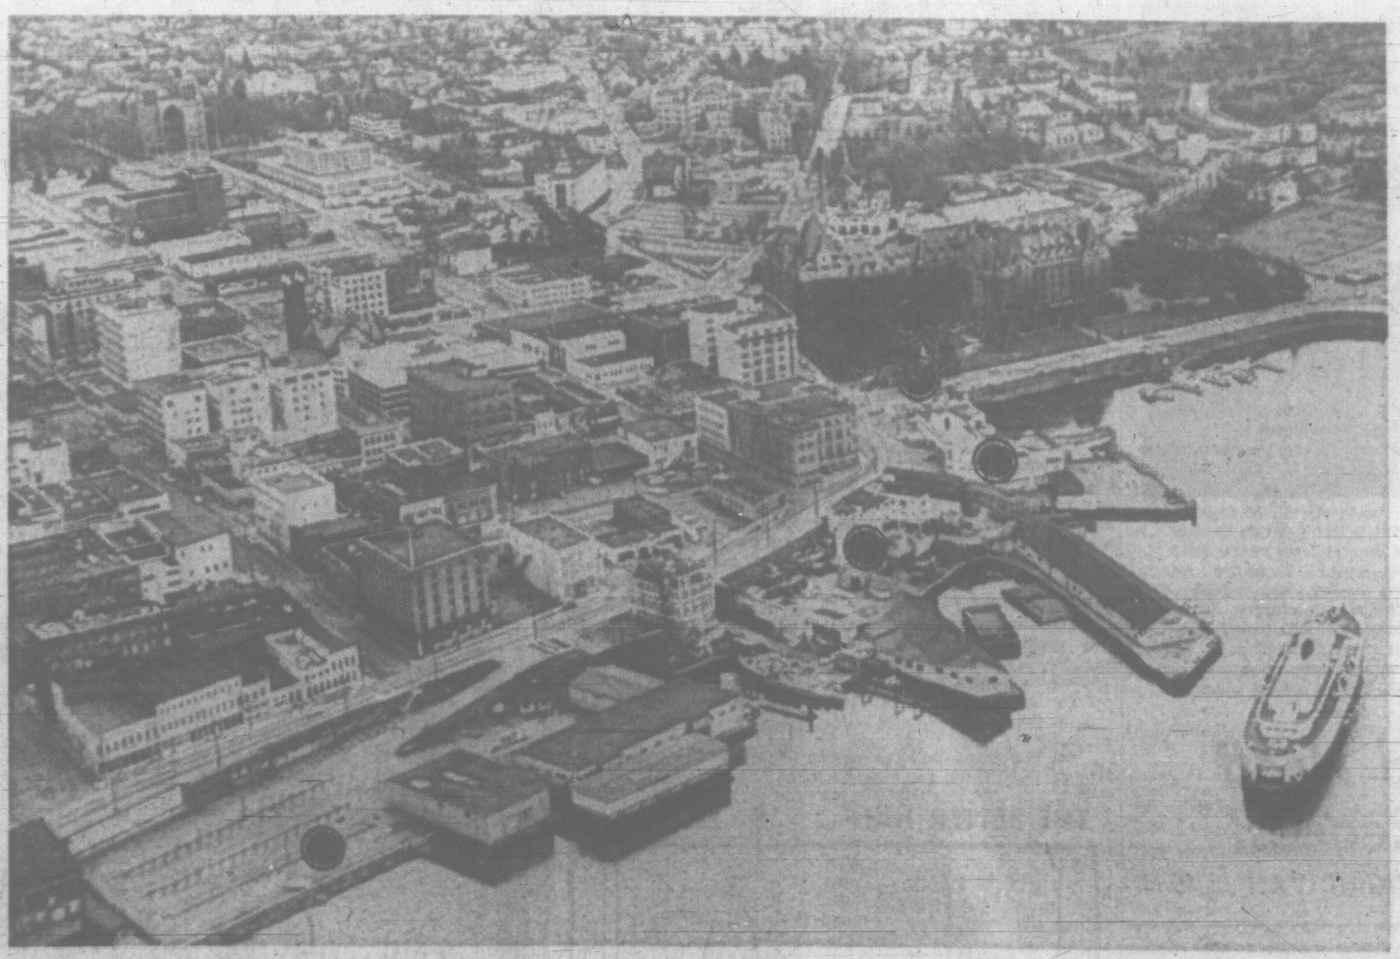
To our lengthening list of hazard-makers, we can add yet another.

This is the noxious type of advertising that does its best to transform the automobile from a useful servant into a symbol of power, pride and rebellion.

I'm all for riding herd on the driver with even a little alcohol in his tank and hope the new measure will serve the intended purpose.

But let's not forget the sober mope ambling at 25-an-hour in a 60-mile zone, or yon collision-scarred tree with several scalps to its credit.

Liquor's a killer: but believe you me, its not the only one!



MAJOR TRANSFORMATION of Victoria's famed Inner Harbor will be brought about if new master plan materializes. Left to right the black dots show: parking lot beside HMCS Malahat which would be site for big hotel; Ocean Cement Ltd. premises which would move to make way for convention centre; Black Ball ferry wharf, which would be moved across harbor, and Imperial Oil service station at corner of Wharf and Government which would bow to promenade and view point.

Big Plans Discussed For Harbor

Convention Hall, Motel In Waterfront Proposal

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

The plan, still in the "thinking" stage, provides for:

- A convention centre on the site now occupied by Ocean Cement Ltd. behind the old post office (now customs) building.
- A new waterfront hotel on the site now used as a parking lot between the old HMCS Malahat and Bastion Square.
- A complete revamping of the provincial government property now used as a ferry terminal by the Black Ball ferry line.
- The conversion of the site owned and occupied by an Imperial Oil service station at the corner of Government and Wharf Streets into a promenade and view point.

City planner Geoff Greenhalgh refused to comment on the proposal other than to say "it would be a wonderful idea."

He declined to say at what stage the proposal was at present, but the following facts are known.

IN FIVE YEARS

Ocean Cement will move from its present waterfront site within the next five years.

Tentative plans have already been drawn for a major hotel on adjacent property.

Preliminary negotiations have already taken place to acquire the Imperial Oil property anchoring one end of the Causeway.

The plan to build a convention centre on the Ocean Cement site is far from new. It was originally mooted some years ago by the Regional Planning Board with detailed sketches prepared depicting what the area would look like once the proposals were augmented.

At that time it was described as the key to the rehabilitation of the entire area from the Causeway to Johnson Street Bridge.

Planners, both local and regional, still look with favor on the scheme although both groups shy away from comment at present.

If the plan wins favor, and indications today are that it will, the cement plant site would provide 4.2 acres for the convention centre building plus adequate parking.

It would also, said the original planners, be linked with covered walkways to the Causeway, the Empress, the under-construction provincial museum and the Legislative Buildings.

Other advantages would be a spectacular Inner Harbor viewpoint, close proximity to downtown shopping and the stimulation of rapid development between the Causeway and Bastion Square.

PROMENADE

Development of the north end of the Causeway would tie in with the now old proposal to build a water-level promenade below the existing Causeway and plans to build a modern motor-hotel on the ferry terminal now used by Canadian Pacific steamships.

The motor-hotel proposal was first advanced about a year ago. It envisioned more than 80 units for accommodation, a clock-tower, stores and dining room and cocktail lounge facilities.

Like the proposed convention centre it would utilize existing wharf structures to permit expansion without gobbling up vital shoreline acreage.

"STILL ALIVE"

Mr. Greenhalgh would not comment on the present stage of the motor-hotel development other than to say "it is still alive."

Plans for the waterfront hotel on Wharf Street are also well known.

On several occasions Mr. Greenhalgh has stated that wherever the convention centre is built he is confident that its presence would rapidly bring another major hotel in its wake.

It is also known that the master plan calls for the removal from the Causeway area of ferry docking facilities.

The over-all scheme calls for new docking facilities to be built between the existing CPR wharf and the British America Paint plant with enough space for both the CPR and the Black Ball line.

Taylor Orders Inquiry On Contract Renewals

Committee to Work Through Summer On Better System of Evaluations

By DESMOND BILL

President Malcolm Taylor announced today formation of a special committee of inquiry to look into the University of Victoria's handling of contract renewals for faculty members.

He told a rally of students that "the past cannot be undone by any demonstration, sit-ins or boycotts but the future of the university can be jeopardized by such actions".

He appealed to the students to join with him and the faculty to work for the kind of university "all of us want".

The students met at lunch hour in the climax to the current crisis over the non-renewal of contracts for three popular and controversial teachers.

They have been talking about a boycott of classes to protest the ouster of Dr. Charles Tarlton, J. S. Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie.

The university has never officially given the reasons for the decision not to renew their contracts.

A meeting of almost the entire Uvic faculty Tuesday considered the question of whether the reasons should now be given but did not press the point.

One faculty member proposed the reasons should be given but later withdrew his motion, apparently with the support of the majority of faculty members present.

Dr. Taylor said every question raised by faculty members at the meeting "was dealt with" and there was "no ban on any discussion that the faculty wanted."

'A DISASTER'

However, Dr. Richard Powers, an assistant political science professor who attended the meeting, afterwards circulated an open letter in which he said it was "a disaster."

He said he had been led to expect it would result in full disclosure of the circumstances surrounding the crisis but not only was no disclosure made, none was apparently desired by faculty.

Dr. Powers said the faculty "failed to respond to the clear challenge presented to it."

"With ignorance of the past, what light can be thrown on the future?" he asked.

Students' Council met Tuesday night and approved several resolutions for possible presentation to today's rally.

One asked for the resignation of Arts and Science Dean A. J. Wood because he allegedly impugned the characters of the dismissed faculty members "by implication" and also "failed to justify his actions" at Tuesday's faculty meeting.

24-HOUR SIT-IN

Council also approved a tentative resolution suggesting a 24-hour sit-in outside the administration offices in the Education-Arts Building, to protest the failure to give reasons for the refusal to re-hire the instructors.

However it was up to student leaders to decide at today's meeting whether these resolutions should be put to the vote of the students.

In a statement prepared for delivery at today's meeting, Dr. Taylor referred to rumors that have circulated recently on campus about the men whose contracts were not renewed.

STOP RUMORS

"There is no question of moral turpitude in respect of any one of these men. Neither the committee nor myself have any evidence reflecting on their characters whatsoever and no such suggestion was ever raised

Good Support For Chamber In Saanich

A general meeting of Saanich businessmen interested in forming a chamber of commerce will be held later this month.

Spokesman Ken Hole said all interested persons "business and otherwise" are being invited to attend the meeting Tuesday April 25 at 8 p.m. in the Red Lion Motor Inn.

Mr. Hole said it is hoped to establish at the meeting:

1. The interest in forming a chamber;
2. Those willing to join;
3. If there is sufficient interest, appointment of an executive committee to continue organizing a chamber.

Mr. Hole was recently appointed to conduct a canvass of businessmen and reported today "almost unanimous support" for starting a Saanich Chamber of Commerce.

Two Trawlers Picketed By Fishermen

Two pickets are maintaining a vigil over two trawlers tied up at the foot of Yates Street in the continuing strike by coastal fishermen.

Most of the boats are based in Vancouver and Prince Rupert, but six are idle in Victoria involving about 20 men.

The fishermen are on strike for a catch-sharing agreement with the vessel owners.

The pickets said there is no fish in any of the boats.

EXPO SKATER HAS TROUBLE IN INTERIOR

A pulled leg muscle has temporarily halted the progress of 20-year-old Chris Price of Victoria who is now en route to Montreal on roller skates.

The skater is in Salmon Arm Hospital but plans to continue as soon as he has recovered, said his mother, Mrs. Frank Price of 3965 Quadra.

His skates are withstanding the journey very well, said Mrs. Price. Her son phones his home every other night to report progress.

Racing Fans Take Petition To Vancouver

The petition signed by 865 citizens will be submitted to a meeting of the B.C. Racing Commission by Margaret MacIntosh, 4023 Holland, and Denis Knight, 3462 Tillicum.

"We haven't been invited to appear before the commission, but we are going anyway," said Mrs. MacIntosh. "We want racing to continue at Sandown Park."

The meeting was called by commission secretary Ken McConnell in an attempt to reach a settlement between the Jockey Club and North Saanich.

REFUSED TO PAY

The club applied to transfer Sandown's 17 days of racing after refusing to pay North Saanich a $150 daily licence fee and to improve fire and sanitation facilities as required by the municipality.

Mrs. MacIntosh said the petition was raised in less than a week.

'SOMETHING WRONG'

"When Mr. McConnell said he had received only 60 letters from Vancouver Island residents supporting racing, we felt something was wrong," she said. "We knew there were thousands of people interested in racing here."

She said in another week, they would have collected more than 2,000 names on the petition.

Help Arrives For Fire-Hit Reserve Family

Baby Suffers Burns As Heater Explodes

Gifts of clothing and bed linen are already coming in for a family which lost its Patricia Bay Indian Reserve home in a fire Tuesday afternoon.

Some private gifts of clothing have been made and the Red Cross this morning sent out a parcel of blankets, sheets, towels, pillow cases and clothing vouchers for the father and mother.

TOYS, KITS

Mrs. Charles Smith, 507 Downey Road, started the drive to provide clothing, furniture and household goods for Mr. and Mrs. David Bill and their children Clara aged 4, Junior aged 3 and Robin, 18 months.

INFANT BURNED

Robin suffered second degree burns in the fire which firemen think started when an oil heater exploded.

Mr. Bill was at work as a farm hand and Mrs. Bill was just outside the house at about 2:30 p.m. when the fire started. Mrs. Bill rushed into the house and brought out Robin who suffered second degree burns and is now in hospital.

The family is staying with Mr. Bill's father, Gus Bill.

ONLY NEW HOUSE

The new house was not finished inside and the shell had only been completed last autumn. It was the only new house on the reserve and it was not insured.

Mrs. Smith, who has taken an interest in the plight of the family, said furniture and other household items are badly needed.

Some clothing for the children has already been donated but the family needs much more.

Mr. Bill is a size 38 and his wife a size 18.

New Minimums For Elevator, Laundry Workers

Two new minimum wage orders were announced today by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

Existing minimum wages are $1 an hour with lesser amounts in the first three months of employment.

The new order raises this to $1.10 an hour effective June 5 and to $1.25 an hour effective Nov. 1. The reduced rates for the first three months have been eliminated.

Fleet Employee Nabs Shoplifter Following Chase

Police said a store employee saw the accused stuff the $19.95 raincoat under his coat and leave the store. He was chased, caught and turned over to the police.

Weatherall, who said he took the coat so he would look smart while going after a job, had $44.75 in his possession when arrested.

Ask The Times

Q. In 1962 in Victoria I met some people from Sunland, California and I am anxious to get in touch with them. Can you tell how I might find out if they are still living there? Also what is the address of Lawrence Welk?—A. F. S.

A. For your friends' address, you might write to the Sunland newspaper, the Sunland-Tujunga Record-Ledger, Sunland, California. Who's Who in America gives Lawrence Welk's address as 2444 Wilshire Boulevard, Santa Monica, Calif.

Q. Every morning about 7:45 a jet flies over Victoria going northwest. Where is it going, where does it come from and what time does it leave? G.R.

A. A department of transport spokesman at Victoria International Airport said it could be one of two. Pacific Northern Airlines flight 725 is bound for Anchorage about then, so is North Western Airlines flight 11. Both leave Seattle-Tacoma airport about 7:20 a.m.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

CANADA GIVEN HAYWIRE LOOK AT VICTORIA BY MAGAZINE

Oh Come Off It! Take Another Look at Us

BY PETE LOUDON

Dear City Fathers:

Why not invite Macleans magazine to come back and take another long look at Victoria?

An article in the current issue states:

"The city's principal centennial projects are the Confederation Garden Court on Signal Hill, the combined museum, archives, library, auditorium and art gallery (still abuilding)—and the 300-foot aluminum skydeck observation needle soaring above the picture postcard harbor."

Now you know and we know, although the rest of Canada may never know it now, that the city and district's main centennial project is a sports stadium at University of Victoria.

But there's no auditorium in sight. And we've had our art gallery for years.

The Confederation Garden is still a patch of rock at the corner of Belleville and Menzies (due for unveiling July 1). But it isn't a centennial project. It's part of the Capital Improvement District Commission's long term scheme. Signal Hill is in Esquimalt.

And the harbor observation needle idea was a dream that died months and months and months ago, right?

We can forgive Macleans these errors. We've been known to make a couple ourselves. But then the magazine makes the biggest mistake of all.

It writes us off as a city of 55,000 with a reputation of being "A Little Bit of Old England, all hoary with ivy and tradition, with its spiritual headquarters in the baronial Empress Hotel."

And we all know that's malarkey.

Is it for this that we make civic grants to publicity bureaus?

The Old England bit faded years ago when we began to emulate a Little Bit of the New U.S. complete with high-rise apartments, shopping centres, marinas, discotheques, drive-ins, traffic problems, hospital bed shortages, cocktail bars and LSD.

We don't say it's all good, but it's us.

With a population of 170,000 we are the 13th largest metro area in Canada. We are a lovely retirement city rich in fine homes and beautiful gardens, but progressive and modern.

Let's see to it that we are represented abroad with honesty. Let's invite Macleans back for another look. We're tired of being made to look silly!

Sixty years of marriage will be marked by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cavell, of Charter House, 435 Michigan Street, this Sunday. They were married in St. Ignatius Church at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., on April 9, 1907. The couple has four children, Mrs. Earl (Frances) Bertram, Victoria; Ed, Patrick and Fred, all of Vancouver. There are four grandchildren, one granddaughter living in Reno, Nev. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Bertram will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Cavell to Vancouver, where a family dinner will be held in one of the sons' homes. Mr. and Mrs. Cavell came west with their family in 1918 and lived in Vancouver until they moved to Victoria 15 years ago.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Mom Should Heed Her Son's Request

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Will you please answer this quickly? My only son will soon be returning from overseas. He has requested that I let his wife meet his train alone. He says he wants just two days and nights with his wife for "the honeymoon they never had."

He wants me to keep their two young children, without telling them that their Daddy is in town. I am just supposed to say that "Mama went to get Daddy, and will bring him to Grandma's house." After this disgusting two-day sex orgy, the children and I will be allowed to greet him!

I may not like your answer, Abby, but I will abide by it. I think this request is highly unfair to me. Just sign me—
ONLY HIS MOTHER

DEAR ONLY: It is your son's request, Mother. Forget everything other than fulfilling it

DEAR ABBY: To get right to the point, I do not care for dogs in my house. This goes for big dogs, little dogs, and even the hairless kind that are not supposed to smell, but do. They are all dogs to me. We reared our children and had dogs for them, but they were never allowed in the house. They slept in doghouses or out in the garage.

My problem: We have relatives who are dog-crazy. They love their dogs more than some people love their children . . . These relatives have visited us, and brought their dogs along—knowing how I feel about them, and have even taken them into their beds! Abby, we have just redecorated our home, installed new carpet, and recovered our furniture, and I do not want dogs on it.

These relatives are coming again. How can I let them know they are welcome but not their dogs, without having them think I am an old crab?
NO DOG LOVER

DEAR NO DOG LOVER: You can tell them before they arrive that they are welcome, but their dogs are not. But don't be surprised if you get the "love me—love my dog" bit. They will think you are an old crab, but you'll have kept the dogs out of your home, and that's the object, isn't it?

DEAR ABBY: The other day I was jolted by a flaw in an otherwise stunning 21-year-old blonde. On my first approach to her, I noticed that her teeth badly needed brushing. I realize that this could happen to anyone occasionally, but with this girl it is a habit.

The idea of kissing a girl with noticeable food particles between her teeth is utterly revolting. Someone should tell her, but I am not the one. How about you?
STUNNED

DEAR STUNNED: Since I consider it a kindness to offer constructive criticism, I'll do it: Girls, look at your teeth after you've eaten, and, if necessary, slip away and privately use a bit of dental floss. P.S. You, too, fellows.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PLAYS CUPID, BUT FLOPS": Don't arrange "blind dates" between two people unless you honestly feel that you are doing them both a favor.

Parties Herald Wedding To Take Place Saturday

Co-hostesses Mrs. G. Draper and Mrs. B. Robinson entertained in the Foul Bay Road home of the latter. The bride-elect was presented with an orchid corsage, and her grandmother, Mrs. F. Smith, received pink carnations en corsage. Games were played and refreshments served.

A decorated laundry basket held gifts from Mrs. G. Pellow, Mrs. W. Russell, Mrs. B. Entwistle, Mrs. D. Wright, Mrs. R. McCloy, Mrs. D. Murdock, Mrs. R. Pringle, Mrs. G. Jakubowski, the Misses Edith Hope, Gail Gordon, Diane Welsh and Susan Robinson.

A surprise shower for the bride-elect was held in the Linkleas Street home of Mrs. C. Bennett, Gifts were concealed in a box decorated with bowling pins. The honor guest and her grandmother received corsages of pink roses and carnations respectively.

Guests attending included Mrs. Entwistle, Mrs. R. Lawson, Mrs. S. Worboys, Mrs. B. Menzies, Mrs. D. Higgins, Mrs. P. Trickett, Mrs. C. Jackson, Mrs. J. Davies, Mrs. F. Peacock, Mrs. I. Hansen, Mrs. W. Bates, the Misses Diane Welsh and Terry Bennett.

Corsages of pink and white carnations respectively were presented to the bride-elect and her grandmother when Mrs. W. Devlin entertained at a shower in her Lyn Crescent home. A decorated basket held gifts.

Invited guests included Mrs. J. Devlin, Mrs. A. Wright, Mrs. R. Ford, Mrs. S. Gibbons, Mrs. A. Barnes, Mrs. Pellow, Mrs. Entwistle, Mrs. A. Vickery, Mrs. T. Hyde, Mrs. M. Haggerty, Mrs. L. Mahoney, Mrs. P. Mahoney, Mrs. R. Ramsey, Mrs. R. Smith, Mrs. S. Clayson, the Misses Maureen Ford and Diane Welsh.

'Hostess With Most' Thinks of Everything

By Penny Saver

The perfect hostess, I understand, is prepared for everything including every possible hazard that anyone can dream up. I think my neighbor could qualify for the best hostess of the block in that case. She isn't prepared, by any means, to cope with a situation that she hasn't planned thoughtfully and optimistically, but if the ultimate happens, she always thinks of some remedy. For example, I remember one barbecue that she planned. The day wasn't the sunniest there ever was and by the time she was ready to start the actual cooking, it was pouring rain. Instead of panicking, my cool neighbor moved her barbecue and equipment into the shelter of the garage.

She admits that it was awkward to bound in and out of the house, pampering her food and her guests, but somehow she managed. In case bad weather foils her plans again, my neighbor found an indoor barbecue to carry the load.

This wonder is made of clay and stands on legs of thick cork. It's a unique hand-made piece with wooden handles so that it can be moved about without any trouble, whether it's full of red hot coals or not. Price of this life-saver is $25.

One item in this shop will be more than a life saver for me. It's a kooky item that has only one purpose—it's a conversation piece. Our living-room is in desperate need of one. So far, my own primitive efforts of creating heads and modern "blobs" of clay have revealed an army of critics (friends?) who view my works with a jaundiced eye. To save my rapidly diminishing ego, I've found another artist's blunder to take the place of my efforts. This thing is a tree that stands over a foot high, made of arcs of clay.

The branches of the tree swivel so you can arrange them in any position. There are many finishes on this piece. Some branches have melted crystal inside, others have a molten effect, and others have a rough, bubbly finish.

These trees are very attractive as they're so colorful and unique. Price is $8.50.

Are you searching for something different? Give me a call at 382-3131 and I'll tell you where I found these items.

Seventy-two women entered the morning competition and covers were laid for 90 at the luncheon which followed.

Mrs. Michener—An Accomplished First Lady

OTTAWA (CP) — When Mrs. Roland Michener becomes chatelaine of Government House she will become the country's No. 1 society hostess, presiding with her husband at a glittering series of balls, banquets, luncheons, garden parties and other functions.

Mrs. Michener will also be called on to travel from coast to coast and into the North with the new Governor-General.

These trips will also entail living the life of high society — or as high as it comes in some frontier parts of Canada.

But Mrs. Michener relishes both formal society and travel.

For five years her husband was Speaker of the House of Commons and for three years he has been high commissioner for Canada in India. In both Ottawa and New Delhi, she carefully observed formal protocol when the occasion demanded it.

She also showed an appreciation of history. While Mr. Michener was Speaker of the Commons, she revived an old European custom of formal entertaining. She had an elaborate silver candelabra paraded in front of the Governor-General of that day, lighting his way and conducting him to the dining table with the special courtesy extended governors in colonial days.

Mrs. Michener is also the author of a handbook written for wives of members of Parliament soon after the Conservative sweep in the 1958 general election. Wives of some of the new MPs had found the formal side of capital life a little awesome.

The handbook included lengthy and detailed passages on how a person's calling card should be left with a host and hostess, or sent by messenger to express appreciation of an invitation to tea.

The slim, erect, auburn-haired mother of three, now a grandmother, is a native of Manitoba who grew up in Vancouver, and studied at the Toronto Conservatory of Music before her marriage in 1927.

After her family grew up, she decided she wouldn't just "vegetate," as she once put it. She embarked on a 10-year course of study for a doctorate in philosophy, awarded in 1953.

"I'm a realist by temperment," she said in an interview some years ago. Her doctorate thesis was on the views of contemporary philosopher Jacques Maritain.

With music and philosophy, she also has an interest in gardening. Here, she is likely to be happily at home in the elaborate rockeries and formal rose beds of the Government House grounds, along with its well-tended greenhouse.

Local Couple Exchange Vows in Edmonton Church

A wedding of interest to many in Victoria and Sidney took place in Central United Church, Edmonton, when Lynnette Elizabeth Mactier became the bride of Douglas Kenneth Crowhurst, Sidney.

Rev. James E. McNeill conducted the service which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Thomas Mactier, 720 Powderly Avenue, Victoria, and the son of Mr and Mrs. Donald Crowhurst, 928 Arcadia Avenue, Sidney.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an exquisite white sheath gown of lace over taffeta. Fashioned on empire lines, the gown was given back interest with tiers of ruffled lace. Sleeves ended in lily points. Her scalloped, tiered veil misted softly to chapel length from a tiara of crystals. Red roses and ivy were in her bouquet.

Mrs. J. Hockley was her sister's only attendant in a sheath dress of green brocade, topped with a matching jacket. To complete her outfit, she wore a pearl tiara and carried peppermint-striped carnations in her bouquet.

Thomas McPike was best man. Ushering the guests to pews marked with white bows, centred with lily of the valley, was the groom's brother, Dennis Crowhurst, Sidney.

For travelling on honeymoon, the new Mrs. Crowhurst chose a three-piece suit of pale green, which she topped with a coat en tone.

The couple will be making their home in Edmonton.

The parents of the principals travelled to the prairie city for the wedding. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Kelvin Mactier of Winnipeg and Mr. and Mrs. Max Harker, Calgary.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

DEAR EMILY WILKENS:

Trompe L'Oeil

From an accident in childhood, my nose was deformed. One side is about a quarter of an inch larger than the other. Could you please give me some hints on how to camouflage the unevenness?—Georgine K.

Trompe l'oeil, as the French say, or "fool the eye", can work wonders in your case, and no one need ever be the wiser. Keep in mind that darker shades seem to diminish size, while lighter (or brighter) shades bring things to the foreground.

Use a slightly darker than usual makeup base on the larger side of your nose, and a slightly lighter base on the smaller side. Leave a light line running down the centre, a bit toward the larger side. Dab a touch of lighter base on the very tip, again toward the larger side. On the underside of your nose, use a little darker base for a tilted effect.

This process should even out your nose and make it look close to perfect.

To sum up your needs: Three shades of makeup base—lighter, medium (to be used all over the face) and darker. Do be sure that there are no obvious lines of demarcation. Use a tiny rubber sponge for easy blending.

Split Saga

What can I do to stop soft nails from splitting?—Dorothy G.

Most soft fingernails fare better with the application of one or two coats of a base coat (not pearlized) or colorless polish. There are also some excellent nail protectors and hardeners available. You must test for yourself which products seem most agreeable.

Remove all preparations once or twice a week with a mild polish remover. Wash nails immediately in soapy water. Remover is deadly for soft nails, or any nails, when left on.

Use the fine side of an emery board to smooth nails before reapplying base and polish.

Never use pearlized products on fragile nails. If you like colored polish, use only a light coat over the protective base.

Make a habit of buffing your nails against the heel of the opposite palm.

Don't overlook the nail creams containing a bit of white iodine. They should be rubbed in several times a day and especially at night to strengthen the new nail growth.

Be sure your diet leans heavily toward protein-rich foods.

Always protect your nails (hands as well) with rubber gloves when immersing them in water, especially hot water. Treat them gently in other ways, too. Don't use them to pry open bobbypins or compacts.

Curvaceous Calves

My calves are much too muscular. How can I correct this?—Georgine P.

Wearing flat shoes constantly would encourage this condition. Change shoes often, varying the heel height.

After a hot, relaxing bath, dip your hands in baby oil and gently knead calves. This will help soothe muscles and start your legs on the road to feeling more graceful!

Emily Wilkens welcomes letters, but cannot undertake to answer each one. She will use questions in her column of general interest. Address your letters to Emily Wilkens, in care of this newspaper.

Makes Rough Wrinkled Necks Smoother

If your throat is rough, wrinkled and old looking let me suggest you apply a delightful lotion-like substance you can get at any drug or department store. It's called 2nd Debut and it exclusively contains the Wiesbaden Discovery known scientifically as CEF 600 which carries needed moisture into and under the skin. Not only is wrinkled, loose flabby skin pushed up and made smooth again but at the same time the aging look of a crepe paper throat disappears and you lock years younger fast. You can also get "2nd Debut" with CEF 1200 for double strength moisturizing action. Remember the name . . . 2nd Debut.

New Safety-Pack helps to Protect your child against A.S.A. overdose

When given by adults as directed, A.S.A. anti-pain tablets are effective to reduce children's fever, relieve minor pains, ease certain cold symptoms. But doctors will tell you that if your child gets hold of a bottle and takes too many A.S.A. tablets, the results can be serious.

What can you do about this? Get Espirets in the new Safety-Pack scientifically designed to help prevent accidental overdose of A.S.A. Each tablet (pre-measured 1¼ grain exact dose) is individually sealed in a protective strip that's easy for you—but difficult for your child—to open.

Don't take chances. Depend on Espirets A.S.A. for fast pain relief plus a soothing ingredient to help prevent stomach upset. Ask your doctor about flavored, easy-to-take Espirets in new safety-package. Advt.

SEAPLANE TAKING OFF STIRS UP THOUSANDS OF BIRDS

AT COUNTRY'S AIRPORTS

Bird Watching Big Business

By BOB McKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—Bird watching may turn into big business in a couple of years, with meteorologists and radar taking over from naturalists and cameras.

The birds they will be watching are potential mass murderers, through no fault of their own. They are just another item from Pandora's box opened by the jet age. But as the speed of the jet age increases, so does the threat of the birds.

Scientists throughout the world have been trying to eliminate the hazard of mid-air collisions between birds and aircraft, but so far they have been hard pressed to hold their own as the speed and number of aircraft rise each year.

The biggest danger is at low altitudes, mostly on take-offs and landings, and one program already is in force at some places to discourage birds from nesting or flying in the vicinity of airports.

But this leaves another problem—migrating birds.

cthatsh eaoThf dnor he ar ld aircraft, but so far they have been hard pressed to hold their own as the speed and number of aircraft rise each year.

The biggest danger is at low altitudes, mostly on take-offs and landings, and one program alreay is in foce at some nesting o fying in the vicin-dllr ity of airports.

But this leaves another problem—migrating birds.

The flocks that head north in the spring and south in the fall are not around an intermediate point long enough to get the message that they are not wanted.

It eventually may lead to a situation of letting the birds have their way for a couple of hours a day during the migrating seasons.

FRANCE HAS PROGRAM

"The results were encouraging," says Malcolm Kuhring, chairman of the NRC's associate committee on bird hazards to aircraft.

"The French are trying a similar program in southern France."

The Cold Lake tests involved the use of a "bird intensity" forecast, giving the expected intensity of bird movements for any given hour in an intensity code ranging from zero, with light activity, to eight, where masses of birds are in the air.

Tests last spring proved the forecasts valid 83 per cent of the time, although this figure fell to 70 per cent for August and 71 for September.

The intensity forecast was treated like a special weather forecast, and in one case last September when a high density was forecast, training flights were almost suspended as the bird activity rose. But a shift in the wind reduced the danger.

Fortunately, for commercial flying at least, the heaviest movement of birds is confined to the hours between sundown and midnight. And migration routes can be predicted from weather conditions. Birds won't fly against the wind on migration.

Few of the fatal plane crashes in recent years have been a direct cause of collisions with birds, but this may have been just a matter of luck, Mr. Kuhring said in an interview.

DAMAGE WINDSCREEN

Even a small bird can cause a lot of damage if it is ingested by a jet engine, and a large bird could cause a lot of damage if it struck the windshield or control surface of a high-speed jet.

There was one case at Toronto a couple of years ago when a bird went through the window of a Mohawk Airlines plane during takeoff. Fortunately, the pilot was bending over at the time and it went over his head, although he did get a shoulder full of glass.

Others were not as lucky. Two crashes in the U.S. — at Boston in 1960 and Baltimore in 1962—claimed 79 lives. Investigations proved the crashes were caused by birds.

Several military crashes — especially involving low-altitude flights—have been attributed to birds.

But even altitude cannot provide complete safety.

Experiments have shown that birds are quite happy in decompression chambers at the equivalent of 35,000 feet. There is no evidence that the birds could fly at this height, but development of lightweight radio transmitters will make tests possible shortly in this field.

There is one case on record of a plane striking a mallard duck 21,000 feet above Nevada. Geese have been sighted as high as 29,000 feet. These are rare cases. Scientists say geese seldom go above 10,000 feet while songbirds stay within a mile of the ground.

Reporters Await Tea, Crumpets

B.C. week will be marked in southern California April 10-14, during which a group of cabinet ministers and other prominent persons will promote trade and tourism.

Premier Bennett will hold a press conference at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel in Los Angeles April 13, which will be followed by a government luncheon.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Labor-Education Minister Leslie Peterson will speak at the World Affairs Council meeting April 10.

A "tea and crumpets" party for reporters will be held at the Los Angeles Press Club April 13, and the following day Travel Industry Minister Kenneth Kiernan will host a dinner at 20th Century Fox film studios for persons in the travel industry.

Service clubs and other community organizations will also be on the speakers' agenda. More than 150 groups will be visited by 35 speakers, said Ronald Worley, assistant manager of B.C. Ferries, leader of the delegation.

SOVIET SATELLITE DISAPPEARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Soviet communications satellite that was supposed to stay up for years and years has disappeared.

"It's incredible," one U.S. space official said. "It would be contrary to the laws of science for a spacecraft in an orbit to decay unless there were some means of propulsion aboard to change the orbit."

Gibraltar Meeting

LONDON (AP) — Spain has accepted a British proposal to resume talks April 18 on the disputed future of Gibraltar, the foreign office announced Tuesday. The meeting here will be the fifth since the United Nations a year ago called on the two governments to try to reach agreement on the future of the fortress, which each claims as its territory.

Hanoi Aid Urged

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerard Pelletier, Liberal MP for Montreal-Hochelaga, said Monday the time has come for Canada to give official civilian aid to North Vietnam.

If this aid rankles the American government, he said, Canada should damn the consequences because "it is the price to pay for our collective conscience."

NDPer GETS HIS WISH

Manning Agrees to Probe On Impropriety Charges

By KORKY KOROLUK

EDMONTON (CP) — Garth Turcott (NDP—Pincher Creek-Crowsnest) will get the investigation he has asked for in charges of impropriety against the Social Credit government.

Premier E. C. Manning said in the legislature Tuesday the government will introduce a motion for an investigation into the matter, but he did not say when the motion would be introduced or what form the investigation would take.

Mr. Turcott has repeatedly asked for a judicial inquiry into his charges against Municipal Affairs Minister A. J. Hooke and former provincial treasurer E. W. Hinman, who, he said, used or attempted to use their cabinet posts for personal gain.

He also charged Premier Manning with impropriety for introducing a motion last week rebuking Mr. Turcott for his conduct in bringing the allegations into the house.

PRESENTED EXHIBITS

Facing a put-up-or-shut-up ultimatum, Mr. Turcott met a deadline imposed by the house by presenting 54 exhibits he says verify his charges.

Mr. Hooke, 61, a former school teacher, was elected in the Social Credit sweep of 1935. He has been in the cabinet 24 years.

Mr. Hinman, 60, has represented the rural constituency of Cardston in southern Alberta since 1952. He was provincial treasurer from 1955 until 1964 when he was asked by Premier Manning to resign.

In a statement at the time, the premier said Mr. Hinman's private association with the promotion and operation of non-government enterprises was incompatible with the minister's responsibility to his public office. The enterprises were not identified.

Mr. Hinman has remained in the legislature as a backbencher.

MEMBER SATISFIED

Mr. Turcott said outside the house the premier's announcement pleased him.

Opposition Leader Mike Maccagno, also welcomed the statement by Mr. Manning. He said he had a resolution to present to the house if Mr. Manning had not made his announcement.

He has said the situation would best be handled by the legislature committee on elections and privileges. But the house could prorogue as early as Friday, and the committee would thus be dissolved.

Mr. Macagno said if a judicial inquiry is called, then its terms of reference must be broad enough to allow for a complete study and yet narrow enough to prevent a witch hunt.

He also challenged a statement by Mr. Turcott that the other four opposition members —three Liberal and one coalition—had abdicated their responsibility by voting with the government to rebuke Mr. Turcott.

The motion passed 54 to one. Standing in the 63-seat legislature is Social Credit 58, Liberal three, coalition one and NDP one.

Delivery Man Keeps $3.88, Fined $75

A delivery van driver for a Fort Street food store, he was found guilty of keeping $3.88 collected from a customer he delivered an order of chicken to March 2.

Webster had been drinking at the time of the incident, court was told. He first claimed he had not made the delivery and then said he had lost the money.

Cost Higher With Gym

Cost of the new Newton elementary school, originally estimated at $465,108, will rise by $112,924 if the department of education aproves construction of a school gymnasium.

Greater Victoria school board has tentatively agreed on this additional cost with the contractor, W. Campbell Ltd.

The school was originally put out to tender without a gymnasium but relaxation of building restrictions enabled the school board to call for construction of a gym. The whole project is still subject to department of education approval.

Image-Breaking Picture Role For Star of TV

By BOB THOMAS

PATTY DUKE
. . . not for tender minds

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What's Patty Duke doing in the movie Valley of the Dolls?

The question may be asked when fans learn that the star of The Patty Duke Show on television now is starring as the dissolute, pill-chomping singer Neeley O'Hara in the film version of Jacqueline Susann's best seller.

Here's how the character is described in movie ads: "Neely O'Hara—to her, stardom was too many minks, martinis and men."

And there she was portraying a scene under the direction of Mark Robson in which she seduced her press agent, played by Martin Milner. What will her youthful TV followers think when they see her new role?

"I hope they won't see it," she replied. "It's not going to by the kind of picture that tender minds should see."

MUST SHED IMAGE

Patty Duke, 20, a professional actress for 13 years, would like to continue in her craft. To do so, she realizes she must escape the double-images of the teen-age types—she played dual roles—of The Patty Duke Show.

"I liked doing the series in the first couple of years," she said. "Then it was my whole life; I had no romances, I wasn't going to school. And the show was very helpful in getting me over that difficult period for a young performer—the transition from child to grownup roles.

"The third year of the series was a drag. By that time I was married (to TV director Harry Falk) so I had an outside life of my own. I wasn't at all sorry to see the series end."

For almost a year after the show went off the air, Patty experienced something she had never known: a private life.

Carson 'Using Strike' to Get More Money

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Carson's resignation from the Tonight show apparently is a move to set up renegotiation of his $500,000-a-year contract with NBC, network sources indicated today. They said "it seems like a question of more money."

The sources discounted reports that Carson, who quit Tuesday claiming NBC breached his contract in the midst of a performers strike against ABC, CBS and NBC, wanted to abandon the program for personal appearances.

"That's not likely to be the issue," they said. He's making plenty of personal appearances. It just seems he wants to renegotiate for more money."

Carson was not available for comment.

Carson charged through his lawyer that NBC violated his contract by broadcasting reruns of his late-night shows since the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists went on strike against the networks eight days ago. NBC countered that the contract permitted the reruns.

Negotiations to end the walkout remained at a virtual standstill. The strike involves demands by AFTRA that base pay of more than 100 local newscasters at network-owned stations be increased to $25 weekly and that they receive higher commercial fees. The base weekly pay now is $300.

Carson, who has backed the strike, has three years to run on his contract.

The strike has also clouds the fate of the telecast of the Oscar awards of the Motion Picture Academy, scheduled for ABC Monday night.

A decision on the show will be withheld as long as possible but the academy's president, Arthur Freed, indicated the ceremony probably would be postponed unless the strike is resolved.

8 CARD OF THANKS

The gratitude in our hearts cannot be fully expressed. But we want our friends, relatives and neighbours to know how much their kind words and expressions of sympathy meant to us during our recent time of sorrow in the sad loss of our beloved husband and father, Ted Coleman. Special thanks to the nurses and sisters of St. Joseph's Hospital, the Rev. H. R. Whitmore and Sands Funeral Chapel.

—Mrs. Irene Coleman
—Mr. and Mrs. Russell Coleman and Family.
—Mr. and Mrs. A. Koller and Family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

DAWSON—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Walter, who passed away April 5, 1966.

"Memories are like leaves of gold,
They never tarnish or grow old".
—Ever remembered by his loving wife, Mary and Family.

MORRY—In loving memory of our dear son, Ronald Victor, who passed away suddenly April 5, 1965.

Somewhere our love
We will sing songs again
And each new dawn
as it comes up
Will bring us closer to that day.
—Always in our hearts, Dad, Mum and Family.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The play of many no-trump contracts takes the form of a race. The defence races to set up its low card tricks, declarer races to collect enough tricks for his contract before the defence can take over.

Some players would act with the North hand after the spade opening. In general the best policy is to pass. North has 13 high card points but needs a lot of help from his partner if he is going anywhere except down.

Pass

Opening lead—♠Q

East passes and after South reopens with one no-trump North raises his partner to game. West opens the queen of spades and South looks over dummy. He sees at least nine potential tricks but he has to knock out two aces to get them and West has started the race for low card tricks with his queen of spades lead. South sees that West is going to win the race and collect three spades and two aces.

South can count to eight tricks if he attacks hearts. He can count to nine tricks if he attacks diamonds and it turns out that West holds ace and one diamond. He leads to dummy's king, returns a diamond and plays low from his own hand. This play won't work this time because West holds ace-jack-ten.

South still has a way to win the race. Do you see it?

It is a play in two suits. He wins the spade in his own hand and leads a diamond toward dummy. If West goes up, South will make four diamond tricks but West plays the ten or the jack. South wins in dummy and abandons the diamond suit in favor of the hearts. He has one diamond and one spade in and will now make three hearts, another spade and three clubs for the nine tricks he needs to win the race.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The Maple Creek Boys, house band for CTV's Country Music Hall (Channel 8, 9 p.m. Monday), are to have their talents spread across the United States through syndication.

Stephen

Seven Arts Television will syndicate 26 of the current color half-hour episodes. More than 100 half-hour shows have been produced over the past three years.

The show is hosted by U.S. star Carl Smith and features many big country and western names from below but it also represents an outstanding showcase for Canadian talent. Notable among them are Toronto's Maple Creek Boys who appear on a regular basis.

It's official now. ABC-TV has axed Combat, The Phyllis Diller Show, Love on a Rooftop, The Fugitive, The Monroes, F Troop, The Green Hornet, The Time Tunnel, The Avengers and Rango.

The network has also cancelled one-half of the twice-weekly series of Batman. He'll appear on Thursdays only.

ABC-TV has also announced that David Susskind will produce projects for occasional Sunday and Wednesday night appearances to alternate once a month with the movies. The projects include plays such as The Diary of Anne Frank and Dial M for Murder.

In addition Debbie Reynolds and Carol Channing will do several specials apiece in each of the next few seasons. They may eventually make a mistake and end up with their own series.

The National Film Board has made deals with Spain and Portugal television networks for 32 NFB production. The first NFB feature, Drylanders, has also been picked up for showing.

Wayne and Shuster, adding the dimension of color, came up with another palatable show on CBC-TV's Show of the Week.

Among the highlights was the skit of the camp tradition restaurant where everything "is so rotten it's popular" and the Don Gillies dance number with two leggy partners, Betty Hader and Gayle Lepine.

Their "Kwai Me a River" version of the celebrated film Bridge on the River Kwai had some truly inspired comic moments. It's greatest failing was a weak punch line, something not usually associated with W. and S.

By the way, just how long has announcer Herb May been around? It seems forever.

Vancouver Tax Jump

VANCOUVER (CP)—The city council finance committee revealed Tuesday that city and school taxes will jump about seven per cent this year, costing the average homeowner an extra $22. The committee said the increase is needed to balance a record budget totalling $104,500,000 for 1967, up $6,700,000 from the 1966 budget.

Liquor Law Overhaul

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba legislature, in a vote free from party ties, Tuesday night gave overwhelming approval in principle to a major overhaul of the Liquor Control Act. In a 40 to 10 vote, members approved amendments which will permit Sunday drinking with meals in restaurants, brand-name liquor advertising, longer hours of operation for licensed premises and home consumption of home-made beer and wine.

Examination of Blood

WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Alvarez

Someone writes that her doctor has been saying that her blood is down to nine, and she must get it up again. What did the doctor mean by "down to 9"? Apparently, he was thinking of the amount of hemoglobin, or red coloring matter, of the blood.

In a man, the average amount is 15 grams of hemoglobin in a certain small unit of blood, and in a woman, the best figures published show that it is about 13 grams. The measurement of nine grams of hemoglobin in the woman's blood showed that she was anemic.

If a man of 80 were to get his hemoglobin measured and the laboratory man were to find it down around 12, he should not get alarmed because that could be within normal limits for his age. But to make sure that he had no cancer anywhere, he should get his stomach and large bowel X-rayed once every year. Commonly, the earliest symptom of cancer of the stomach or large bowel is a decided anemia.

* * *

An instructive story is that of a physician friend of mine who one day at a picnic, while opening a can of food cut his finger. Looking at the blood that came out of the little wound, he said, "That's the thinnest looking blood I ever saw." The next day when he went to the laboratory, he found he had only about 45 per cent of the normal amount of hemoglobin (about 6½ grams).

He knew then that although he had a perfectly comfortable abdomen, almost certainly he had a cancer of the right side of his large bowel, and sure enough, when he was X-rayed, that is what he had. He had had no loss of weight, no indigestion, no constipation, and no pain. The cancer was quickly removed, and today, many years later, he is alive and well.

* * *

It would be most unwise if a doctor, on getting a report of a very low hemoglobin in a patient, were just to give him some iron, or worse yet, some vitamin B12. Obviously, the first thing to do is to find out why the person is anemic. What the doctor should do is to get a red blood cell count, and then what is called a differential white blood count, made from a stained smear of blood on a glass slide.

If the laboratory man finds that in the blood the percentage of hemoglobin (as compared with normal) is higher than the percentage of red cells, and if the red blood cells under the microscope look bigger than normal and are abnormally full of hemoglobin, he will diagnose a "primary anemia," often called pernicious anemia. This is usually inherited and lasts for a lifetime. The disease can usually be kept under perfect control with a hypodermic injection perhaps once a month of a tiny dose of vitamin B12.

If, however, the percentage of hemoglobin is less than the percentage of red cells, and the cells seen under the microscope are smaler than normal and are pale because of lack of hemoglobin, the doctor will diagnose what is called a secondary anemia — which is due, usually, to the loss of blood somewhere in the body. The doctor whose blood was thin due to a cancer of his large bowel had a secondary anemia.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book tion a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Encyclopedia and of the second ques-

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Alan Faustner, age 10, of Northampton, Pennsylvania, for his question:

Why does a giraffe never utter a sound?

Everybody loves to visit the animals in the zoo. The mighty lion may utter a fearsome roar. The handosme leopard may sneer and snarl. One of the main attractions is the giant giraffe and his stately family. But those gentle giants have nothing at all to say to their visitors.

Many people think that the giraffe is a mute animal with no voice at all. This seems strange, because the voice box and the vocal cords of an animal are in the neck. And goodness knows, the giraffe has enough neck for a dozen or more normal voice boxes. Mr. Skyscraper is the tallest animal in the world and his neck makes up about half of his staely height. When you speak, many of the sounds are molded by your tongue and its muscles. The giraffe has a pliable tongue that measures about a foot and a half. You would think that the gentle giant should be able to utter a wide range of vacal sounds. But most people never hear him say a word.

Zoologists say that a giraffe does have vocal cords in his long neck. But they are somewhat imperfect and undeveloped. Certainly they are not formed well enough to utter a lot of chatty sounds. However, even without proper vocal cords, the giraffe does have a voice. And a few people have heard it. As a rule, the voice is used only in extreme conditions or when absolutely necessary.

Devoted Mother

In the New York Zoological Park, a large giraffe fell sich and was in great pain. Before he died, the zoologists who tried to comfort him heard the poor animal utter several moans and groans. Later, an autopsy was performed on his body. The vocal cords in his long neck were found to be imperfect and quite undeveloped. They seemed unable to produce a voice — yet the giraffe had uttered sounds without them.

Mr. Giraffe is a devoted mother and she often gets upset when Junior strays too far from her side. Reliable observers report that she is more likely to utter sounds than her husband. She calls the young adventurer back to safety with a low mooing sound. The calf giraffe, like all youngsters, tends to get himself into scary situations. He panics. When this happens he may holler with quite a loud voice. The sound he makes is said to be somewhat like the sad wail of a frightened steer.

The natural home of the giraffe is Africa and his mortal enemy is the lion. The tall fellow can see far and wide in all directions. When he spots a prowling lion from afar, he takes off with his family at a graceful gallop. But his greatest danger is at the water hole. In order to dip his head down, he must spread his front legs. This is when a lion, or more likely a team of lions, catch him off balance and pounce. Barring accidents, the giraffe may live 28 years — and he may live all this time without saying a single word.

Horses Make A Parade

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Recent suggestion that there may not be equestrian entries in our Empire Day parade brings nostalgic memories of past 24th of May celebrations and the many horses on show.

Forbes

There were the heavy working Clydesdales, their manes and tails braided with bright colored ribbons and their coats shining from last minute groomings. They clomped proudly along at an even pace, their heads nodding in time with their hoofs.

* * *

There were high stepping carriage horses held frimly in rein by the capable hands of their owners. And there were spirited riding mounts, usually dancing their way through the parade to the music of the bands.

Children "ooh'd" and "aah'd" as these fine animals passed. Teen-agers looked on them with envious eyes and wished they were riding or driving them. Grown-ups discussed the differences in the breeds and spoke proudly of knowing the owners or the trainers.

Horses made past parades a success. Not only here but in every town or city were such processions were held.

Even when automobiles took their place they still continued to be part of the show as equestrian entries grew in importance.

* * *

Back in 1890 when this parade was organized, horses and horse drawn conveyances were the outstanding participants. In fact, the whole idea—in the beginning— was to provide an opportunity for the Valley Hunt Club down there to hold a meet and have a midwinter fete in the old Spanish custom to show off the wonders of the San Gabriel district.

One of the first rules was "that no lady or gentleman, girl or boy, horse or carriage, should appear on the street that day undecorated with flowers, greens or ribbons."

Female riders wore divided skirts for the first time in the 1893 Pasadena parade. They caused much discussion as to whether it was a "natural or a graceful act."

In that same year horse drawn entries were divided for the first time into six-in-hand and four-in-hand turnouts, single teams and equestrian classes. Also, for the first time, floats (all drawn by horses) were entered by various organizations.

Five years later, children were invited to participate with single or double pony and Shetland carts.

* * *

Automobiles made their way into the picture in 1901. Believe it or not, they were put at the rear of the parade so they wouldn't frighten the horses.

However, from then on the emphasis on horse-power began to wane and by the 1920 Tournament of Roses parade, all float units had been motorized with the exception of a traditional entry from the Raymond Hotel featuring its famous white horses.

Equestrian entrants and young people in ponycarts or other novelty rigs were still encouraged. And for another 10 years the Grand Marshal continued to lead the parade on horseback in the customary manner.

* * *

By 1934 rules made it compulsory for all horse entrants to have silver mounted trappings and riders were obliged to outfit themselves in Spanish costumes. These requirements were changed in 1946 to feature the elaborate western outfits so familiar today.

Riders in present day Tournament of Roses parades (there were 250 this year) will spend between $1,500 and $2,000 on their costumes and they average an investment of $10,000 in silver-mounted trappings.

Several families that have appeared in the procession through three and four generations can total many times that figure.

* * *

Down there I don't suppose anyone would think of holding the parade without including horses and riders.

Let's hope this same feeling prevails in plans being made here for current Empire Day celebrations and that we will again see equestrian entries side-stepping and dancing along the parade route to the music of the bands.

MAGISTRATES GET BOOST IN SALARY

This brings his salary to $18,500, while Joseph Byers, his deputy, will receive $17,500 as will Harold Alder, judge of the family and children's court.

Changes were effective April 1.

HOME GARDEN

Plants Suitable for Your Rockery

BYy HILDA BEASTALL

The time has rushed along since the first notice of the rock and alpine show was published in this column.

Hilda

Already four spring weeks have passed, and the show will be held this week.

On Friday and Saturday, the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society will present its annual show in the Memorial Hall of Christ Church Cathedral.

Although the hall adress is Vancouver Street, visitors are reminded that the entrance for the show is on Rockland Avenue, just round the corner. Remembering this may avoid disappointment.

For new gardeners and other visitors who may not have attended this show in previous years, here are a few hints as to the treats in store.

The exhibits in this show are all of growing material. That means all are shown growing in pots or other containers.

Thus we see the true height of such treasures as ferns and dwarf conifers for a rock garden, primulas for a bog garden, and the mat and cushion plants suited to an alpine garden.

There are home garden properties in and around Victoria which, strangely enough combine these various types of terrain with the owners frustrated at the prospect of not having a wide herbaceous perennial border and a fruit garden beyond.

A visit to the rock and alpine show may assist more property owners to play along with nature, planting what is suited to the terrain instead of attempting to grow a given list of plants in unsuitable surroundings.

U.S. Loan for India

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. has authorized a loan of $132,000,000 to food-short India primarily to expand vital farm output, the Agency for International Development has announced. The loan will finance purchases in the U.S. of fertilizers, farm implements, chemicals, steel, pesticides and other items, officials said.

Keep Children Home

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Parents from Monte Lake and Westwold, east of here, kept their children home from school Monday in an effort to have speeds reduced on Highway 97 where it passes schools. A six-year-old school girl was killed on the highway on the day schools closed for the Easter holidays.

4-Month Wait for Lock Boxes As P.O. Awaits New Branches

People wanting a lock mail box at Victoria Post Office will have to wait at least another four months.

Assistant postmaster Dwight Green said this week that postal authorities had a list of 20 residents waiting for a place to pick up their mail, but he said little could be done to alleviate the situation.

"We have two sub-post offices in the works," Mr. Green said. "When they are opened—one at Oak Street and Saanich Road and the other in Oak Bay—we shall have 100 lock-boxes vacant. "It doesn't make economic sense to spend money to install extra boxes in the main office when we know this situation is in the offing."

NONSENSE

The answer didn't make any sense to J. R. Burridge who six weeks ago applied for a lock-box.

"They told me they didn't have a box available and didn't know when they would have one available," he said. "And the assistant postmaster told me the situation had been that way for two years."

Mr. Green admitted that the sub-post offices had been in the planning stage for around two years. He also admitted that although there are hopes that both will be opened some time this year he doesn't really know when.

"Tenders have been called for one of the sub-offices," he said. "But I don't know when construction will start. That decision will be made by the department of public works. We are hoping that one will be opened in August or September of this year—but I can't say for sure."

In the meantime he suggested Mr. Burridge could pick up his mail each morning at General Delivery.

But Mr. Burridge, a real estate salesman, said he wasn't satisfied with that arrangement.

"The excuse that they don't have enough room in that vast building is ridiculous," he said. "There's enough room to operate a bowling alley."

Mr. Green was asked if temporary boxes could be brought in to alleviate the problem until the new sub-offices were built.

He said such a move would be costly and a waste of money.

"Would you spend $1,000 on something today if you knew you wouldn't need it in three months' time?" he asked.

Mr. Burridge countered with the challenge that if the shortage had been tolerated for two years it might continue equally as long unless a protest was made.

"And I intend to make the protest," he said. "All I am requesting is a simple convenience and I am not satisfied that it cannot be provided. I intend to take the matter up with my member of Parliament; not to get a box for myself ahead of anyone else on the list but because the situation is so ridiculous."

Vimy Vets Die After City Reunion

Two men who survived the fighting at Vimy Ridge came to Victoria last week for their regimental reunion and died here within eight days of the anniversary of the famous battle.

J. B. Scobie, 80, of Prince George attended the reunion of the 67th Battalion, Western Scots, Saturday, March 25 and suffered a heart attack.

John Fielding, 92, of Vancouver and formerly a sergeant with the 67th, also died Saturday following a heart attack the same day.

Mr. Fielding was postmaster at Wells for 20 years then retired to Victoria. Five years ago he moved to Vancouver to live with his sister Mrs. Alice Head.

Funeral arrangements are being made today. The 67th will provide pallbearers for their comrades.

Shelties Capture Top Two Trophies

Shelties captured two of three trophies at an obedience trial held Friday by the Greater Victoria Dog Obedience Training Club.

Tina, a sheltie owned by V. N. Young, won the T. M. Jones Cup for the highest score in trial. She earned 193½ points.

The SPCA Cup for a high-scoring dog with a handler of the opposite sex to the winner's went to a sheltie named Flash, owned by Mrs. F. A. Steggles, with 193 points.

A second SPCA cup for the highest qualifying junior handler under 16 went to Ian Hatter, whose cocker spaniel Tammy earned 187½ points.

The trials, with 32 dogs competing, were held at St. George's Church Hall, Cadboro Bay.

A perfect score in the trial is 200 points and a dog must receive at least 170 points to qualify.

Riot Blamed On Hospital Conditions

COQUITLAM (CP)—A Psychiatric Nurses Association official says an early Monday morning riot at Riverview Mental Hospital illustrates the need for more and better facilities at the hospital.

Dave Brown, chairman of the association's labor committee, said Monday there is only enough staff to perform guard duties. The area the patients live in is inadequate and there is a staff shortage, he said.

"Psychiatric nurses are capable of looking after maximum security patients providing facilities are in line with the type of patient confined," said Mr. Brown.

The association has asked the provincial government to establish a royal commission to look into wages and working conditions at provincial mental institutions.

"It's unfortunate that this has happened," Mr. Brown said. "It shows the points our brief to the government made clear."

The trouble arose early Monday morning when a hospital patient apparently attacked a member of the staff. Other patients joined in when they felt the first inmate was being manhandled.

No one was seriously hurt and order was restored two hours later.

McPherson Park Next For City?

Royal Athletic Park will become McPherson Park if Victoria city council endorses a suggestion from the city's parks committee.

Mayor Hugh Stephen made the suggestion Tuesday when the committee was asked to approve a $500 expenditure for a suitable sign to mark the opening of the new park on May 30.

"This does bring up the problem of what we are going to name the park," Mayor Stephen said. "I think we should re-christen the park McPherson Park."

McPHERSON ESTATE

Most of the money for the complete rebuilding job came from the McPherson estate.

Ald. Robert Baird advised caution before the name was changed.

"Maybe the 'Royal' means a great deal to some people," he said.

"The suggestion for a name change was first made in the Times," Mayor Stephen answered. "Since it was first suggested there have been no letters of protest and no telephone complaints."

A check of city records by parks administrator Herb Warren revealed no particular event which gave the park its first "royal."

NO REASON

"It is just one of those things," he said. I haven't been able to find any specific reason for it.

One council member, Ald. Ian Stewart, agreed that council should consider the proposed name-change but said he had personal reservations about it.

"I want to keep my mind open on it, he said. "It just doesn't have the right ring for me at present. Maybe after a good night's sleep it will sound better.

Vanier Stamp

OTTAWA (CP) — A special commemorative stamp honoring the late Governor-General Vanier will be issued Sept. 15, the anniversary of the day in 1959 when he took his oath of office, Postmaster-General Cote announced Tuesday. Details on design and color of the stamp were not announced.

in the committees. These rumors should and must stop," he said.

Dr. Taylor also said he only recently became aware of the "apprehension and feeling of insecurity" that he has been told exists among younger faculty members.

"Whether or not there are justifiable grounds for such feelings, the apprehensions do exist."

He said an equally important sign of the deep unrest on campus is the feeling among some intermediate and senior faculty that the university "is in gravest danger. This has been conveyed to me in the most forceful terms."

Dr. Taylor said the current controversy has "seriously impaired" the creative work of faculty members.

"So serious is this situation, in fact, that a number of colleagues have indicated that, if the turmoil generated during this past year continues, it is not the kind of academic community with which they wish to be associated."

WHOLE QUESTION

Dr. Taylor said a solution to present problems must be found and he announced the formation of a special committee of inquiry to examine the whole question of the renewal of contracts.

He said this committee, which will include junior faculty members, will work through the summer on a full-time basis.

I will, among other things, recommend a "better and more comprehensive statement of criteria for the evaluation of colleagues for re-appointment."

He also announced the setting up of another committee, which will include two students as well as faculty representatives, to "keep me informed of matters of concern to all parts of the academic community."

He said such a committee will mean "I should be alerted to situations before they become major issues or problems."

JEOPARDIZE FUTURE

Dr. Taylor said the past cannot be undone by any demonstration, sit-ins or boycotts but the future may be jeopardized by them.

He appealed to students "to join with the faculty and myself in working rapidly toward the kind of university all of us want."

Students opened their discussion of the matter immediately after President Taylor's lengthy speech and the meeting was continuing at press time.

Bomb Hoax Means School Holiday

Victoria Senior Secondary school was vacated Monday afternoon after a telephone caller said a bomb had been placed on the premises.

Principal Duncan Lorimer said he knew it was a hoax but decided to let students go home because "you can't gamble with 1,400 lives."

The building was searched by police and firemen as a precaution but nothing was found. Police are investigating.

Flow of Gas Threatened B.C. Town

It began early in the day when a bulldozer accidentally fractured a 12-inch natural gas line in a creek bed on the western edge of the town.

The line had a pressure per square inch of 800 pounds and one spark could have blown the town and its 450 people into oblivion.

RCMP Constable Orville Underhill became a one man army, sending out emergency calls to highway crews, pipe crews, and engineering experts in Vancouver. He halted highway traffic and warned motorists not to smoke, and set up a telephone network to warn all of the townspeople, most of whom were aware of the danger. The escaping gas and water created a 200-foot high geyser that could be heard up to two miles away.

The town's small business section closed down until the danger was over and 100 children were evacuated from an elementary school.

The ruptured pipe was finally repaired and the town returned to normal.

Falkland is located between the interior cities of Kamloops and Vernon. Its gas line is operated by Inland Natural Gas Company and serves several communities in B.C.

U.S. TO MEET RUSS TO DISCUSS FISH PACT

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—United States Coast Guard and Bureau of Commercial Fisheries officials have agreed to meet Evgenly Gromov, commander of the Russian fishing fleet operating off Alaska, the coast guard said Tuesday.

They will discuss the 12-mile United States-Soviet fisheries agreement that went into effect March 15. No date was set.

Planners to Push Changes

Among those attending the convention of the Planning Institute of B.C. are Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell and Dame Evelyn Sharp, retired permanent undersecretary at the housing and local government ministry in the United Kingdom.

He said one of the main topics for discussion will be a brief the institute presented the government last year, dealing with suggested changes to the Municipal Act and principles that should be behind revision of the act.

The brief said there is a lack of co-ordination "between many elements in total growth," that capital budgeting should be tied to community development plans and subdivision regulations should be overhauled.

Five members of the Saanich planning department will attend the weekend meeting.

Polyurethane insulation . . . the rocket-age insulation that needs only a thin wall . . . now in the entire 1967 Viking line! You'll enjoy more storage per outside dimensions whichever Viking model you buy. And this is just the beginning of the all-new story! Everywhere inside is frost-free. "Positive Cold" continually sweeps refrigerated air into every cubic inch of space. Glide-out or cantilevered shelves give extra convenience on all "Imperial" models, and bins are positioned for maximum efficiency, have porcelain enamelled finish for easier cleaning. "Dial" butter conditioner, removable door bars, egg basket—there is no end to new Viking convenience! Indeed, feature-for-feature Viking, in this Centennial or any other year, is Canada's best refrigerator value.

Decorator-minded? Eaton's Appliance Services will paint your new Viking refrigerator to the exact shade you desire. All our paint specialist needs is a sample of the colour you want duplicated. It can be the accent shade in a floor tile pattern, a fabric, a cupboard door, the tone of a wall plaque . . . or choose one of the modern shades on our paint colour chart. Phone 382-7141, Local 256, and ask for an estimate.

Featured Side-by-Side Viking has frost-free, individually controlled refrigerator and freezer sections. Note door racks for tinned juices, bottles, packages; 2 porcelain enamelled crispers; slide-out freezer basket. Model 227S2 has 22 net cu. ft. capacity (there's room for 329 lbs. in the 9.4 cu. ft. freezer.) White, each 749.95. Coppertone is 10.00 extra.

Fish Boat Grounded; All Crewmen Rescued

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Nine crew members of the grounded and sinking 72-foot Canadian halibut boat Dollina were rescued by U.S. Coast Guard helicopter today from the southwest tip of Kodiak Island.

Coast guard headquarters here said the helicopter took the men to the coast guard Loran station on Sitkinak Island. They were to be flown by plane from there to Kodiak.

The master of the Dollina, Hank Wisse, sent an SOS last night reporting his ship was aground and breaking up in Sitkinak Strait.

Wisse said four of the crew managed to get into a liferaft, but it drifted away before the five others could board it. The raft later was spotted by a coast guard search plane on the beach after a flare was shot in the air.

The coast guard said that besides Wisse the only other crewman identified was the engineer, Ray Karjala.

What caused the boat to go aground about 110 miles southwest of Kodiak was not known.

The Dollina is owned by Norman Fiddler of Vancouver.

THIEU READY TO MEET WITH HANOI LEADER

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu said today that if North Vietnam sincerely wants peace he would be willing to meet with President Ho Chi Minh, at the demilitarized zone.. But before any meeting can take place, Thieu said, there must first be a ceasefire and Communist assurances they will not take advantage of it by infiltrating more men and war supplies into the south.

4 Canadians Win Sweep Fortunes

B.C. Bachelor Gets $150,000

By The Canadian Press

A 28-year-old Vancouver bachelor was one of four Canadians who won prizes of $150,000 each today in the Irish Sweepstakes.

There were seven winners of $60,000 and another seven won $30,000 with third-place tickets.

Ross Hodgkins, a credit department employee for an oil company, was the only prize winner in B.C.

"I'm numb," he said when he learned he was one of the four Canadians with tickets on Ben Novus, winner of the Lincolnshire Handicap in Doncaster, England.

"I hoped to have a three or four-week holiday before going back to work."

Mr. Hogkins, who came to Vancouver a year ago from Toronto, said he plans to invest his winnings.

Nine Vancouver Islanders drew tickets in the Sweepstake' But none won prizes.

Each, however, will receive about $1,300, the award made to those with non-starters or horses which finished out of the money.

Of the 278 Canadians whose tickets were drawn on the race, four live in Victoria, two at Ladysmith, two at Port Alberni and one at Campbell River.

More Aid Urged For Natal

VANCOUVER (CP)—A special session of the B.C. Legislature to provide higher compensation and pensions for victims and survivors of the Natal mine explosion was urged today by Liberal Leader Ray Perrault.

"Money is not going to bring back those whose lives were snuffed out," he said. "But decent compensation rates would enable the widows who have been left behind to raise their youngsters and maintain themselves in reasonable dignity."

Premier Bennett announced Tuesday the government will give $25,000 to a fund set up to help the miners' families, which include about 20 children.

The Workmen's Compensation Board said widows would get monthly pensions of $122.04 plus amounts ranging from $42.45 to $53.06 for each child. Compensation for injured miners will depend on the extent of injury and disability.

The Natal disaster fund committee met today to discuss arrangements for the collection of donations for the families of the 15 miners killed.

TAX-DEDUCTIBLE

At the urging of James Byrne, member of parliament for Kootenay East, the fund has been registered as a tax deductible charity.

Committee officials said donations are being received from across Canada, including Springhill, N.S., scene of Canada's worst mine disaster.

Three Crows Nest Industries Ltd. employees have offered a day's pay and it was understood other miners in eastern B.C. are considering similar contributions.

APPEALED TO PREMIER

Mines Minister Donald Brothers announced the donation, saying he made a personal appeal to Premier Bennett for provincial assistance.

Mr. Brothers, who arrived at Crows Nest Industries Ltd.'s

CLEAR BARRICADES

British Dodge More Grenades

Times News Services

ADEN—Arab nationalists hurled grenades and fired on British troops in strikebound Aden today as soldiers cleared barricades from narrow streets in the old Arab district of Crater, part of Aden township.

One Arab was wounded by shots aimed at British forces in Crater, scene of the worst violence in the last three days, but there were no British casualtis.

The troops occupied the market square and moved through crowded, twisted streets in a hunt for terrorists. No casualties were reported from scattered bombing incidents elsewhere in Aden.

Th South Arabian port remained in the grip of a general strike since Saturday, and a broadcast from neighboring Yemen said the nationalists planned to continue it until Sunday.

Since Arab extremists stepped up their clashes with British and South Arabian federal troops Monday, five Arabs have been killed and 15 wounded. Twelve British soldiers and three policemen have also been wounded.

PROTEST UN MISSION

Two rival nationalist groups are protesting the visit of a UN mission studying problems of independence for the Federation of South Arabia—12 sheikdoms and sultanates with Aden as the hub. Britain has promised independence by next year.

Thirty attacks on British forces were reported Tuesday, less than one-third as many as occurred Monday.

But a spokesman for the three-man UN mission said it would proceed with its program "irrespective of the situation."

Open rivalry was developing between the nationalist groups and there were reports of bitter street fights amang them.

TOWARD UN

Thant Raps Hanoi Attitude

GENEVA (AP) — United Nations Secretary - General U Thant said today there is an increasing danger the war in Vietnam may extend beyond its borders.

Addressing a luncheon of the foreign correspondents in this Swiss city, Thant said:

"Prospects for peace in Vietnam today are as distant as they were a year ago."

"I may also add that because of the increasing intensification of the war there is a greater danger today of the conflict widening into a larger war going beyond the frontiers of Vietnam."

Thant came here for consultations with the administration of the UN European headquarters. He is to leave this weekend for Ceylon and a tour of Asia.

The secretary-general said North Vietnam's attitude has made it virtually impossible for the UN to continue any active mediation in the conflict.

"When the government of North Vietam decided to allow its representative to receive me in Burma a few months ago they made it very clear to me that the meeting was arranged because of personal considerations, and not because I am the secretary-general of the United Nations.

"In their view the United Nations has no role to play in Vietnam, and their representative talked to me not as the secretary of the United Nations, but as an Asian who understands what it means to struggle for the independence of one's country."

WITH LOTS OF AMBITION

It's A Go-Go Cabinet With Accent on Youth

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—A sizeable dose of youthful bounce has been injected into the federal cabinet with Prime Minister Pearson's latest appointments.

In an era when many seem obsessed with the age of political leaders, almost half of the members of the Liberal administration are now under 50 and two are in their thirties.

The accent was again on youth Tuesday but the new appointments involve more than a mere attempt to lower the average age of the cabinet.

Mr. Trudeau is a bilingual Montreal lawyer with an excellent reputation as an intellectual and scholar in political science, economics and constitutional law.

NON-CONFORMIST

A bit of a non-conformist, the new justice minister is as at-home in a pair of jeans and sandals as the more dignified raiment associated with a former law professor.

Then there is John Turner who at 37 has had more than a year in the cabinet and now has his own portfolio as registrar general.

Also a bilingual lawyer and a bachelor from Montreal, Mr. Turner is a dynamo of restless energy who is in great demand on the political speech-making circuit.

He is a handsome, ambitious young man whose whole appearance suggests he was cut from the cloth of the Kennedy era.

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Canadian High Commissioner Roland Michener, named Tuesday as Canada's new Governor-General, is expected to fly to Ottawa April 12, Canadian officials said here today.

They said the Canadian government probably will send a Yukon aircraft to fly him home for the installation ceremony.

The 66-year-old former speaker of the House of Commons is due to fly to Katmandu Sunday or Monday to take leave of Nepalese King Mahendra, to whose government he was accredited as ambassador.

Later he will take leave of Indian President Sarvapalli Rakhakrishnan and the diplomatic corps in New Delhi where he represented Canada as high commissioner for the last 2½ years.

Michener told reporters that his installation should take place as soon as possible because of the urgent work awaiting him and his wife welcoming visiting dignitaries to Expo '67, which opens April 28.

Indications are he will be sworn in April 17.

FOR ANTI-QUEBEC STATEMENTS

Colleagues Blast Outspoken Grit MP

OTTAWA (CP)—Spearheaded by Auguste Choquette, sharp protests were made in the weekly caucus of Liberal MPs today over statements last week by Ralph B. Cowan, member for York-Humber.

Mr. Cowan had accused Prime Minister Pearson in a public speech of making false statements, of being a weak leader and of giving in to any extreme demands by French-Canadians.

Informants said the issue was hotly discussed but no decision was reached to take any action against Mr. Cowan.

Mr. Choquette, member for Lotbiniere, said he remains opposed to the views of Mr. Cowan "and I'm sure all Liberals agree these views are going against the basic principles of the Liberal party."

Mr. Cowan acknowledged to reporters that his colleagues took some notice of his speech last Friday to the Bulldog Party, a group opposed to bilingualism, but said no action was to be taken against him.

He was asked whether differences with Mr. Pearson on this issue would prompt him to leave the party and he replied: "I was born a Liberal and I'll die a Liberal.

Mr. Pearson was present at the meeting at which a number of members bitterly attacked Mr. Cowan's action. Afterwards, he told reporters: "I've become accustomed to Mr. Cowan's outbursts."

ONLY survivor of the massacre of eight nurses in Chicago last summer, Corazon Amurao, walked today to within two feet of the accused killer, Richard Speck, and, with her finger pointed at him, said: "This is the man." Earlier in the Peoria trial she told how the killer awoke her on the night of the murders.

WIRE BRIEFS

Big Fertilizer Plant

EDMONTON (CP) — Plans for construction of a fertilizer manufacturing plant to cost more than $50,000,000 near Redwater, 26 miles northeast of here, were announced today by Imperial Oil Limited.

Talks at Crisis Stage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Teamsters' union negotiations with major U.S. truckers were reported at the "crisis stage" today. One source predicted the next 48 hours would determine whether half a million union members would go on strike across the U.S.

Shaw Pleads Innocent

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Businessman Clay Shaw, erect and outwardly calm, pleaded innocent today to charges that he conspired to assassinate President John F. Kennedy in 1963.

River Collision

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The U.S. Coast Guard said the West German motor vessel Tantzen collided with a barge in the Mississippi River near here today. Fourteen persons aboard the Tantzen were removed.

Nine Perish in Blaze At College Residence

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Nine persons—eight students and a faculty adviser—died today in a fire that swept a Cornell University residence hall in the pre-dawn hours.

Eleven other persons, eight of them girl students, suffered from smoke inhalation but none was considered in serious condition.

Among the dead students were three who were taking part in a six-year experimental course for top-ranked freshmen seeking doctorate degrees.

A university spokesman said the two - storey, cinder-block building on the edge of the city near the campus housed 71 persons, including 55 in the experimental program.

The cause of the fire was not determined. Firemen said it apparently began in the basement.

The bodies were discovered in hallways, rooms and in the lobby.

Sheets dangling from modern, horizontal paned windows indicated an escape route used by more than a score of the students.

A policeman among the first on the scene told a reporter there was no fire visible from the outside of the building but "people were hanging out of all the windows."

SCISSORS TREATMENT FOR DUTCH BEATNIKS

AMSTERDAM (AP)—Some 120 Dutch sailors and marines stormed into Amsterdam's central station hall Tuesday night, rounded up scores of beatniks who were annoying passengers and gave them all military-style haircuts.

At the sound of a navy whistle the servicemen sealed off the hall as four police stood by and laid into the beatniks with belts.

DETECTIVES CONFER WITH N.Y. POLICE, FBI

Montreal Worried by Gangland Visits

NEW YORK (CP)—Two detectives from the Montreal police department conferred with New York police experts and the FBI Tuesday on a renewed influx into Canada of racketeers believed connected with the Mafia.

This problem has long plagued Canadian police and is believed especially acute now with the world's fair in Montreal scheduled to open later this month.

RCMP Commissioner George B. McClellan said recently that U.S. racketeers took over the Montreal underworld by the mid-1950s, but were driven out by concerted police action.

The visit of the Montreal detectives, not identified, was officially described as one aimed at developing a closer liaison between local Canadian police departments, the RCMP and enforcement agencies in New York.

The Canadian police officials arrived here Monday. Their discussions also included meetings with officials of the customs bureau, the office of U.S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau and the New York City police department's criminal investigation bureau.

A U.S. government official said that the Canadian police report that more and more U.S. underworld figures are visiting Montreal and Toronto regularly.

MEET IN HOTELS

These gangland figures meet in hotels and nightclubs, and in some instances the meetings have included Canadian underworld figures.

But in Toronto, top law enforcement officers denied there is an influx of U.S.-based Mafia hoodlums to the city.

"There is no decided change in the Mafia situation in Toronto or Ontario," said Herbert S. Thurston, adviser to the Ontario Police Commission.

Chief Superintendent J. G. C. Downey, commanding officer of the Toronto Division of the RCMP, agreed that there was no Mafia influx to Toronto.

Big-time gambling and the vending and juke-box business are believed to be involved in the Canadian underworld operation.

Canadian officials want law enforcement agencies in New York to furnish quick identificainto and backgrounds on visiting American racketeers. Canadian police are said to feel that while relations between Canadian enforcement agencies and New York authorities have been cordial they have not been as close as the Canadian police would like.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

Prices had turned weak after the opening when the private forecast was made public. The Kansas statistician said he estimated the 1967 wheat crop in Kansas to total 168,000,000 bushels. The five-year average crop in Kansas has totaled 232,000,000 bushels.

The advance of wheat had some effect on corn and soybeans.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange today was featured by the broad revival of export interest in several commodities.

Oilseeds received most of the attention with reports that 12,600 tons of rapeseed were sold during the past few days and believed destined for Morocco. The wheat board's action in extending delivery quotas on rapeseed and flax aided this development.

Oilseeds disclosed fairly liberal hedging sales in early trade which were absorbed by export interest developing on declines.

Most prices were firm to higher or at least moved in a narrow range.

Back Strike Action

AURORA, Ont. (CP)—Eighty employees of the Aluminum Co. of Canada here have voted to strike within two weeks to back demands for higher wages.

A spokesman for the United Steelworkers of America union said the Aurora workers are paid on a scale 42 per cent lower than at a similar plant in Kingston.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Bank Stocks Stage Surge

Bank stocks surged higher on the Toronto stock exchange today following an announcement by Toronto-Dominion that it plans to split its shares on a 5 for 1 basis subject to shareholder approval.

The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce Tuesday joined the Bank of Montreal in reducing its prime interest rate on loans to 5¾ per cent from six per cent.

Nova Scotia was up 1⅜ to 76⅝, Montreal 1⅛ to 66⅞, Royal 1 to 81 and Toronto-Dominion ½ to 68. Imperial-Commerce eased ¼ to 71½.

AT TORONTO industrials moved sharply higher. MacLaren A climbed 3 to 28, Consolidated Textile 2¼ to 8½, Fraser 2 to a high of 28, CPR 1½ to a high of 70½ and Clairtone 1⅜ to 76⅜.

AT NEW YORK gains of fractions to a point or better were scattered through the list.

Airlines, steels, aerospace isues, electronics, non-ferrous metals, drugs and building materials advanced. Xerox gained seven and Polaroid four. Scientific data lost about 4½. Sperry Rand, a fractional loser, paced the list on volume. Great Western Financial, up more than a point, was active. Two-point gainers included Eastern Air Lines, Owens-Illinois Glass, Zenith and Boeing.

AT MONTREAL the market increased its gains today. Banks led the rally, four issues winning more than a point. Montreal was up 1½ at 67, Royal 14 at 81 and Nova Scotia 1⅛ at 76⅝, all in active trading. Toronto-Dominion stood one point higher at 68.

CPR advanced 1⅛ points to 70 following Tuesday ennouncement of gains in net income for 1966. Canada Iron and Oil each added ½ at 21 and 24¼, respectively. B-A Oil regained Tuesday's loss of one point to trade at 34⅝, up one point.

Dollar stocks were mostly lower with the premium. BA Oil was off 3 points. Other soft spots included International Nickel and Consolidated Paper.

Canadian Husky was firmer. Brazilian Light and Power was in demand after the 1966 earnings figures. Royal Bank of Canada was a firm exception among a soft group of Canadian banks.

AT VANCOUVER Pacific Pete gained .50 to a new high of $13.25 in pre-noon trading.

Trading was heavy in the mining section, with Galaxy and Copper Ridge both reaching new highs on substantial volumes. Galaxy was up .02 at .52 on 442,000 shares and Copper Ridge jumped .09 to .50 on 218,000 shares.

Western Mines was .20 stronger at $4.55 and Buttle Lake lost .03 to a new low of .47.

Losses also went to Kamloops, off .04 at .22, and Rolling Hills, down .05 at .36.

CP Companies Show Income Expansion

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Pacific Railway Co., Canadian Pacific Air Lines Ltd. and Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. have all reported expanded operations and income in 1966.

A three-part annual report showed that income of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., the parent organization, was $48,300,000 compared with $41,500,000 in 1965.

The income, from railway and miscellaneous sources, was totalled after fixed charges. The figures also include income from CPA.

Net earnings of the parent company and Canadian Pacific Investments amounted to $6.06 a share, an increase of 48 cents or about eight per cent over the previous year.

Consolidated income of Canadian Pacific Investments amounted to $42,000,000 compared with $41,900,000 the previous year. Earnings per share were unchanged at $2.93.

Of the total income, $20,100,000 was received by the parent company and paid to ordinary shareholders as additional dividends of $1.40 a share, the same as in 1965.

After payments of $3,400,000 in preferred dividends, the 1966 income from the railway and miscellaneous sources of the parent company amounted to $3.13 for each share, compared with $2.65 in 1965.

Arthur Mayse

With car-bopping now in top position among our blood sports, I'm not prepared to argue against the curbside suspension of those who may have bent too free an elbow.

What concerns me more is the danger that with this rather mild traffic safety measure in operation, we may decide all's well on the blacktop.

It isn't, and I don't think it will be until we have dealt with some other persistent threats to the life and limb of those who use the public roads.

The burgher spurring his box of squirrels home from the four-drink party is only one contributor to a picture that demands improvement. Even when we find a way to deal effectively and permanently with that frightful menace, the habitual souse, there will still be plenty of obstacles to street and highway safety.

Some of the hazard-makers I have in mind are revealed as such only after the windshields have splintered. Others are perfectly apparent, but through lack of funds or interest, go uncorrected.

One of these is the intersection which, innocent though it may seem, holds a reputation as a car (and people) buster. You'll find just such a bad spot where Cook crosses Hillside. For reasons nobody appears to have established, let alone acted upon, a left turn there has bought many a driver heavy trouble.

The Pat Bay crossing at Royal Oak is no longer a hair-raiser, but when can we expect the ill-banked wiggle on West Saanich Road below the Observatory to be given the treatment it requires?

That one has killed, and could again.

If you drive this Island much, you undoubtedly have your own list of death-traps, ranging from the overgrown hedge that masks a suburban corner to several stretches of what we have been assured is a first-class highway north.

One of my pets is the spectacular rock near the Malahat summit — the one that pokes like a prow between roadway and viewpoint turn-in.

If you look close enough, you may descern a hasty paint splash against its unyielding bulk. On a misty night, or in the glare of bronco high-beams, a car could ram that chunk or shoot past on the wrong side to almost certain disaster.

As a further reminder that safety programs call for more than exhortation and the lifting of an occasional set of car-keys, let me point out that this area and the public roads of Vancouver Island are policed far more sketchily than they should be.

What use the hootchmeter — for what it's worth — when you can drive for miles in Greater Victoria, and for hours on the Trans-Canada and Island Highway without spotting a recognizable patrol vehicle?

If we want safe driving, we'd better be prepared to spend more on our policing!

In almost 16 years here, I have never been required to put a car through any testing more thorough than a mobile crew could apply. Some day, I suppose we'll have compulsory testing conducted in a station built for that purpose.

But when that time will come, I have no idea, and its unlikely that your MLA is any wiser on the subject.

To our lengthening list of hazard-makers, we can add yet another.

This is the noxious type of advertising that does its best to transform the automobile from a useful servant into a symbol of power, pride and rebellion.

But let's not forget the sober mope ambling at 25-an-hour in a 60-mile zone, or yon collision-scarred tree with several scalps to its credit.

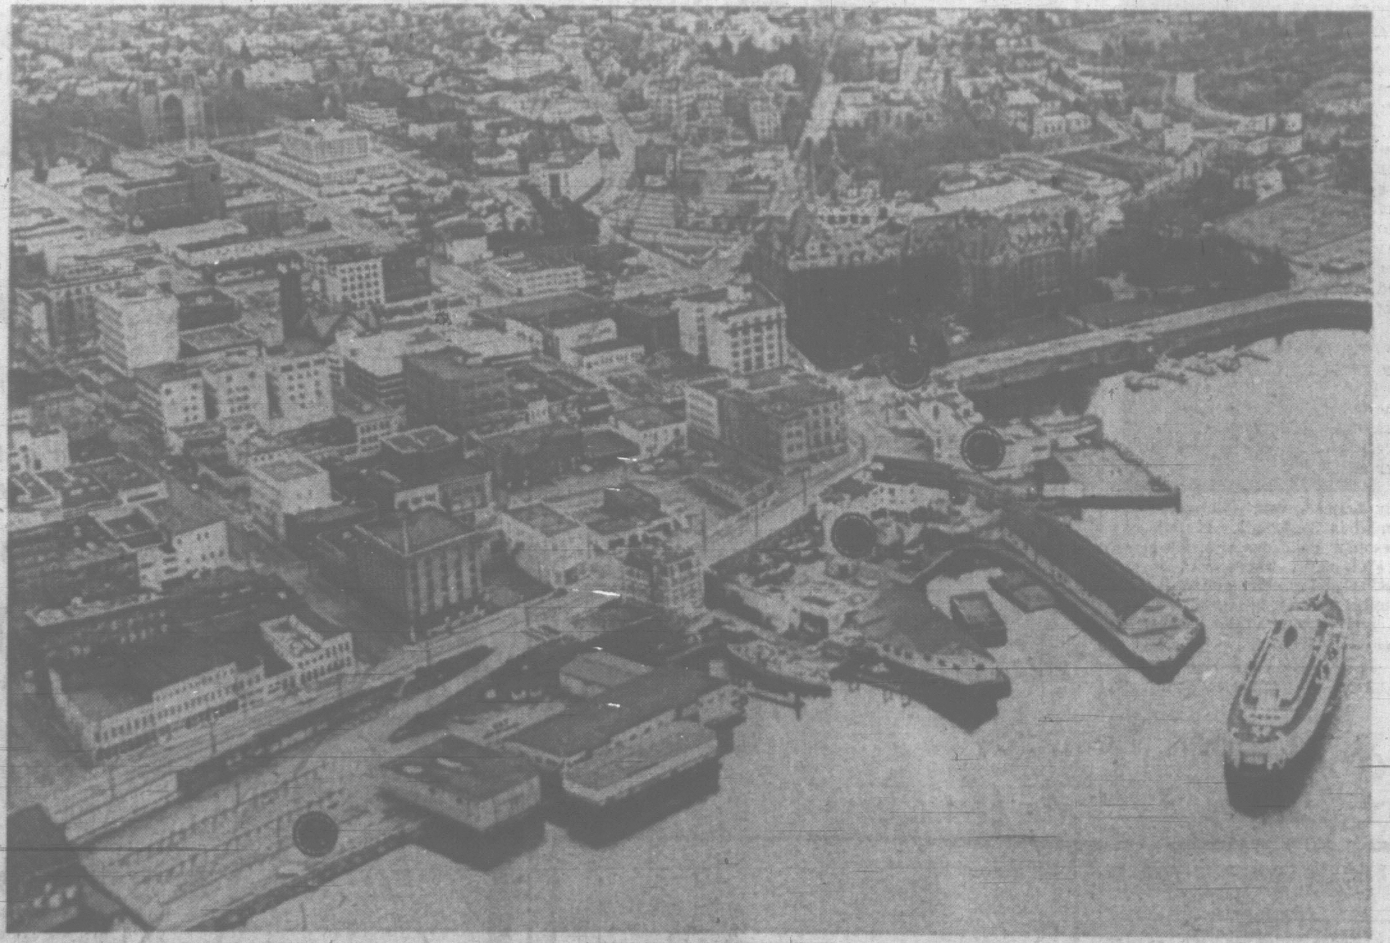
Big Plans Discussed For Harbor

Convention Hall, Motel In Waterfront Proposal



MAJOR TRANSFORMATION of Victoria's famed Inner Harbor will be brought about if new master plan materializes. Left to right the black dots show: Parking lot beside HMCS Malahat, which would be site for big hotel; Ocean Cement, Ltd., premises, which would move to make way for convention centre; Black Ball ferry wharf, which would be moved across harbor, and Imperial Oil service station at corner of Wharf and Government which bow to promenade and view point.

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

The plan, still in the "thinking" stage, provides for:

- A convention centre on the site now occupied by Ocean Cement Ltd. behind the old post office (now customs) building.
- A new waterfront hotel on the site now used as a parking lot between the old HMCS Malahat and Bastion Square.
- A complete revamping of the provincial government property now used as a ferry terminal by the Black Ball ferry line.
- The conversion of the site owned and occupied by an Imperial Oil service station at the corner of Government and Wharf Streets into a promenade and view point.

City planner Geoff Greenhalgh refused to comment on the proposal other than to say "it would be a wonderful idea."

He declined to say at what stage the proposal was at present, but the following facts are known.

IN FIVE YEARS

Ocean Cement will move from its present waterfront site within the next five years.

Tentative plans have already been drawn for a major hotel on adjacent property.

Preliminary negotiations have already taken place to acquire the Imperial Oil property anchoring one end of the Causeway.

The plan to build a convention centre on the Ocean Cement site is far from new. It was originally mooted some years ago by the Regional Planning Board with detailed sketches prepared depicting what the area would look like once the proposals were augmented.

At that time it was described as the key to the rehabilitation of the entire area from the Causeway to Johnson Street Bridge.

Planners, both local and regional, still look with favor on the scheme although both groups shy away from comment at present.

If the plan wins favor, and indications today are that it will, the cement plant site would provide 4.2 acres for the convention centre building plus adequate parking.

It would also, said the original planners, be linked with covered walkways to the Causeway, the Empress, the under-construction provincial museum and the Legislative Buildings.

Other advantages would be a spectacular Inner Harbor viewpoint, close proximity to downtown shopping and the stimulation of rapid development between the Causeway and Bastion Square.

PROMENADE

Development of the north end of the Causeway would tie-in with the now old proposal to build a water-level promenade below the existing Causeway and plans to build a modern motor-hotel on the ferry terminal now used by Canadian Pacific steamships.

The motor-hotel proposal was first advanced about a year ago. It envisioned more than 80 units for accommodation, a clock-tower, stores and dining room and cocktail lounge facilities.

Like the proposed convention centre it would utilize existing wharf structures to permit expansion without gobbling up vital shoreline acreage.

"STILL ALIVE"

Mr. Greenhalgh would not comment on the present stage of the motor-hotel development other than to say "it is still alive."

Plans for the waterfront hotel on Wharf Street are also well known.

On several occasions Mr. Greenhalgh has stated that wherever the convention centre is built he is confident that its presence would rapidly bring another major hotel in its wake.

It is also known that the master plan calls for the removal from the Causeway area of ferry docking facilities.

The over-all scheme calls for new docking facilities to be built between the existing CPR wharf and the British America Paint plant with enough space for both the CPR and the Black Ball line.

Taylor Orders Inquiry On Contract Renewals

Committee to Work Through Summer On Better System of Evaluations

By DESMOND BILL

President Malcolm Taylor announced today formation of a special committee of inquiry to look into the University of Victoria's handling of contract renewals for faculty members.

He told a rally of students that "the past cannot be undone by any demonstration, sit-ins or boycotts but the future of the university can be jeopardized by such actions".

He appealed to the students to join with him and the faculty to work for the kind of university "all of

The students met at lunch hour in the climax to the current crisis over the non-renewal of contracts for three popular and controversial teachers.

They have been talking about a boycott of classes to protest the ouster of Dr. Charles Tarlton, J. S. Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie.

The university has never officially given the reasons for the decision not to renew their contracts.

A meeting of almost the entire Uvic faculty Tuesday considered the question of whether the reasons should now be given but did not press the point.

One faculty member proposed the reasons should be given but later withdrew his motion, apparently with the support of the majority of faculty members present.

Dr. Taylor said every question raised by faculty members at the meeting "was dealt with" and there was "no ban on any discussion that the faculty wanted."

'A DISASTER'

However, Dr. Richard Powers, an assistant political science professor who attended the meeting, afterwards circulated an open letter in which he said it was "a disaster."

He said he had been led to expect it would result in full disclosure of the circumstances surrounding the crisis but not only was no disclosure made, none was apparently desired by faculty.

Dr. Powers said the faculty "failed to respond to the clear challenge presented to it."

"With ignorance of the past, what light can be thrown on the future?" he asked.

Students' Council met Tuesday night and approved several resolutions for possible presentation to today's rally.

One asked for the resignation of Arts and Science Dean A. J. Wood because he allegedly impugned the characters of the dismissed faculty members "by implication" and also "failed to justify his actions" at Tuesday's faculty meeting.

24-HOUR SIT-IN

Council also approved a tentative resolution suggesting a 24-hour sit-in outside the administration offices in the Education-Arts Building, to protest the failure to give reasons for the refusal to re-hire the instructors.

However it was up to student leaders to decide at today's meeting whether these resolutions should be put to the vote of the students.

In a statement prepared for delivery at today's meeting, Dr. Taylor referred to rumors that have circulated recently on campus about the men whose contracts were not renewed.

STOP RUMORS

"There is no question of moral turpitude in respect of any one of these men. Neither the committee nor myself have any evidence reflecting on their characters whatsoever and no such suggestion was ever raised

Good Support For Chamber In Saanich

A general meeting of Saanich businessmen interested in forming a chamber of commerce will be held later this month.

Spokesman Ken Hole said all interested persons "business and otherwise" are being invited to attend the meeting Tuesday April 25 at 8 p.m. in the Red Lion Motor Inn.

Mr. Hole said it is hoped to establish at the meeting:

1. The interest in forming a chamber;
2. Those willing to join;
3. If there is sufficient interest, appointment of an executive committee to continue organizing a chamber.

Mr. Hole was recently appointed to conduct a canvass of businessmen and reported today "almost unanimous support" for starting a Saanich Chamber of Commerce.

Two Trawlers Picketed By Fishermen

Two pickets are maintaining a vigil over two trawlers tied up at the foot of Yates Street in the continuing strike by coastal fishermen.

Most of the boats are based in Vancouver and Prince Rupert, but six are idle in Victoria involving about 20 men.

The fishermen are on strike for a catch-sharing agreement with the vessel owners.

The pickets said there is no fish in any of the boats.

EXPO SKATER HAS TROUBLE IN INTERIOR

A pulled leg muscle has temporarily halted the progress of 20-year-old Chris Price of Victoria who is now en route to Montreal on roller skates.

The skater is in Salmon Arm Hospital but plans to continue as soon as he has recovered, said his mother, Mrs. Frank Price of 3965 Quadra.

His skates are withstanding the journey very well, said Mrs. Price. Her son phones his home every other night to report progress.

Racing Fans Take Petition To Vancouver

The petition signed by 865 citizens will be submitted to a meeting of the B.C. Racing Commission by Margaret MacIntosh, 4023 Holland, and Denis Knight, 3462 Tillicum.

"We haven't been invited to appear before the commission, but we are going anyway," said Mrs. MacIntosh. "We want racing to continue at Sandown Park."

The meeting was called by commission secretary Ken McConnell in an attempt to reach a settlement between the Jockey Club and North Saanich.

REFUSED TO PAY

The club applied to transfer Sandown's 17 days of racing after refusing to pay North Saanich a $150 daily licence fee and to improve fire and sanitation facilities as required by the municipality.

Mrs. MacIntosh said the petition was raised in less than a week.

'SOMETHING WRONG'

"When Mr. McConnell said he had received only 60 letters from Vancouver Island residents supporting racing, we felt something was wrong," she said. "We knew there were thousands of people interested in racing here."

She said in another week, they would have collected more than 2,000 names on the petition.

Help Arrives For Fire-Hit Reserve Family

Baby Suffers Burns As Heater Explodes

Gifts of clothing and bed linen are already coming in for a family which lost its Patricia Bay Indian Reserve home in a fire Tuesday afternoon.

Some private gifts of clothing have been made and the Red Cross this morning sent out a parcel of blankets, sheets, towels, pillow cases and clothing vouchers for the father and mother.

TOYS, KITS

Mrs. Charles Smith, 507 Downey Road, started the drive to provide clothing, furniture and household goods for Mr. and Mrs. David Bill and their children Clara aged 4, Junior aged 3 and Robin, 18 months.

INFANT BURNED

Robin suffered second degree burns in the fire which firemen think started when an oil heater exploded.

Mr. Bill was at work as a farm hand and Mrs. Bill was just outside the house at about 2:30 p.m. when the fire started. Mrs. Bill rushed into the house and brought out Robin who suffered second degree burns and is now in hospital.

The family is staying with Mr. Bill's father, Gus Bill.

ONLY NEW HOUSE

The new house was not finished inside and the shell had only been completed last autumn. It was the only new house on the reserve and it was not insured.

Mrs. Smith, who has taken an interest in the plight of the family, said furniture and other household items are badly needed.

Some clothing for the children has already been donated but the family needs much more.

Mr. Bill is a size 38 and his wife a size 18.

New Minimums For Elevator, Laundry Workers

Two new minimum wage orders were announced today by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

Existing minimum wages are $1 an hour with lesser amounts in the first three months of employment.

The new order raises this to $1.10 an hour effective June 5 and to $1.25 an hour effective Nov. 1. The reduced rates for the first three months have been eliminated.

Fleet Employee Nabs Shoplifter Following Chase

Police said a store employee saw the accused stuff the $19.95 raincoat under his coat and leave the store. He was chased, caught and turned over to the police.

Weatherall, who said he took the coat so he would look smart while going after a job, had $44.75 in his possession when arrested.

Ask The Times

Q. In 1962 in Victoria I met some people from Sunland, California and I am anxious to get in touch with them. Can you tell how I might find out if they are still living there? Also what is the address of Lawrence Welk?—A. F. S.

A. For your friends' address, you might write to the Sunland newspaper, the Sunland-Tujunga Record-Ledger, Sunland, California. Who's Who in America gives Lawrence Welk's address as 2444 Wilshire Boulevard, Santa Monica, Calif.

Q. Every morning about 7:45 a jet flies over Victoria going northwest. Where is it going, where does it come from and what time does it leave? G.R.

A. A department of transport spokesman at Victoria International Airport said it could be one of two. Pacific Northern Airlines flight 725 is bound for Anchorage about then, so is North Western Airlines flight 11. Both leave Seattle-Tacoma airport about 7:20 a.m.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

CANADA GIVEN HAYWIRE LOOK AT VICTORIA BY MAGAZINE

Oh Come Off It! Take Another Look at Us

BY PETE LOUDON

Dear City Fathers:

Why not invite Macleans magazine to come back and take another long look at Victoria?

An article in the current issue states:

"The city's principal centennial projects are the Confederation Garden Court on Signal Hill, the combined museum, archives, library, auditorium and art gallery (still abuilding)—and the 300-foot aluminum skydeck observation needle soaring above the picture postcard harbor."

Now you know and we know, although the rest of Canada may never know it now, that the city and district's main centennial project is a sports stadium at University of Victoria.

But there's no auditorium in sight. And we've had our art gallery for years.

The Confederation Garden is still a patch of rock at the corner of Belleville and Menzies (due for unveiling July 1). But it isn't a centennial project. It's part of the Capital Improvement District Commission's long term scheme. Signal Hill is in Esquimalt.

And the harbor observation needle idea was a dream that died months and months and months ago, right?

We can forgive Macleans these errors. We've been known to make a couple ourselves. But then the magazine makes the biggest mistake of all.

It writes us off as a city of 55,000 with a reputation of being "A Little Bit of Old England, all hoary with ivy and tradition, with its spiritual headquarters in the baronial Empress Hotel."

And we all know that's malarkey.

Is it for this that we make civic grants to publicity bureaus?

The Old England bit faded years ago when we began to emulate a Little Bit of the New U.S. complete with high-rise apartments, shopping centres, marinas, discotheques, drive-ins, traffic problems, hospital bed shortages, cocktail bars and LSD.

We don't say it's all good, but it's us.

With a population of 170,000 we are the 13th largest metro area in Canada. We are a lovely retirement city rich in fine homes and beautiful gardens, but progressive and modern.

Let's see to it that we are represented abroad with honesty. Let's invite Macleans back for another look. We're tired of being made to look silly!

More Aid Urged For Natal

VANCOUVER (CP)—A special session of the B.C. Legislature to provide higher compensation and pensions for victims and survivors of the Natal mine explosion was urged today by Liberal Leader Ray Perrault.

"Money is not going to bring back those whose lives were snuffed out," he said. "But decent compensation rates would enable the widows who have been left behind to raise their youngsters and maintain themselves in reasonable dignity."

Premier Bennett announced Tuesday the government will give $25,000 to a fund set up to help the miners' families, which include about 20 children.

The Workmen's Compensation Board said widows would get monthly pensions of $122.04 plus amounts ranging from $42.45 to $53.06 for each child. Compensation for injured miners will depend on the extent of injury and disability.

The Natal disaster fund committee met today to discuss arrangements for the collection of donations for the families of the 15 miners killed.

TAX-DEDUCTIBLE

At the urging of James Byrne, member of parliament for Kootenay East, the fund has been registered as a tax deductible charity.

Committee officials said donations are being received from across Canada, including Springhill, N.S., scene of Canada's worst mine disaster.

Three Crows Nest Industries Ltd. employees have offered a day's pay and it was understood other miners in eastern B.C. are considering similar contributions.

APPEALED TO PREMIER

Mines Minister Donald Brothers announced the donation, saying he made a personal appeal to Premier Bennett for provincial assistance.

WITH LOTS OF AMBITION

It's A Go-Go Cabinet With Accent on Youth

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A sizeable dose of youthful bounce has been injected into the federal cabinet with Prime Minister Pearson's latest appointments.

In an era when many seem obsessed with the age of political leaders, almost half of the members of the Liberal administration are now under 50 and two are in their thirties.

The accent was again on youth Tuesday but the new

There is Pierre Elliot Trudeau, a well-heeled 46-year-old bachelor, who took over the traditional Quebec prestige post of justice minister from retiring Lucien Cardin.

Mr. Trudeau is a bilingual Montreal lawyer with an excellent reputation as an intellectual and scholar in political science, economics and constitutional law.

NON-CONFORMIST

A bit of a non-conformist, the new justice minister is as at-home in a pair of jeans and sandals as the more dignified raiment associated with a former law professor.

Then there is John Turner who at 37 has had more than a year in the cabinet and now has his own portfolio as registrar general.

Also a bilingual lawyer and a bachelor from Montreal, Mr. Turner is a dynamo of restless energy who is in great demand on the political speech-making circuit.

He is a handsome, ambitious young man whose whole appearance suggests he was cut from the cloth of the Kennedy era.

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Canadian High Commissioner Roland Michener, named Tuesday as Canada's new Governor-General, is expected to fly to Ottawa April 12, Canadian officials said here today.

They said the Canadian government probably will send a Yukon aircraft to fly him home for the installation ceremony.

The 66-year-old former speaker of the House of Commons is due to fly to Katmandu Sunday or Monday to take leave of Nepalese King Mahendra, to whose government he was accredited as ambassador.

Indications are he will be sworn in April 17.

Fishboat Grounded; All Crewmen Rescued

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Nine crew members of the grounded and sinking 72-foot Canadian halibut boat Dollina were rescued by U.S. Coast Guard helicopter today from the southwest tip of Kodiak Island.

Coast guard headquarters here said the helicopter took the men to the coast guard Loran station on Sitkinak Island. They were to be flown by plane from there to Kodiak.

The master of the Dollina, Hank Wisse, sent an SOS Tuesday night reporting his ship was aground and breaking up in Sitkinak Strait.

Wisse said four of the crew managed to get into a liferaft, but it drifted away before the five others could board it. The raft later was spotted by a coast guard search plane on the beach after a flare was shot in the air.

The coast guard said that besides Wisse the only other crewman identified was the engineer, Ray Karjala.

What caused the boat to go aground about 110 miles southwest of Kodiak was not known.

The Dollina is owned by Norman Fiddler of Vancouver.

11 Extremists Nabbed in Raids

BERLIN (UPI)—West Berlin police today arrested 11 German leftwing extremists on charges they were plotting to assassinate United States Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey when he visits Berlin Thursday.

Police said they raided the homes of the alleged plotters — most of them students — and uncovered proof of the conspiracy along with weapons.

The announcement said the group "plotted against the life and health of the U.S. vice-president by means of bombs, plastic bags filled with chemicals and other dangerous objects such as stones."

The police roundup took place after unconfirmed reports circulated in Berlin that extreme leftists were getting tear gas bombs from the Communist Chinese in East Berlin to use against the visiting Humphrey.

Western officials earlier Wednesday had ordered tight security measures after West Berlin leftist students called for demonstrations against Humphrey.

Humphrey arrived in the West German capital of Bonn today for talks with West German government leaders before going on to Berlin Thursday.

The leftist students scheduled an anti-American rally to protest against the Vietnam war, outside the Charlottenburg Palace where the city of West Berlin is to give a reception for Humphrey Thursday evening.

ONLY survivor of the massacre of eight nurses in Chicago last summer, Corazon Amurao, walked today to within two feet of the accused killer, Richard Speck, and, with her finger pointed at him, said: "This is the man." Earlier in the Peoria trial she told how the killer awoke her on the night of the murders.

B.C. MAN GETS $150,000

4 Canadians Win Sweep Fortunes

By The Canadian Press

A 28-year-old Vancouver bachelor was one of four Canadians who won prizes of $150,000 each today in the Irish Sweepstakes.

There were seven winners of $60,000 and another seven won $30,000 with third-place tickets.

Ross Hodgkins, a credit department employee for an oil company, was the only prize winner in B.C.

"I'm numb," he said when he learned he was one of the four Canadians with tickets on Ben Novus, winner of the Lincolnshire Handicap in Doncaster, England.

"I hoped to have a three or four-week holiday before going back to work."

Mr. Hodgkins, who came to Vancouver a year ago from Toronto, said he plans to invest his winnings.

Nine Vancouver Islanders drew tickets in the Sweepstake' But none won prizes.

Each, however, will receive about $1,300, the award made to those with non-starters or horses which finished out of the money.

Of the 278 Canadians whose tickets were drawn on the race, four live in Victoria, two at Ladysmith, two at Port Alberni and one at Campbell River.

CLEAR BARRICADES

British Dodge More Grenades

Times News Services

ADEN — Arab nationalists hurled grenades and fired on British troops in strikebound Aden today as soldiers cleared barricades from narrow streets in the old Arab district of Crater, part of Aden township.

One Arab was wounded by shots aimed at British forces in Crater, scene of the worst violence in the last three days, but there were no British casualtis.

The troops occupied the market square and moved through crowded, twisted streets in a hunt for terrorists. No casualties were reported from scattered bombing incidents elsewhere in Aden.

Th South Arabian port remained in the grip of a general strike since Saturday, and a broadcast from neighboring Yemen said the nationalists planned to continue it until Sunday.

Since Arab extremists stepped up their clashes with British and South Arabian federal troops Monday, five Arabs have been killed and 15 wounded. Twelve British soldiers and three policemen have also been wounded.

PROTEST UN MISSION

Two rival nationalist groups are protesting the visit of a UN mission studying problems of independence for the Federation of South Arabia—12 sheikdoms and sultanates with Aden as the hub. Britain has promised independence by next year.

Thirty attacks on British forces were reported Tuesday, less than one-third as many as occurred Monday.

But a spokesman for the three-man UN mission said it would proceed with its program "irrespective of the situation."

Open rivalry was developing between the nationalist groups and there were reports of bitter street fights amang them.

TOWARD UN

Thant Raps Hanoi Attitude

GENEVA (AP) — United Nations Secretary - General U Thant said today there is an increasing danger the war in Vietnam may extend beyond its borders.

Addressing a luncheon of the foreign correspondents in this Swiss city, Thant said:

"Prospects for peace in Vietnam today are as distant as they were a year ago."

"I may also add that because of the increasing intensification of the war there is a greater danger today of the conflict widening into a larger war going beyond the frontiers of Vietnam."

Thant came here for consultations with the administration of the UN European headquarters. He is to leave this weekend for Ceylon and a tour of Asia.

The secretary - general said North Vietnam's attitude has made it virtually impossible for the UN to continue any active mediation in the conflict.

"When the government of North Vietam decided to allow its representative to receive me in Burma a few months ago they made it very clear to me that the meeting was arranged because of personal considerations, and not because I am the secretary-general of the United Nations.

"In their view the United Nations has no role to play in Vietnam, and their representative talked to me not as the secretary of the United Nations, but as an Asian who understands what it means to struggle for the independence of one's country."

Talks at Crisis Stage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Teamsters' union negotiations with major U.S. truckers were reported at the "crisis stage" today. One source predicted the next 48 hours would determine whether half a million union members would go on strike across the U.S.

DETECTIVES CONFER WITH N.Y. POLICE, FBI

Montreal Worried by Gangland Visits

NEW YORK (CP)—Two detectives from the Montreal police department conferred with New York police experts and the FBI Tuesday on a renewed influx into Canada of racketeers believed connected with the Mafia.

This problem has long plagued Canadian police and is believed especially acute now with the world's fair in Montreal scheduled to open later this month.

RCMP Commissioner George B. McClellan said recently that U.S. racketeers took over the Montreal underworld by the mid-1950s, but were driven out by concerted police action.

The visit of the Montreal detectives, not identified, was officially described as one aimed at developing a closer liaison between local Canadian police departments, the RCMP and enforcement agencies in New York.

The Canadian police officials arrived here Monday. Their discussions also included meetings with officials of the customs bureau, the office of U.S. Attorney Robert M. Morgenthau and the New York City police department's criminal investigation bureau.

A U.S. government official said that the Canadian police report that more and more U.S. underworld figures are visiting Montreal and Toronto regularly.

MEET IN HOTELS

These gangland figures meet in hotels and nightclubs, and in some instances the meetings have included Canadian underworld figures.

But in Toronto, top law enforcement officers denied there is an influx of U.S.-based Mafia hoodlums to the city.

"There is no decided change in the Mafia situation in Toronto or Ontario," said Herbert S. Thurston, adviser to the Ontario Police Commission.

Chief Superintendent J. G. C. Downey, commanding officer of the Toronto Division of the RCMP, agreed that there was no Mafia influx to Toronto.

Big-time gambling and the vending and juke-box business are believed to be involved in the Canadian underworld operation.

Canadian officials want law enforcement agencies in New York to furnish quick identification and backgrounds on visiting American racketeers. Canadian police are said to feel that while relations between Canadian enforcement agencies and New York authorities have been cordial they have not been as close as the Canadian police would like.

THIEU READY TO MEET WITH HANOI LEADER

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu said today that if North Vietnam sincerely wants peace he would be willing to meet with President Ho Chi Minh, at the demilitarized zone. But before any meeting can take place, Thieu said, there must first be a ceasefire and Communist assurances they will not take advantage of it by infiltrating more men and war supplies into the south.

Nine Perish in Blaze At College Residence

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Nine persons—eight students and a faculty adviser—died today in a fire that swept a Cornell University residence hall in the pre-dawn hours.

Eleven other persons, eight of them girl students, suffered from smoke inhalation but none was considered in serious condition.

Among the dead students were three who were taking part in a six-year experimental course for top-ranked freshmen seeking doctorate degrees.

A university spokesman said the two - storey, cinder-block building on the edge of the city near the campus housed 71 persons, including 55 in the experimental program.

The cause of the fire was not determined. Firemen said it apparently began in the basement.

The bodies were discovered in hallways, rooms and in the lobby.

Sheets dangling from modern, horizontal paned windows indicated an escape route used by more than a score of the students.

A policeman among the first on the scene told a reporter there was no fire visible from the outside of the building but "people were hanging out of all the windows."

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

An elected official we know has been talking to everyone he sees about the need for more money for hospital construction . . . and where to get it.

He says, "A great number of people I talk to say to charge only $1 per day co-insurance is nuts."

He adds, "Nobody can live at home for $1 per day."

Is it logical that the public, as well as paying for the patient's hospital treatment, should also pay his keep, he asks. He proposes the rate should be $3 per day, dropping to $1 if the illness extends beyond a month.

During 1966 Royal Jubilee, the largest city hospital, chalked up almost 170,000 patient days. If the province permitted hospitals to boost the per diem charge as suggested there would be $1 million every three years for hospital expansion at that rate.

People would object of course. Don't make the patient pay they'll say. Make the province pay or make Ottawa pay. But doesn't it hold true that federal, provincial and municipal governments all get their funds from the same taxpayers?

Regardless which level of government puts up the money, if more money must be spent on hospitals the man on the street is going to be required to cough it up — one way or another. Perhaps having the patient pay for his own groceries would avert a tax boost. You'd be surprised how many people think that way, says our friend.

For years Victoria city health department has sent inspectors to check on sanitation in local eating places. But who ever checks on the automatic coffee and soup vending machines scattered through the city? The question has been raised by local health officials. A full-scale probe of cleaning processes and the handling of equipment is in the offing.

Now, if they'd just take the time to add a glance toward public and business and industry biffies . . .

Just for the heck of it, we asked 16 people if they used seat belts when driving in town. Only five said yes. Our curiosity was inspired by the U.S. National Safety Council report that half of all injuries occur in cars travelling less than 40 miles per hour. And half of all traffic deaths occur within a 25-mile radius of home. And that's what we tell people who smile when they see us cinching ourselves in when we go to the corner store.

A friend says he watched a commissionaire waiting to pounce on a car as the parking meter was running out of minutes.

Out of fellow feeling he stepped forward and popped a penny or two into the meter.

"You shouldn't have done that," the commissionaire told him.

"Why not?" he asked.

"Because it's not your car," the commissionaire replied. If we all took that attitude what would happen to community chest?

FOR ANTI-QUEBEC STATEMENTS

Colleagues Blast Outspoken Grit MP

OTTAWA (CP)—Spearheaded by Auguste Choquette, sharp protests were made in the weekly caucus of Liberal MPs today over statements last week by Ralph B. Cowan, member for York-Humber.

Mr. Cowan had accused Prime Minister Pearson in a public speech of making false statements, of being a weak leader and of giving in to any extreme demands by French-Canadians.

Informants said the issue was hotly discussed but no decision was reached to take any action against Mr. Cowan.

Mr. Choquette, member for Lotbiniere, said he remains opposed to the views of Mr. Cowan "and I'm sure all Liberals agree these views are going against the basic principles of the Liberal party."

Mr. Cowan acknowledged to reporters that his colleagues took some notice of his speech last Friday to the Bulldog Party, a group opposed to bilingualism, but said no action was to be taken against him.

He was asked whether differences with Mr. Pearson on this issue would prompt him to leave the party and he replied: "I was born a Liberal and I'll die a Liberal.

Mr. Pearson was present at the meeting at which a number of members bitterly attacked Mr. Cowan's action. Afterwards, he told reporters: "I've become accustomed to Mr. Cowan's outbursts."

"My heart goes out to all the families of the dead and injured," he said. "At the present time we have no idea what caused the explosion and the mine is still full of gas."

"It's a miracle there was anybody alive."

Mayor Jack Leslie of Calgary said today city council will be asked Monday to offer financial aid to Natal residents.

"If a headquarters for donations has not already been set up, the city will set one up to provide a point where Calgarians wishing to give personal donations may do so," he said.

OTTAWA ALSO HELPING

The federal government announced Tuesday it is also considering aid for the victims' families. Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons there was sorrow and regret at the mine disaster, but did not indicate the size of the donation the government is considering.

Reeve Orlando Ungaro of nearby Sparwood, one of five directors of the inter-provincial fund, said he is pleased with the B.C. government's response.

Other directors of the fund are Mayor Vernon Uphill of Fernie, B.C., and the mayors of Coleman, Blairmore and Bellevue in Alberta. The coal-rich Crowsnest Pass straddles the Alberta-B.C. border and several of those killed and injured came from the Alberta side.

A mass funeral will be held Friday at 10:30 a.m. MST for six of the victims in St. Michael's Roman Catholic church in Natal.

Private services will be held for the other victims.

Meanwhile, two of the 10 injured miners were reported to have been transferred from the hospital in nearby Michel to Calgary and Vancouver. One of the injured was released from hospital Tuesday.

Only 11 of the 59 men scheduled to work today showed up as the others apparently took another day off to mourn the deaths of their fellow workers. Relatives of the victims are not expected to return to work until after the funeral.

The draw brought a total of about $1,230,000 in prizes to Canadian holders of tickets on the three top horses. In addition, 260 other Canadian tickets were drawn on the 50 other horses eligible for the Doncaster race. Of these, only 24 started today.

The sweepstakes on the Lincolnshire was the first of three held each year in the international lottery. The other two are based on the Irish Derby in July and the Cambridgeshire Handicap in October.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

A low pressure area off the Washington coast is moving slowly southward today. Cloud and showers over southwestern B.C. produced by the disturbance will gradually dissipate today as a ridge of high pressure once again dominates the B.C. weather pattern. Generally sunny skies are expected on Thursday over the province with patchy low cloudiness along the coast.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange today was featured by the broad revival of export interest in several commodities.

Oilseeds disclosed fairly liberal hedging sales in early trade which were absorbed by export interest developing on declines.

Most prices were firm to higher or at least moved in a narrow range.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Bank Stocks Stage Surge

Bank stocks surged higher on the Toronto stock exchange today following an announcement by Toronto-Dominion that it plans to split its shares on a 5 for 1 basis subject to shareholder approval.

The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce Tuesday joined the Bank of Montreal in reducing its prime interest rate on loans to 5¾ per cent from six per cent.

Nova Scotia was up 1⅜ to 76⅝, Montreal 1⅛ to 66⅞, Royal 1 to 81 and Toronto-Dominion ½ to 68. Imperial-Commerce eased ¼ to 71½.

AT TORONTO industrials moved sharply higher. MacLaren A climbed 3 to 28, Consolidated Textile 2¼ to 8½, Fraser 2 to a high of 28, CPR 1½ to a high of 70½ and Clairtone 1⅜ to 76⅜.

AT NEW YORK gains of fractions to a point or better were scattered through the list.

Airlines, steels, aerospace isues, electronics, non-ferrous metals, drugs and building materials advanced. Xerox gained seven and Polaroid four. Scientific data lost about 4½. Sperry Rand, a fractional loser, paced the list on volume. Great Western Financial, up more than a point, was active. Two-point gainers included Eastern Air Lines, Owens-Illinois Glass, Zenith and Boeing.

AT MONTREAL the market increased its gains today. Banks led the rally, four issues winning more than a point. Montreal was up 1½ at 67, Royal 14 at 81 and Nova Scotia 1⅛ at 76⅝, all in active trading. Toronto-Dominion stood one point higher at 68.

CPR advanced 1⅛ points to 70 following Tuesday announcement of gains in net income for 1966. Canada Iron and Oil each added ½ at 21 and 24¾, respectively. B-A Oil regained Tuesday's loss of one point to trade at 34⅝, up one point.

Dollar stocks were mostly lower with the premium. BA Oil was off 3 points. Other soft spots included International Nickel and Consolidated Paper.

Canadian Husky was firmer. Brazilian Light and Power was in demand after the 1966 earnings figures. Royal Bank of Canada was a firm exception among a soft group of Canadian banks.

AT VANCOUVER Pacific Pete gained .50 to a new high of $13.25 in pre-noon trading.

Trading was heavy in the mining section, with Galaxy and Copper Ridge both reaching new highs on substantial volumes. Galaxy was up .02 at .52 on 442,000 shares and Copper Ridge jumped .09 to .50 on 218,000 shares.

Western Mines was .20 stronger at $4.55 and Buttle Lake lost .03 to a new low of .47.

Losses also went to Kamloops, off .04 at .22, and Rolling Hills, down .05 at .36.

CP Companies Show Income Expansion

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Pacific Railway Co., Canadian Pacific Air Lines Ltd. and Canadian Pacific Investments Ltd. have all reported expanded operations and income in 1966.

A three-part annual report showed that income of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., the parent organization, was $48,300,000 compared with $41,500,000 in 1965.

The income, from railway and miscellaneous sources, was totalled after fixed charges. The figures also include income from CPA.

Net earnings of the parent company and Canadian Pacific Investments amounted to $6.06 a share, an increase of 48 cents or about eight per cent over the previous year.

Consolidated income of Canadian Pacific Investments amounted to $42,000,000 compared with $41,900,000 the previous year. Earnings per share were unchanged at $2.93.

Of the total income, $20,100,000 was received by the parent company and paid to ordinary shareholders as additional dividends of $1.40 a share, the same as in 1965.

After payments of $3,400,000 in preferred dividends, the 1966 income from the railway and miscellaneous sources of the parent company amounted to $3.13 for each share, compared with $2.65 in 1965.

Net operating income of CPA was $8,000,000 against $6,400,000 the previous year.
